highly commendable. His efforts to make Meja green and his act of performing the Kanyadaan (giving away of daughters in marriage) for 51 girls is a virtuous deed like a great sacrifice. In the same vein, Meja Surendra Pratap Yadav and ACP Meja SP Upadhyay also shared their thoughts on this occasion. Present on the occasion were Vishwa Hindu Parishad District President E. Nityanand

Upadhyay, Meja Road Police Station In-charge Sudhir Pandey, Teachers' Association President Manish Tiwari, Meja Public School Director Amresh Tiwari, Vineet Shukla, Hemant Dubey, Shivam Dubey, and Om Prakash Mishra, among others, along with a large number of disabled people, widows, elderly people, and common citizens.

Voter Revision Campaign Gains Momentum, Concerns Rise as SIR Forms Fail to Reach Many Households

Akhand Bharat Sandesh

Ghazipur. Amidst preparations for the assembly elections, the special voter list revision campaign launched by the Election Commission has now gained momentum. Door-to-door verification of voters is underway in the area, but during this process, several citizens have complained that they have not yet received the SIR form. In many families, some members received the form while others did not, leading to confusion among the people.

According to sources, voters whose SIR forms were not available with the BLOs were missed during the distribution. This is why some voters are still waiting for the form. However, the Election Commission has extended the last date for submitting SIR forms in six states, including Uttar Pradesh, providing relief to the people and further accelerating the pace of voter list revision. In view of the complaints, the concerned officials have clarified that those who have not received the SIR form need not worry. All such eligible citizens can directly fill out Form 6 and get their names added to the voter list. Officials have assured that upon submission of Form 6, the names of eligible voters will be included in the list without any hindrance. Form 6 is easily available at the district BLO office, local tehsil premises, and with the concerned BLOs in the area. Due to the extension of the deadline, interested citizens can now fill out this form as soon as possible and complete the process of inclusion of their names. The administration has appealed to the general public that no eligible person should be deprived of the right to vote. All citizens should fill and submit Form 6 in time so that every eligible voter can ensure their participation in the upcoming elections.

Editorial

Tax terror and India's same-sex couples

These gaps are not just about money; they appear in moments of crisis. Research on discrimination in Indian hospitals has shown that queer people are often denied recognition of their chosen partners as next of kin. In emergencies, this can mean being refused entry to an intensive care unit (ICU) or being blocked from giving consent for urgent treatment. The Surrogacy (Regulation) Act of 2021 and the Assisted Reproductive Technology (Regulation) Act, 2021 go further, excluding same-sex couples from surrogacy and restricting adoption to single individuals or married heterosexual couples. In effect, the laws treat them as incapable of raising a child together, no matter their stability or commitment. Employment rules reinforce the same pattern. In government service, Leave Travel Concession (LTC), medical reimbursement, and family pension benefits are tied to a recognised spouse. Private companies may choose to extend coverage, but the default language in most HR manuals mirrors the government's. Studies of India's insurance sector show that traditional group health insurance schemes frequently exclude same-sex partners, and even where some progressive companies extend coverage, it is not guaranteed by law. The Employees' Provident Fund allows broader nominations, but pension rules under the Employees' Pension Scheme, 1995 limit eligibility to spouses or children. Even when a company accepts a same-sex partner as a nominee, it is a discretionary gesture, not a right protected by law. Immigration policy adds another layer of instability. A foreign national married to an Indian citizen can apply for a dependent visa or be registered as an Overseas Citizen of India, but same-sex partners cannot. They rely on tourist or business visas that require regular renewals, creating a constant risk of separation if paperwork lapses or rules change. These are invisible forms of insecurity that heterosexual couples rarely have to confront. The lack of recognition also weakens legal protections when relationships end. The Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005, while covering women in domestic relationships, leaves uncertainty about its application to same-sex couples. Maintenance and alimony provisions in personal laws and the Criminal Procedure Code apply to spouses, shutting out partners who may have been financially dependent for years. Without these remedies, breakups can mean abrupt eviction, loss of shared assets, and no legal recourse. India's own courts have already recognised that families do not fit a single template. In the Deepika Singh v. Central Administrative Tribunal judgment, the court observed that such atypical manifestations of the family unit.

are equally deserving not only of protection under law but also of the benefits available under social welfare legislation. Legal scholars have warned that ignoring these exclusions perpetuates a silent inequality. As Gautam Bhan and Arvind Narrain argue in Because I Have a Voice: Queer Politics in India, queer lives in India are erased not only through criminal laws, but also through the civil law regime that denies them the right to marry, nominate a partner, and other benefits that heterosexuals are entitled to. These quiet denials accumulate into a systemic injustice. All of these examples show that the absence of marriage recognition is not neutral. It actively produces disadvantages across tax policy, property rights, healthcare access, child-rearing, employment benefits, immigration, and personal security. It creates a quiet hierarchy where only one kind of couple is rewarded by the law, while others must navigate life as if the state refuses to admit they exist. There is a way to reduce this harm without waiting for the larger question of marriage equality to be resolved. Legislatures and ministries can amend definitions in existing laws, replacing the word 'spouse' with gender neutral terms like 'partner' or 'cohabiting partner'.

Leaves little chance of building a strong, centralised state

This creates a dynamic balance of power, but leaves little chance of building a strong, centralised state. What really matters is how these groups see themselves—and that depends on the local context. For instance, in Iran, they rally Sunni opposition to a Shi'a theocracy, sometimes with Pakistani support. However, in Pakistan, they mobilise ethnonationalist resistance to an Islamic state, occasionally with Iranian backing. India, unlike the US, is directly involved in the region, but Balochistan's uncertain and unstable and liminal status still attracts global powers, reinforcing its complexities. To understand the Indian angle better, I would argue its relevance at both tactical and strategic levels. Tactically, perceived Indian support for Baloch forces could stretch Pakistani military capacity, limiting its ability to project power along the Indian border—a posture sometimes described as "offensive defence." Strategically, Balochistan is a transit corridor between Afghanistan and Chabahar. Therefore, it becomes central to India's ambition to establish an alternative route to Central Asia that counters China's Belt and Road Initiative. This vision mirrors the China-Pakistan

Economic Corridor (CPEC), which positions Balochistan as a link between Xinjiang and Gwadar. But the latter utility of Balochistan remains limited too. At present, there are only two conceivable ways to use it as a transit region—colonisation, through top-down development, or integration, via local empowerment. Needless to say, both pathways remain complex. Resistance to externally-led colonisation is fierce in the region. Baloch fighters routinely sabotage connectivity projects. In my discussions with British, Turkish, and Iranian experts, a common concern emerged: while infrastructure projects promise investment and better living standards, they usually rely on foreign workers and offer little benefit to local people—appearing instead like a new kind of colonisation. There is yet another issue that complicates Balochistan's connectivity potential.

Investment in connectivity threatens the transborder smuggling economy that sustains the region. Afghan opium, ephedra-based amphetamines, Iranian diesel, Russian arms, and human trafficking. Regular state armies are frequently entangled in smuggling and other informal networks that sustain frontier politics and economy.

Land record portal to water atlas

To amplify outreach, we engaged PR professionals to leverage social media platforms like X and Meta aligning with PM Modi's innovative communication strategies and Nitish Kumar's focus on public engagement. This has educated Biharis on land rights, driving transparency and participation, much like the state's successful awareness campaigns for schemes like Saat Nishchay. On 7 May this year, Bihar, under Nitish Kumar's visionary Jal-Jeevan-Hariyali Mission, became the first Indian state to launch the Gazetteer-cum-Atlas of Water Bodies, mapping over 550 rivers, 4,500 wetlands, and 1.06 lakh ponds with Unique Identification Numbers (UIDs). This initiative, inspired by water body depletion in Darbhanga, supports PM Modi's Jal Jeevan Mission and Viksit Bharat's sustainability goals, as well as Nitish Kumar's environmental agenda. Enriched with historical, socio-economic, and environmental data, the atlas aids anti-encroachment efforts, plans new ponds in water-scarce areas, and strengthens water conservation.

It aligns with PM Modi's praise for the Jal Jeevan Mission's success in providing tap water to about 15.7 crore rural households and Nitish Kumar's focus on sustainable rural development, positioning Bihar as a model for water resource management. Beyond digitalisation, the state government has prioritised structural reforms to support PM Modi's vision of a streamlined, self-reliant governance framework and Nitish Kumar's goal of administrative efficiency. The Bihar Amin Cadre Rules, 2025, enforced in August, reorganise amins' cadres with seniority lists and performance-based promotions, ensuring a skilled workforce for land surveys. This supports the statewide survey, extended to December 2026, covering 661 villages with GPS and drone technology to update cadastral maps and resolve disputes. These efforts echo PM Modi's push for institutional reforms, as seen in his Task Force for Next-Generation Economic Reforms, and Nitish Kumar's focus on disciplined governance. Our district-wise ranking system, introduced in April 2025, evaluates performance on mutation efficiency and revenue collection, with Sheikhpura leading the state. This fosters competition and efficiency, aligning with PM Modi's call for accountability and Nitish Kumar's emphasis on performance-driven administration. We have also addressed disruptions like the recent survey workers' strike, reflecting the state government's resolve for uninterrupted progress, a principle shared with Viksit Bharat. These reforms—digital platforms, water atlas, and structural changes—have reduced litigation, improved revenue collection, and enhanced economic opportunities, particularly for farmers. Accurate land records and mapped water bodies facilitate access to loans, subsidies, and irrigation, supporting PM Modi's vision of empowering small farmers (85 per cent of India's agrarian population) and Nitish Kumar's agricultural development goals. The PM Dhan-Dhaanya Krishi Yojana, targeting 100 backward farming districts, finds synergy in our efforts to strengthen Bihar's agrarian backbone, contributing to India's global food security leadership and Bihar's economic resilience. Our initiatives are deeply rooted in PM Modi's Viksit Bharat 2047 vision and Nitish Kumar's transformative leadership, which together envision a technologically advanced, economically robust, and inclusive Bihar within a developed India. We are exploring AI-driven analytics for the Bihar Bhumi portal to predict and resolve disputes, with voice-assisted services for non-digital natives, aligning with PM Modi's innovation focus and Nitish Kumar's inclusivity agenda. Collaborations with panchayat bodies, supported by groups like the Bihar State Panchayat Secretary Union, ensure grassroots involvement, mirroring the Janbhagidari ethos of Viksit Bharat and Bihar's participatory governance model. In conclusion, Bihar's land and water reforms are a vital step toward PM Modi's dream of a Viksit Bharat by 2047 and Nitish Kumar's vision of a prosperous Bihar—a state where every citizen is empowered, resources are secure, and governance is transparent. I urge Biharis to engage with the Bihar Bhumi portal, follow our updates on social media, and join us in building a self-reliant state that contributes to India's global leadership. Together, we can transform challenges into opportunities for a brighter, developed Bihar. As the Minister of Revenue and Land Reforms in Bihar, I am honoured to lead a department that forms the bedrock of our state's socio-economic framework under the dynamic leadership of Chief Minister Nitish Kumar and the visionary guidance of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. Land is not merely an asset in Bihar; it is the foundation of livelihoods, heritage, and progress. Since assuming this role in February 2025, my team and I, in alignment with the state government's commitment to transformative governance, have prioritised reforms to modernise the land management system. These initiatives, rooted in digital innovation and citizen-centric policies, aim to eliminate inefficiencies, reduce disputes, and empower millions with secure property rights. They resonate with PM Modi's ambitious vision for a Viksit Bharat by 2047 and Nitish Kumar's relentless pursuit of a prosperous, inclusive Bihar. In this article, I highlight our key achievements, their impacts, and how they contribute to the shared vision of a developed India. PM Modi's Viksit Bharat 2047 vision, articulated in his historic 103-minute Independence Day speech on 15 August 2025 from the Red Fort, envisions India as a $35 trillion economy by its centennial independence, leading globally in technology, defence, and inclusivity. He urged every institution and individual to work toward this goal, emphasising self-reliance (Atmanirbhar Bharat), innovation, and citizen empowerment. In Bihar, Nitish Kumar's government has embraced this vision, driving policies that blend technological advancement with grassroots development. His leadership has been instrumental in transforming Bihar from a state of challenges to one of opportunities, with land and water reforms serving as critical pillars. Our initiatives in the Revenue and Land Reforms Department align seamlessly with PM Modi's call for a developed India and Nitish Kumar's focus on equitable growth, ensuring Bihar contributes significantly to the Viksit Bharat mission. Under the state government's digital-first approach, championed by Nitish Kumar, we have accelerated the Bihar Bhumi portal, a flagship platform that reflects PM Modi's Digital India vision and Bihar's commitment to ease of living. This portal enables landowners to access, verify, and update records remotely, streamlining processes like mutation and ownership.

India-China ties — improvement signs are loud, problems sliding under the radar

External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar recently warned journalists against linking present trends in India-China relations with India's more recent frustrations vis-à-vis the US. There is a strong degree of truth in this warning. Contrary to the prevailing analysis that Trump has induced India and China to improve and repair ties, the bilateral relationship has shown little to no sign of improvement and arguably has even deteriorated under the calmer surface. Let me explain. At present, the quantum of trends as well as indications of 'improved' ties in the bilateral relationship can be divided into four categories. First, a return to diplomatic and economic 'normalcy' such as the resumption of flights, religious pilgrimages and border trade. Second, increasing talk of economic convergence amid a gradual return of Chinese investments. Third, growing peace and tranquillity at the border. And finally, strategic/geopolitical convergences in the age of Trump. Across all these four domains, 'improvement signs' are loud but misleading or chimeral, while 'deteriorating' trends are getting more entrenched under the radar. This entails signs such as resumption (or planned resumption) of direct flights, exchange of journalists, enhanced people-to-people ties, issuing of visas for businesspersons, resumption of border trade and the sharing of hydrological data. The drip-feed of small but persistent and incremental news pertaining to these developments shapes and reinforces the idea that ties are improving over time. However, this is based on a false causal theory. The two countries are aiming to reinstate exchanges and processes that were the norm until 2019. However, no one was ever of the view back in 2019 that relations were positive and improving because such exchanges existed. In other words, the resumption of these processes says very little about real improvement in ties.

India must move Japan from 'old friend' trap to real partners

By staying cautious instead of ambitious, India has allowed a "natural partnership" to remain underwhelming, missing the chance to shape the regional order alongside one of its most reliable allies. To be sure, there are visible positives with the latest visit. Japan is expected to invest around $68 billion in India's semiconductor and other tech sectors, part of its strategy to diversify away from China. For decades, Japan's overseas development assistance (ODA) was its primary foreign policy tool, compensating for constitutional restrictions on military engagement.

India has been the largest ODA recipient, benefitting from infrastructure investments ranging from the Delhi Metro to the Western Dedicated Freight Corridor. Between 2000-2024, Japanese investments in India have reached nearly $43 billion, with the Maruti-Suzuki partnership standing as a symbol of successful collaboration. But the fundamentals have shifted. ODA-driven partnerships are no longer enough. To capitalise on this "natural partnership", India must understand Japan's contemporary transformation and recalibrate its strategies accordingly. While China aggressively positions itself as leader of the "Global South", Japan has quietly invested more deeply in these regions. Through the Tokyo International Conference on African Development (TICAD), Japan has shifted from paternalistic, top-down aid to co-creation, prioritising private-sector partnerships and mutual growth. For India, this offers a natural platform to co-shape developmental narratives in Africa, South Asia, and the Indian Ocean Region. India's own neighbourhood engagement remains fractured. SAARC is dormant, and nearly every South Asian neighbour (except Bhutan) has signed on to China's Belt and Road Initiative (BRI). Chinese investments in strategic ports and infrastructure across Sri Lanka, Bangladesh, Nepal, and the Maldives have created a quasi-encirclement. India's neighbours, while wary of Beijing's debt traps, continue to welcome its financial largesse—often more readily than they do India's outreach. Here, Japan's credibility matters. Unlike India, Tokyo is perceived by smaller states as a benevolent partner without hegemonic pretensions.

Building joint India-Japan working groups for South Asia and the Indian Ocean Region could create sustainable alternatives to China's dominance. Synergising India's Indo-Pacific Oceans Initiative (IPOI) with Japan's Free and Open Indo-Pacific (FOIP) framework, especially its pillar on Connectivity in the 2023 iteration, would provide the architecture for such cooperation. Second, technology, defence, and strategic industries. Semiconductors are the immediate headline. India welcomes Japan's investments in this critical sector. Taiwan's TSMC has been hesitant to enter India directly but has invested heavily in Japan, building two plants worth over $20 billion in Kumamoto with support from Japanese firms such as Sony and Toyota. This creates a potential bridge:

through Japan's investments in chips, TSMC could be incentivised to establish a presence in India, enabling integration into global value chains. Defence cooperation, however, is the area of greatest untapped potential. Past missteps—such as the aborted ShinMaywa US-2 amphibious aircraft deal—may have left unpleasantness.

Mastermind still loose as ED tightens grip on Codein syndicate

LUCKNOW

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) on Friday carried out a coordinated operation across multiple states as part of its investigation into the illegal trade of codeine-based cough syrup. According to early information, the agency conducted simultaneous raids at around 25 locations, including Lucknow, Varanasi, Jaunpur, Saharanpur, Ranchi and Ahmedabad.

The case, which involves large-scale diversion and trafficking of codeine cough syrup, has led to a series of disclosures as probe agencies dig deeper. Authorities believe that the trade extended beyond India, with links reportedly traced to Nepal, Bangladesh and other neighbouring countries, prompting close coordination between multiple enforcement bodies.

In Lucknow, the ED

More countries opt for Indian rupee to conduct trade

LUCKNOW

The Indian rupee is expanding its footprint in global trade, with rupee-denominated transactions now taking place with 34 countries. In 2022, India conducted such trade with only 18 countries. Export bodies state that the rising adoption reflects currency stability and a shift away from dollar dependence.

Officials from the Federation of Indian Export Organisations noted that after the Reserve Bank of India introduced new guidelines in July 2022, exporters increasingly chose to settle trade in rupees. According to the Council for Leather Export, global concerns over dollar volatility intensified after the Russia-Ukraine conflict, prompting several nations to explore alternatives.

Exporters in Kanpur said that when transactions occur in local currency, the cost of converting payments through the dollar is eliminated, allowing direct savings. They added that during international payment disruptions in the early phase of the Russia-Ukraine war, many exporters faced uncertainty in dollar settlements, pushing them toward rupee-based systems.

Exporters say currency conversion charges drop significantly under the new system

By 2025, India has expanded rupee trade with countries including Russia, Japan, China, the UAE, the UK, Bangladesh, Australia, Kenya, Indonesia and South Korea. Export associations say the shift offers greater convenience and reduces risks linked to currency fluctuations.

Army recruitment syndicate exposed in Meerut

MEERUT

A major fraud targeting unemployed youth under the pretext of recruitment into the Territorial Army has been exposed in Meerut. The operation unfolded in Sofipur, where police, assisted by Army Intelligence, arrested Shane Alam, an active member of the racket. The alleged mastermind, Pratap, remains missing and has been linked to multiple recruitment-related fraud cases across different districts.

According to the investigation, Pratap, a resident of Fatehgarh, had been operating in several parts of Uttar Pradesh and Rajasthan. He reportedly lured more than 100 youths by promising them entry into the Territorial Army. For the groundwork, he assigned Meerut-based Shane Alam to identify potential victims and collect money. Shane allegedly took 1 lakh each from 10 youths, after which the entire amount was transferred to Pratap's account.

Key operative arrested, main accused linked to similar cases across multiple districts

One of the victims, Adarsh from Hardoi, filed a complaint after several months passed without any progress in the recruitment process. His report to Lal Kurti police station accelerated the investigation. Army Intelligence, which had also received inputs about the racket, coordinated with the police. On Thursday evening, Shane Alam was detained near RVC after surveillance efforts. During questioning, he admitted that Pratap had been defrauding youths for a long time under the guise of facilitating Army recruitment.

SP City Ayush Vikram Singh stated that efforts are underway to trace Pratap's hideouts, and information about other associates is being gathered. Police teams are conducting continuous raids, while Army Intelligence is pursuing the matter at its own level.

Police have collected food and water samples for testing.

Sunlight powered catalyst promises cleaner industrial wastewater

MEERUT

Researchers at Chaudhary Charan Singh University (CCSU), Meerut, have developed a new catalyst capable of converting chemically contaminated industrial wastewater into reusable clean water using sunlight. The formula, prepared by Physics Department professor Dr. Sanjeev Sharma and his research scholars, has been published in Materials Today Physics.

According to the research team, titanium dioxide (TiO₂) was activated and enhanced by adding silver particles, creating a TiO₂-Ag photocatalyst. During trials, the catalyst successfully removed more than 93% of dye pollutants such as Rhodamine B, Methyl Orange and Methylene Blue when exposed to sunlight for an hour. These dyes are typically discharged from paint, cement, textiles and electronics industries and often enter drains, resulting in more hazardous chemical formations.

Formula published in an international journal by CCSU researchers, industrial testing to begin

The catalyst works by reflecting UV light and initiating chemical reactions that break down contaminants. Titanium dioxide is widely used in sunscreen, white pigments and food-grade applications, making it a non-toxic base material. The new catalyst contains both ionic and metallic silver, increasing its photocatalytic strength.

Researchers stated that the work is still in the experimental phase. The team is now preparing to examine commercial-scale viability, production cost and industrial deployment.

STARKEST WARNING | Frustration grows as peace efforts fail to break logjam

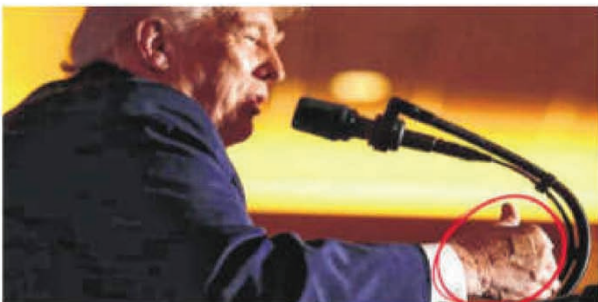

Trump says Russia-Ukraine war heightens WW III risks

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump has issued one of his starkest warnings yet about the Russia-Ukraine conflict, cautioning the war could escalate into a "third world war" if both sides continue to hold ground. His remarks come at a time when Washington is attempting to push for swift peace negotiations, but with little progress to show.

Trump said he was deeply troubled by the bloodshed. Revealing 25,000 people, mostly soldiers, were killed last month, the president said he wanted the violence to end immediately. Trump, who has repeatedly claimed he could end the war quickly, expressed concern global powers were "playing games" despite the high stakes. "Things like this end up in third-world wars. And I said the other day. I said, everybody keeps playing games like this. We will end up in a third world war, and we don't want to see that happen," he warned.

The White House corroborated the president's growing frustration. Press secre-

'HE IS CONSTANTLY SHAKING HANDS': The White House said the high volume of handshakes by Trump explains the adhesive bandages he has worn on the back of his right hand in recent days. His spokeswoman Karoline Leavitt reiterated a response she gave months ago after the 79-year-old president was seen with a bruise on his right hand covered by a thick layer of makeup. "As for the bandages on the hand, we've also given you an explanation for that," Leavitt told reporters. "In the past, the president is literally constantly shaking hands," she said. "He's also on a daily aspirin regimen, which is something his physical examinations has said in the past as well, which can contribute to the bruise that you see."

tary Karoline Leavitt said Trump had become increasingly weary of discussions that lead nowhere. "The president is extremely frustrated with both sides of this war, and he is sick of meetings just for the sake of meeting," she said. Leavitt added the US would send a representative to talks in Europe if there is a genuine prospect of signing a peace agreement.

tion of weapons, expressing hopes all sides could work towards reducing nuclear arsenals. Trump said the "denuclearisation of weapons" is something all these countries, which possess the highest amount of nuclear warheads, "would want to do."

"One of the things I talked to China about is the denuclearisation of weapons. We'd like to see if we could stop that. I'm talking about nuclear weapons. I've spoken to China. I've spoken to Russia. It would be something we would want to do, and they would like to do," Trump said. "They seem to all be nuclear testing." "We have more nuclear weapons than anybody else. We don't do testing. But with others doing it, it's

Speaking on 'The War Room' podcast with Stephen Bannon, Mitchell spoke against Indian dominance in H-1B and claimed sending back a senior H-1B developer at a company like Apple was economically similar to deporting 10 illegal migrants.

US sanctions Maduro's family, ships Venezuelan oil supply to be hit

WASHINGTON

The United States has announced new sanctions on shipping companies and vessels it says help move Venezuelan oil, putting more pressure on a major prop of President Nicolas Maduro's regime a day after it seized a sanctioned tanker likely carrying millions of dollars' worth of oil off the country's coast, CNN reports.

Three nephews of Maduro's wife, Cilia Flores, as well as another Maduro-affiliated businessman were also named in the sanctions list released on Thursday by the US Treasury. Two of the sanctioned nephews were previously convicted of drug trafficking charges in the US before being released in a prisoner swap.

The Treasury said the six vessels were engaged in "deceptive and unsafe shipping practices" that provided financial resources to Maduro's government. Four of the vessels are Panama-flagged. The other two are Cook Islands and Hong Kong-flagged.

US, Japan hold air force drills

Tokyo: US strategic bombers joined a fleet of Japanese fighter jets in a joint military exercise meant to demonstrate their military cooperation around Japan's airspace, officials said, as tensions with China escalate.

The exercise showcasing joint Japanese-US air power came a day after Chinese and Russian bombers flew together around western Japan, prompting Tokyo to scramble fighter jets, though there was no airspace violation. It also follows China's military aircraft locking radar on Japanese jets on Saturday.

Early on Friday, Japanese Defence Minister Shinjiro Koizumi and his US counterpart Pete Hegseth held telephone talks on "increasingly severe security situation in the Indo-Pacific region." —AP

Docs: Khaleda is on ventilator support

DHAKA

Former Bangladesh PM Khaleda Zia's health has deteriorated and she was placed on ventilator support, doctors said. "Her breathing difficulties increased, her oxygen level fell, and carbon dioxide levels rose," according to a statement by the chief of the medical board cardiologist Shahabuddin Talukdar.

It said the 80-year-old former PM was previously being treated with "High Flow Nasal Cannula and BiPAP support, but as there was no improvement, she was placed on elective ventilator support to give rest to her lungs and other vital organs." "Her kidney function has stopped completely. She is undergoing regular dialysis," the board said, adding she currently needed blood transfusions.

EU prepares to lock up Russia's frozen assets

BRUSSELS

The European Union was expected on Friday to lock up Russia's assets held in Europe until it gives up its war in Ukraine and compensates its neighbour for the heavy damage it has inflicted for almost four years.

The move is an important step that would allow EU leaders to work out at a summit next week how to use the tens of billions of euros in Russian Central Bank assets to underwrite a huge loan to help Ukraine meet its financial and military needs over the next two years.

Hungarian PM Viktor Orbán—Russian President Vladimir Putin's closest ally in Europe—accused the European Commission, which prepared the decision, "of systematically raping European law."

Meanwhile, Russia's Central Bank filed a lawsuit against Belgian financial institution Euroclear, the Brussels-based clearing house that holds most of Moscow's frozen assets in Europe, the bank said on Friday.

It wasn't clear what the lawsuit could achieve since it was filed in Moscow.

A total of 210 billion euros ($247 billion) in Russian assets are frozen in Europe. The vast majority of the funds - around 193 billion euros ($225 billion) at the end of September—are held in Euroclear, a Belgian financial clearing house.

Hungary and Slovakia oppose providing more support to Ukraine. Friday's expected decision, which is based on EU treaty rules allowing the bloc to protect its economic interests in certain emergency situations, would prevent them from blocking the sanctions rollover and make it easier to use the assets.

Orbán said on social media it means "the rule of law in the European Union comes to an end, and Europe's leaders are placing themselves above the rules." "The European Commission is systematically raping European law. It is doing this in order to continue the war in Ukraine, a war that clearly isn't winnable," he said.

Meanwhile, Germany summoned Russia's ambassador following accusations of sabotage, cyberattacks and election interference, an official said. The German government has also accused Moscow of perpetrating disinformation campaigns.

Sharif gatecrashes Putin-Erdogan meet

Pakistan PM Shehbaz Sharif was left red-faced at an international forum in Turkmenistan as he was made to wait for 40 minutes for a meeting with Russian President Vladimir Putin.

The event was held in honour of the 30th anniversary of the former Soviet nation's declaration of neutrality, and leaders from Russia, Turkey, Iran and Pakistan were invited. A video showed Sharif waiting impatiently in an adjacent room, ahead of scheduled talks with Putin.

After waiting with Pakistan minister Ishaq Dar, Sharif decided to gatecrash the venue where Putin was holding talks with Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan for a quick interaction. He departed after 10 minutes.

China's new 'condom tax' draws skepticism, health risks worries

Beijing: China will soon start collecting a value-added tax on contraceptive drugs and products for the first time in over three decades, a move aligned with Beijing's effort to get families to have more children after decades of limiting most to one child.

"Contraceptive drugs and products" will not be tax-exempt as of January 1, according to the country's newest value-added tax law. Products such as condoms will be subject to the usual 13 per cent value-added tax imposed on most products.

While state-run news outlets have not widely highlighted the change, it has been trending on Chinese social media, drawing ridicule among people who joked they would have to be fools not to know that raising a child is more expensive than using condoms, even if they are taxed.

More seriously, experts are raising concerns over potential increases in unplanned pregnancies and sexually transmitted diseases due to higher costs for contraceptives. The ruling Communist Party's past "one-child" policy was enforced from about 1980 until 2015 with huge fines and other penalties and sometimes with forced abortions.

In some cases, children born over the limit were deprived of an identification number, effectively making them non-citizens. —AP

Crypto mogul jailed for fraud

Kwon, who co-founded Singapore-based Terraform Labs and developed the TerraUSD and Luna currencies, was sentenced at a hearing in New York.

Thousands told to evacuate as flood hits parts of US, Canada

MOUNT VERNON (US)

Residents in the Pacific Northwest of the US and western Canada are bracing for potentially life-threatening floods as several days of heavy rain have swollen a number of rivers and tributaries, BBC reported. On Thursday, the National Water Centre reported heavy flooding along the Skagit and Snohomish rivers in the state of Washington that is expected to continue through Friday.

In Canada, major highways to Vancouver have been closed because of flood, debris and the risk of avalanches.

The evacuation orders are in place for thousands of people in the US and Canada. Authorities have warned

Rescuers prepare to evacuate residents from an area flooded by the Snohomish River in the US more rain is likely. In the US, the governor of Washington state, Bob Ferguson, declared a statewide emergency and estimated 100,000 residents could face evacuation orders.

The emergency declaration warned that rain and possibly snow at mountain elevations would exacerbate flood conditions. Governor Ferguson said there were no reports of fatalities, but warned residents the risk wasn't over yet.

"The flood levels are potentially historic in nature. We want to emphasise how serious the situation is," Ferguson told a news briefing. The Skagit River "will be cresting tomorrow mid-morning. Again, that is expected to be historic level on that river", he told CNN on Thursday.

Skydiver dangles at 15,000 ft in Oz

Melbourne: Australian accident investigators on Thursday released dramatic images of a skydiver's parachute becoming entangled on an airplane's tail, leaving him dangling at 4,500 meters (15,000 feet.) The skydiver, Adrian Ferguson, used a hook knife to cut himself free and sustained minor leg injuries during the incident on September 20 that began at Tully Airport in Queensland state. The pilot and 16 other parachutists on board the Cessna Caravan that day were not hurt.

The Australian Transport Safety Bureau released the video with its report on its probe into the mishap.

The plane had reached the desired altitude where the skydivers were planning to execute a 16-way formation jump. A 17th parachutist was at an open door waiting to record video as the others jumped. Ferguson was leaving the plane when the ripcord of his reserve chute became snagged on a wing flap, the report said.

The chute released and immediately jerked Ferguson backward. He knocked the camera operator clear from the plane and into a free fall. Ferguson's legs then struck the trail's horizontal stabilizer before the chute tangled around it and left him dangling.

Ferguson used a knife to cut 11 lines that enabled him to fall from the plane with part of the torn chute.

He released his main chute, which fully inflated despite becoming entangled with remnants of the reserve chute, and he landed safely. Meanwhile, most of the other skydivers had jumped. The pilot was left with two skydivers aboard battling to control the plane with part of the chute still tangled around the tail.

The pilot made a mayday call and was prepared to bail out wearing an emergency chute. But Brisbane air traffic officials decided he had enough control of the plane to land safely at Tully. It landed safely. "Carrying a hook knife—though it is not a regulatory requirement—could be lifesaving in the event of a premature reserve parachute deployment," the bureau's chief commissioner Angus Mitchell said. —AP

High on mushrooms, Alaska Air pilot tries to shut off plane engines mid-air

A sleep-deprived and off-duty pilot, who was reportedly "high on magic mushrooms", has been accused of trying to crash an Alaska Airlines plane packed with 83 other passengers and crew on board, flying from Seattle to San Francisco. Joseph Emerson was reportedly sitting on a jump seat in the cockpit of the plane when he suddenly lunged for the two emergency engine shut-off handles in the ceiling panel and began to pull them down. The incident happened in October 2023 on an Embraer E75 regional jet operated by Alaska's regional subsidiary Horizon Air. A cockpit audio of the flight recently emerged online, documenting the moment Emerson tried to shut down the plane's engine. In the audio, the on-duty pilot can be heard asking

Emerson what's wrong after he tells him he wants to go home. This was followed by sounds of struggle and profanities as the pilot asks, "Dude, what's going on?"

"Horizon, we need to make an emergency landing," the now-out-of-breath pilot told air traffic controllers. "We've got a jump seater just tried to shut our engines off. We need to go direct to Portland now." Emerson told officials he was feeling the effects of so-called "magic mushrooms" he'd eaten two days earlier.

TITLE: *Kis Kisko Pyaar Karoon 2DIRECTOR: Anukalp GoswamiCAST: Kapil Sharma, Manoj Singh, Hira Warina, Tridha Choudhary, Parul Gulati, Ayesha Khan, (the late) Asrani ji, Akhilendra Mishra, Vipin Sharma, Sushant Singh, Jamie Lever, Smrita Jaykar, Supriya ShuklaWHERE: In theatres near you
RATING: ★★★

All about multiplication of love and division of sanity

Actors' performance

The film, which starts off with a tribute to the legendary (late) actor Asrani ji, introduces (commentary voiceover by the inimitable Navjot Singh Sidhu) the Bhopal based Mohan Sharma (Kapil Sharma) running on the railway tracks... as if to save his life from a lady with a garland in her hands! This is followed by a flashback highlighting the flow of events which has led to Mohan's present situation.

Mohan Sharma is a happy go lucky man, who becomes a victim of circumstances and lands up marrying three ladies on different occasions.

These three ladies are Meera (Tridha Choudhary), Jenny (Parul Gulati) and Ruhi (Ayesha Khan). Even though Mohan marries these three ladies, he is head over heels in love with Sanya (Hira Warina) with whom he wants to spend the rest of his life with. Since Meera, Jenny and Ruhi happen to be Hindu, Christian and Muslim respectively, our man becomes Mohan for Meera, Mehmood for Ruhi and Michael for Jenny.

Amid all the chaos, will Mohan be able to do justice to his three wives, does he manage to marry his 'OG' ladylove Sanya and what is the ultimate result of this 'K-aos' (chaos) is what forms the rest of the film.

Actors' performance

Kis Kisko Pyaar Karoon 2 truly and rightfully belongs to Kapil Sharma, who pulls yet another rabbit out of his hat. Those who have seen the first part (Kis Kisko Pyaar Karoon) may not find any novelty or 'nayaapan' in the second part. But, we advise you to watch the film with a clean 'slate' of mind, for you to enjoy it thoroughly.

Seems like Kapil Sharma has been a regular at the gym working out. No wonder he carries the film convincingly on his 'shoulders'. Besides Kapil, there is Manoj Singh, who shines with his endearing screen presence in his role of Harbir Singh Hubby.

As for the ladies, while Tridha Choudhary, Parul Gulati and Ayesha Khan impress in their roles, Hira Warina does struggle esp. during emotional scenes. Veteran actors Vipin Sharma, Akhilendra Mishra and Smrita Jaykar flawlessly mould themselves in their respective roles. One does wish Sushant Singh and Jamie Lever's characters could have mellowed down a bit. The surprise of the film is a cameo by Ginni Kapil Sharma- the real life wife of Kapil Sharma. The late Asrani ji is a delight to watch in the role of a multi linguistic father.

As for Anukalp Goswami, he does a good job with direction, storyline and screenplay... all three being simple and lucid. One does feel the need for more one liners and punches considering it's a Kapil Sharma film. Since Anukalp fit the film's second part along with its characters into the 'tried-and-tested' mould of the first part, many may feel about him not bringing anything new to the table.

The film's cinematography (Ravi Yadav) and editing (Hussain A Burmawala) are ok. For the lack of a hit track, the film's music (Yo Yo Honey Singh, DigV, Yug Bhushan, Parikshit & Nishadh) fails to leave an impression. Ditto for the background music (Parikshit Sharma, Nishadh Chandra).

For all those wanting to see a clean and decent film that's devoid of abusive language and also promises squeaky clean fun, Kis Kisko Pyaar Karoon 2 should be your go-to film this weekend.

TITLE: *Christmas KarmaDIRECTOR: Gurinder ChadhaCAST: Kunal Nayyar, Danny Dyer, Eva Longoria, Billy Porter, Boy GeorgeWHERE: In theatres near youRATING: ★★★

This film is the cinematic equivalent of a Christmas hamper packed by multiple relatives: some gifts thoughtful, others questionable, but undeniably assembled with affection. Gurinder Chadha's reworking of Dickens is both wildly ambitious and unmistakably personal, blending diaspora memory with festive mythology. The film reimagines Scrooge as Eshaan Sood, a man forged by displacement from Uganda and hardened by the small cruelties of immigrant survival. This emotional foundation gives the film unexpected depth, even as Chadha piles on spectacle with the gusto of a child decorating a tree for the first time.

The opening stretch is disorienting in a playful, bordering on chaotic way. Between irrepressible visual flourishes, musical detours and an onslaught of seasonal kitsch, the film takes a while to find its footing. Yet once the narrative settles, a more contemplative rhythm emerges. Beneath the glitter and good humour lies a film earnestly wrestling with belonging, grief, cultural inheritance and the universal yearning for forgiveness. Chadha's London is intentionally heightened, a candy-

A carol reborn with colour and chaos, but not consistently coloured fantasia where pain and celebration sit side by side, and where the familiar Dickensian journey becomes a vessel for contemporary anxieties.

The result is uneven but intriguing: a film that sometimes overshoots in its pursuit of joy, yet manages to craft an identity distinct from the countless Christmas Carol adaptations cluttering the cultural attic.

Actors' performance

Kunal Nayyar's portrayal of Sood anchors the film. While some may find him stiff, some may find him commanding and finely calibrated, and the truth lies somewhere in between: his performance is alternately mannered and moving, with flashes of emotional intelligence that deepen the character's arc.

The trio of spirits, Eva Longoria, Billy Porter and Boy George, brings an eccentric theatricality that may puzzle purists but undeniably keeps the film lively. Danny Dyer offers an affable turn as the good-natured cabbie, providing warmth whenever the plot veers toward indulgence. The British-Asian supporting cast brightens the film considerably, adding texture and grounding the story in lived experience.

Music

Visually, the film oscillates between exuberant charm and conspicuous strain. The colour palette is joyous, but the effects occasionally betray their budget. Chadha's fondness for flamboyance is evident in the lavish costumes, vivid sets and unabashed references to pop culture, pantomime and Bollywood. The music, however, remains divisive. Some songs feel spirited but interruptive, while others enrich the emotional landscape. The Bhangra-infused sequences burst with cultural pride, and the Desi rendition of "Last Christmas" leaves a lingering warmth. Yet the soundtrack as a whole never quite achieves the sweep the film aspires to.

Overall, this film is a heart-felt, imperfect, culturally rich festive drama that is far from flawless, yet it is fearless in its intent. It overreaches, dazzles, falters, and gets back up again, much like the immigrant story at its core. For some viewers, the chaos will be a deterrent; for others, it will feel like home. The film's heart is unmistakably in the right place, and its cultural resonance gives it a freshness that its more uneven elements cannot entirely dim.

Dhurandhar's online rage timeline

As Dhurandhar sets the box office on fire, a separate combustion has taken place online. Film critics and celebrities have been trolled over their comments regarding the 'politics' of the film and other perspectives. Here's a mini explainer about what all is going on.

Box Office

The movie has so far crossed 250 crores at the Box Office in India, and has been predominantly praised for its story, acting, action and music.

Critics attacked

After film critic Anupama Chopra's review disappeared from YouTube, and critic Sucharita Tyagi was trolled for her review of the film, The Film Critics Guild issued a statement.

"The Film Critics Guild (FCG) strongly condemns the targeted attacks, harassment, and hate directed toward film critics for their reviews of Dhurandhar. What began as disagreement has rapidly devolved into coordinated abuse, personal attacks on individual critics, and organised attempts to discredit their professional integrity," read the statement by The Film Critics Guild.

"In recent days, several of our members have faced intimidation, including direct threats and vicious online campaigns aimed at silencing their perspectives, simply for expressing their professional assessment of a film. More concerning, there have been attempts to tamper with existing reviews, influence editorial positions, and persuade publications to alter or dilute their stance. Liking or disliking a film is your right, but expecting critics to fall in line is not."

Hrithik Roshan's statements

Hrithik Roshan on Wednesday shared an Instagram story, in which he praised Dhurandhar, but also wrote that he 'may disagree with the politics of it'. The actor faced a lot of backlash for his post, and on Thursday, he shared another Instagram story, in which he praised the film and the actors.

The War 2 actor wrote, "Still can't get DHURANDHAR out of my mind. @AdityaDharFilms you are an incredible maker man. @RanveerOfficial the silent to the fierce what a journey and so damn consistent. #akshayeekhanna has always been my fav and this film is proof why. @ActorMadhavan bloody mad grace, strength and dignity!! But man @rakeshbhedhi what you did was phenomenal.. what an ACT, brilliant !! A huge big round of applause for everyone especially the makeup and prosthetics dept! I can't wait for part 2 !!! (sic)."

Akshaye's dominance

However, the one thing which no one can debate about is Akshaye Khanna's performance, not only in Dhurandhar, but before that in Chaava, and now the look from his next film Mahakali, where he plays Shukracharya, has been released. Finally, it seems, the low key actor, spoken about for years as being underappreciated, seems to be getting his due.

Dharmendra remembered

Hema Malini, along with her daughters Esha and Ahana Deol, held a prayer meet on Thursday for veteran actor Dharmendra. The prayer meet reportedly took place around 4-5 pm to honour the memory of the late actor.

The event was hosted at Delhi's Dr Ambedkar International Centre, Janpath.

The prayer meet was attended by several prominent political personalities, including Amit Shah, Nirmala Sitharaman, Bhupendra Yadav, Delhi Chief Minister Rekha Gupta, Ashwini Vaishnav and others. During the prayer meet, Hema reflected on her life with Dharmendra. She said,

"Jis shaks ke sath maine kayi filmon mein pyar ka abhinaya kiya, wahi mere jivan saathi ban gaye." She added, "Hamara pyaar sachha tha to ham kisi bhi parishthiti ka saamna karne ki himmat thi..." The actress further recalled how Dharmendra was a dedicated husband and a loving father to her two daughters. She then broke down while addressing the gathering, saying, "Aaj ki is prarthana sabha mein aap sab ka swagat karte hue, main bahut hi bhavuk ho rahi hoon. Maine kabhi nahi socha tha ki meri zindagi mein aisa ek pal aayega, jab mujhe bhi yeh shok sabha rakhni padegi, woh bhi mere Dharam ji ke liye (sic)."

Vaibhav Suryavanshi was at his imperious best while smashing a 171 off 95 balls, powering India to a mammoth 234-run win over hosts UAE in the inaugural match of the U19 Asia Cup here on Friday. Half-centuries from Vihaan Malhotra (69) and Aaron George (69) further bolstered India's charge as they piled up 433 for 6 in 50 overs. The 400-plus total is India's highest-ever in U19 ODIs and is the highest in the U-19 Asia Cup's history. Team management wants Gill to play freely: Doeschate

Gill was brought back into the T20 set-up with the Asia Cup in Sept

Shubman Gill has been a "bit too tight" since his T20 comeback as he has been trying to "justify" his place in the side but the Indian team management wants him to free up and play like he does in the IPL, assistant coach Ryan ten Doeschate has said.

Gill was brought back into the T20 setup with the Asia Cup in September after he led India to two famous Test wins in the drawn five-match series in England. He replaced Sanju Samson at the top but runs have not flown from his bat, raising questions ahead of the T20 World Cup at home in February-March.

After the loss in the second T20I against South Africa here on Thursday, ten Doeschate said Gill needed to loosen up a bit in the shortest format.

"Taking on the captaincy the way he did in England and how well he led and how much pride he took in that performance, I think an element of that carried over into what he wanted to do in the T20 side," said the assistant coach in response to a PTI query after the 51-run loss that left the five-match series tied at 1-1 for now.

"So if anything, he was too caring and maybe a little bit too tight. Like I said, towards the back end of Australia, the talks were around freeing up a little bit more, trying to relinquish that responsibility. (It was) certainly in that capacity where you feel like it is all about you and you really need to justify your place in the team. "We don't want him to do that. We want him to play as freely as he does during IPL seasons. We believe in his class and we believe he will come good, and exactly the same with Surya (captain Suryakumar Yadav who has also had an extended lean run)," added ten Doeschate.

The former Netherlands all-rounder firmly backed Suryakumar, who has not been able to find consistency since taking over as captain last year. "Surya again is such quality and we have high expectations of the players. If you are going to be India's number three, there is pressure on you to score runs.

"There has been a fairly long string of form now where he hasn't got the scores we like. But in isolation, we are certainly not worried about it," he added.

NEHRA SPEAKS | Gujarat Titans head coach feels judgements passed too soon

'Gill's criticism not amusing'

NEW DELHI

Gujarat Titans head coach Ashish Nehra is not amused by the snap judgements being passed on skipper Shubman Gill's form, cautioning that writing him off after a couple of outings in the volatile T20 format reflects the growing tendency of arriving at quick conclusions.

Gill, who made a comeback to the T20I set-up as vice-captain during the Asia Cup, has totalled 181 runs in the last 10 games at a below 140 strike-rate.

Nehra, who has watched Gill from close quarters as the GT head coach for the past two seasons, was asked whether he is worried considering that IPL is three months away.

"Forget three months, had IPL been three weeks away, I (still) wouldn't be worried. Because you are talking about a format like T20. And only two matches have been played against South Africa, if I am not wrong," Nehra, the former fast bowler known for straight shooting, replied to a query from PTI during an interaction with a select group.

Nehra feels that the fundamental problem with criticism in India is reaching a conclusion on the basis of numbers alone.

"This is our problem. In such a fast-paced tournament format, whether it's international cricket or IPL, if a player like Shubman Gill is judged after not coming good in two to three matches, then it will be difficult," Nehra said.

In his inimitable style laced with sarcasm, Nehra said if one reckons that change is needed, so many options are there to be tried.

"You have a lot of options if you want to see. You can remove Abhishek Sharma and Shubman Gill and you can open with Sai Sudharsan and Ruturaj Gaikwad," Nehra said and his dig at critics wasn't lost on anyone.

"If you want to remove them (Sai and Ruturaj), you can open with Washington Sundar and Ishan Kishan. So, you have a lot of options.

"Now, if you lose 1 or 2 matches, if the stats of the so-called batsmen or bowlers are not good and if you talk about changing them, then it will be difficult," Nehra batted with full force for Gill.

Washi is a batter who can play anywhere from 1 to 6

Washington Sundar played only six games for Titans last season because of a set combination but Nehra did drop hints that if fit, the Tamil Nadu man would be used way more this time.

Washington's role in the Indian team has created a lot of confusion as to whether he is more of a batting all-rounder or a specialist spinner who is also a capable bat.

Nehra has no such confusion as he feels that Washington's primary skill-set is being a top class batter and on conducive surfaces, he is a complete package with his off-breaks also coming into play.

"Washington Sundar, the kind of skill-set he has, number one, for me, Washington Sundar is a batsman who can bat at any slot between 1 to 6 or 7, whatever number you want him to bat. He has the ability to bat that much.

"And coming back to your question (batter or bowler), it depends on the conditions. As I said, if there is a little help on the pitch, then Washington Sundar has the full package with both batting and bowling.

"He has done very well in Powerplays, bowling with new ball when he started his career.

It depends on how a team uses it. Washington Sundar is still not a finished product and sky is the limit. He will keep getting better from here," the head coach encouraged his ward.

"He is only 25-26 years old and has been in the system for so many years. So, now his experience is coming in front of you. Due to the combination of last year, he was not able to play that much (in IPL).

"But next year, I hope he stays in form, then you will see him playing more compared to last year," he assured.

Not much option at auction

The mini-auctions in Abu Dhabi, slated for December 16, will be huge for teams like KKR (Rs 64.30 crore) and Chennai Super Kings (Rs 43.40 crore), who are rebuilding their core.

But Titans need only five players and are going in with a purse of Rs 12.90 crore, which is third lowest among 10 teams.

"Our core team is set and we have released only 4-5 players. So, we go into the auction with a very open mind. See, when you are making a team from scratch, like last year, it was a different kind of strategy.

"But right now, pretty much all the slots are filled. So, we'll see what we get, the kind of purse we have because other teams have so much purse. So, you have to go with the flow during the auction," Nehra said.

In fact, if one looks at Titans's line-up, when all players are fit, 10 slots -- Jos Buttler, Gill, Sudharsan, Rahul Tewatia, Shahrukh Khan, Rashid Khan, R Sai Kishore, Kagiso Rabada, Prashidh Krishna and Mohammed Siraj are filled.

In the one slot remaining, New Zealander Glenn Phillips, who was retained instead of Sherfane Rutherford, could be used as a big-hitting all-rounder, where Washington is the Indian option.

"Like I said earlier, we go with an open mind. Our team is set. Rahul Tewatia, Shah Rukh Khan, Washington Sundar, and so many middle order batsmen already. "If I'm not wrong, the highest purse, CSK has it. But they also need players. So, we are sitting in a very comfortable position," he added.

Gill's poor form is bad sign, says Pathan

NEW DELHI

In a blunt assessment of India's batting woes, former pacer Irfan Pathan has said that Shubman Gill's lack of form is piling up pressure not just on him personally but also the team management, which is wondering "what to do" besides hoping that it doesn't get any worse.

Speaking on 'JioHotstar', Pathan said even bringing back Sanju Samson to restore the previously successful batting structure won't be as smooth given that the Kerala player would also need some time to find his touch again.

Samson was a largely successful T20 opener for India before being replaced by Gill, the T20 vice-captain now. Gill, who is the Test and ODI captain, has struggled to get going in the shortest format and was dismissed for a naught in the second T20I against South Africa on Thursday in Mullanpur.

"Shubman Gill will say he got a very good ball and looked stuck at the crease. For captain Suryakumar Yadav, I felt he needs to focus on his offside play. He was completely out of position when he got out...if Gill was in form, he would have played that ball easily. He is not in form," Pathan said.

"The runs not coming from Gill's bat is a bad sign and increases the pressure on him and the team management. They will be asking what to do. This situation should not get worse.

Indian women's kabaddi team felicitated by PKL

Skipper Ritu Negi feels team's unity won them the World Cup title

MUMBAI

Indian women's kabaddi team recently clinched the Kabaddi World Cup and skipper Ritu Negi felt it was the team's collective effort that helped them lift the global title.

Negi was speaking on the sidelines of the felicitation ceremony for the team organised by Pro Kabaddi League (PKL).

"In the last match I wasn't able to play much because of my injury, and of course that was frustrating. But our team is bigger than any one player. What matters is that our players stepped up and executed exactly what was needed. Winning the World Cup and seeing the response from across the country - including from the Honourable Prime Minister - makes us feel that our hard work truly represents India," she added. The team was felicitated by the Pro Kabaddi League (PKL) and JioStar on Friday after their triumphant return from Dhaka, where they defeated Chinese Taipei highlighted the team's evolution and preparation, saying, "This is the third time I've been part of a coaching set-up that has won a medal, and every single one of them feels incredibly special. I'm proud not just of the result, but of the journey this group has taken... What you're seeing in this victory is the result of months and months of disciplined preparation." Speaking at the ceremony, Ishan Chatterjee, Chief Executive Officer, Sports, JioStar, hailed the team's achievement within a historic year for women's sport, "This has been a remarkable year for women's sports in India, the exceptional dominance of the women's kabaddi team being another feather in our cap. PKL League chairman and Business Head of Mashal Sports, Anupam Goswami, underlined the long-term vision for women's kabaddi, "The federation's commitment -- especially in bringing back the Women's World Cup after 12 years shows that the sport is moving firmly in the right direction. We need to build it the right way."

CHANDIGARH

Reversing her decision to retire, star wrestler Vinesh Phogat on Friday announced that she would return to the mat to take another shot at an elusive Olympic medal at the 2028 Los Angeles Olympics.

A three-time Olympian, she has won gold medals at both the Asian Games and the Commonwealth Games. She won World Championships bronze medals in 2019 and 2022, a gold in Asian Games in 2018, a bronze in 2014 and multiple medals at the Asian Championship. An Olympic medal has eluded her in three attempts.

Vinesh, who is currently a Congress MLA from Haryana's Julana seat (district Jind), had announced her retirement from wrestling following her disqualification from the Paris Olympics gold medal bout. Though she moved the Court of Arbitration of Sports (CAS) against her disqualification, she did not get a favourable judgement.

Elaborating on her decision to return to wrestling, she said in her post on X: People kept asking if Paris was the end. For a long time, I didn't have the answer. I needed to step away from the mat, from the pressure, from the expectations, even from my own ambitions. For the first time in years, I allowed myself to breathe."

I took time to understand the weight of my journey the highs, the heartbreaks, the sacrifices, the versions of me the world never saw. And somewhere in that reflection, I found the truth, I still love this sport. I still want to compete," she said.

"In that silence, I found something, I'd forgotten 'the fire never lift'. It was only buried under the exhaustion and noise. The discipline, the routine, the fight ... it's in my system. No matter how far I walked away, a part of me stayed on the mat," she said.

"So here I am, stepping back toward LA28 with a heart that's unafraid and a spirit that refuses to bow. And this time, I'm not walking alone my son is joining my team, my biggest motivation, my little cheerleader on this road to the LA Olympics." She added.

After the Paris Olympics, Vinesh joined Congress and won the Julana seat in 2024.

GOAT India Tour

Messi set to dazzle, but without 2011 magic

KOLKATA

Argentine superstar Lionel Messi's long-awaited return to India, after a magical maiden visit back in 2011, will be high on glitz but low on actual football, promising a spectacle that may not recapture the raw sporting frenzy that once shook the Salt Lake Stadium here. His artistry in a competitive match will be missing this time. It would be quite unlike 2011 when more than 85,000 fans packed the stadium, some even perched on terrace edges, to watch Argentina edge Venezuela 1-0 in a FIFA friendly.

The eight-time Ballon d'Or winner is not scheduled to play serious football on the 'G.O.A.T. India Tour 2025'. It is a fully promotional, and commercially-curated event which will begin on Saturday here and wind up on Monday in New Delhi.

Yet, for a city that once worshipped Maradona, Pele, dazzled

Dunga and embraced Ronaldinho, the arrival of Messi even without football is unmissable because Kolkata cannot ignore him. The organisers have opened 78,000 seats at the Salt Lake Stadium with ticket prices going up to Rs 7,000 for his 45-minute appearance on Saturday morning, raising questions on whether the city will respond with the same unrestrained passion.

Messi will spend less than 72 hours in India but will traverse four metropolis -- Kolkata, Hyderabad, Mumbai and Delhi -- in what has increasingly begun to resemble a high-profile road-show involving chief ministers, corporate heavyweights, Bollywood celebrities and even a scheduled meeting with Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

Messi's last appearance in India remains etched in memory when on September 3, 2011, he danced past defenders, mesmerised with his left-footed grace and triggered waves of ecstasy in a packed stadium.

Though he didn't score, fans left believing they had witnessed greatness. The highlight of the tour will be a 45-minute philanthropic fashion event in Mumbai on Sunday, featuring Messi, his long-time strike partner Luis Suarez and Argentina midfielder Rodrigo De Paul. "There will be celebrity models, cricketers, Bollywood celebrities, millionaires, founders. Tiger and Jackie Shroff, John Abraham among others," said Satadru Dutta, sole promoter of the tour.

Suarez will also feature in a Spanish music show. The organisers have requested Messi to bring "some memorabilia" of his trophy-winning 2022 World Cup.
