Putin's worry isn't the military

Recently sworn in for a fifth term, Russian President Vladimir Putin did a surprise reshuffle of his defence establishment, demoting two of his closest aides—former defence minister Sergei Shoigu and ex-secretary of Security Council of Russia Nikolai Patrushev. This re-shuffle comes at a time when ‘mobilisation’ was expected to be Putin’s first move after re-election. The President has chosen deputy prime minister and long-time economic advisor Andrei Belousov to replace Shoigu, who in turn has replaced Patrushev. The latter’s new appointment remains unknown. The move is being seen as an effort to reduce the unsustainable and soaring costs of the war in Ukraine. It also challenges the narrative that the Russian economy is unaffected by the sanctions in the long-standing war. For 2024 alone, Putin has allocated $117 billion for the special military operation against Ukraine. His war economy runs feverishly in an overheated mode. Most international estimates state that 7.5 per cent of Russia’s GDP is directed to the military-industrial complex although Kremlin’s official estimates claim it is 6.7 percent. It is a rare submission of a rising-cost problem from Putin, who had preferred to continue with his hunting-holidaying excursions pal Shoigu despite repeated allegations of systemic corruption and inefficiency against him for years. These allegations became the order of the day when mercenary group Wagner, led by Yevgeny Prigozhin, was brought to deliver victory in the infamous battle for Bakhmut in 2023. Putin’s slighting of Prigozhin’s outright allegations against Shoigu and Chief of General Staff Valery Gerasimov led to the incredible Wagner mutiny against the two generals, which ended up with Prigozhin’s death in uncanny circumstances. It, however, unleashed an investigation into rampant corruption inside Russia’s military leadership, of which Prigozhin had become the most notorious victim. Russia-watchers had an inkling of Shoigu’s exit after Prigozhin and his aides were made to bid adieu into the flannel skies, and many corrupt links started to get exposed in the Ministry of Defence. The inkling became stronger as Shoigu’s deputies, including Timur Ivanov, got arrested on corruption charges last month. Soon, two other deputy defence ministers allegedly backdated their resignations before 9 May, or the Soviet Victory Day. The Russian army was supposed to make an impressive win in Chasiv Yar on the eastern front but had to make do with American tanks captured at a small village called Berdychi when Ukrainians retreated, running out of ammunition to fire. All has certainly not been going as planned. The latest reshuffling in key defence and security offices has been Putin’s biggest shake-up in the past 15 years. There are two reasons for this. One is ensuring economic efficiency at a time when the stakes are very high for Russia and Putin. And two, Shoigu’s leadership has not been able to yield the anticipated results in the Ukraine war. His current appointment is a step-down with little direct authority. Getting an economist like Belousov in the key position of a defence minister also shows that Putin is preparing for the longer haul. It is a solemn reiteration that the Ukraine war has indeed been reduced to a grinding war of attrition, with both sides lacking the capabilities to end it anytime soon. Europe’s combined strategies to support Kyiv militarily won’t come to fruition until mid-2025. American aid and the conditionalities attached are likely to help Ukraine stay afloat, but not gain a decisive edge.

In 2014, when Modi wave was running in the whole country, no one would have thought that a BJP leader would come in this way and by creating his own identity away from the allegations of corruption that are usually leveled on leaders, he would become famous among the people like Prime Minister Narendra Modi and became so famous that people started seeing him as the next Prime Minister. But when the five-time MP from Gorakhpur parliamentary seat, Mahant of Gorakhnath Bhaam Math and former MP, became the Chief Minister of Uttar Pradesh, which has the highest number of Lok Sabha and Vidhan Sabha seats in the country, in 2017 at the age of 45, his reputation definitely changed, the reason for which is his clean image and saintly nature. It is usually said that no other face can become big in front of a big face, but Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath has earned his stature through his work, law and order and his impeccable image that when it comes to the public, no one else can be compared to him in the party in the state. Actually, Chief Minister Adityanath is not only famous for his impeccable image, he is also famous for taking action against the wrongdoers and working in the interest of the common people.

He is the first Chief Minister of the country, who, apart from being famous as a saint after becoming the Chief Minister, has also become famous as Kulchner Baba. He has also received the title of the most popular Chief Minister of the country. Chief Minister Adityanath has not only benefited the people of Uttar Pradesh, but has done excellent work under many development schemes on behalf of the Uttar Pradesh government. And not only is his support base the strongest in Uttar Pradesh, but he is the main face of all the MLAs and ministers in his government, due to which he is able to take decisions in his government unopposed. He not only gave free hand to the police to deal with the criminals to end the lawlessness in Uttar Pradesh, but also by ordering bullock carts to break the chains of those who grab property illegally, he created the image of a good Chief Minister in the minds of those people who eat simple food. Even today he finds immense joy in serving cows and used to sing Hindu Hriday Samrat. He is known as the image of Ram R Ram Rajya.

Apart from this, Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath has done major reforms in the pilgrimage places of Uttar Pradesh and has also given the names of places changed in the modern times to their historical names.

The old name of Allahabad Sangam was Prayagraj. It has got its own identity. The biggest Kumbh Mela of the country has been held in Prayagraj for centuries, but no one till the time of the state paid attention to its development and improvement.

But after becoming the Chief Minister, Yogi Adityanath first got the Pracharagran renovated and the Prayagraj is worth seeing. Similarly, he has also developed many other places. Eastern Uttar Pradesh was once suffering in terms of development, now international level roads have been built there. Apart from this, his government has made efforts to provide water to every village. Now in Uttar Pradesh, whether it is the election of the Prime Minister, Assembly or Lok Sabha, Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath has a big and strong influence in the elections, on the basis of which BJP gets a good number of seats in every election. Actually, I am getting all this because many people are not aware of the stature of Chief Minister Aditya and his clean political record or it can be said that they are taking Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath lightly. Yesterday, Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal, after coming out of jail, held a press conference and said that as soon as Modi becomes the PM, he will finish Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath. Arvind Kejriwal said that PM Modi does not want to fight this election for the country or the party, he wants to fight only for one person Amit Shah. He said that he will remove Yogi Adityanath from power next time. Sources say that after Arvind Kejriwal’s statement of removing Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, the game of checkmate and checkmate started in the coin division, and it also revealed who all are in the race for the post of Prime Minister in BJP. According to the number of supporters and impeccable record, Yogi Adityanath is the youngest leader in India who has the capability to become the Prime Minister after Modi.

But due to past experience and the decision of the Central Government to ignore the decisions of Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath in the formation of the cabinet, rumours spread that the Gujarat lobby does not like Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath. But now the supporters of Uttar Pradesh are angry with the Chief Minister of Delhi saying this and due to this the Gujarat lobby has started doing something and Chief Minister Yogi has intensified his strategy by drawing his Laxman Rekha.

. And there are such political experts that if Gujarat Chief Minister does not help, then BJP will be able to get only 30-40 seats in Uttar Pradesh.

Why Delhi-Tehran deal on Chabahar Port is good news for India's Shia Muslims

After extensive negotiations, India and Iran have finally sealed a historic 10-year bilateral agreement for the operation of the strategically located Chabahar Port on the Gulf country’s eastern coast. While India initially engaged in short-term agreements with Iran starting in 2016, the newly inked deal marks a significant milestone. With its presence in Chabahar, India aims to circumvent reliance on Pakistan’s ports in Karachi and Gwadar, facilitating smoother access to landlocked Afghanistan and other Central Asian nations via Iran.

This deal has a lot of economic significance for India. Despite the nation’s preoccupation with the ongoing Lok Sabha election, the Narendra Modi government’s decisive action, including the special permission reportedly obtained from the Election Commission of India (ECI) to dispatch a central minister to Iran, underscores the paramount importance of this deal for the nation’s strategic interests and economic future. In geopolitical dynamics, this deal is a major achievement for India and a testament to Modi’s personal diplomacy. It marks our first step into managing overseas ports and serves as a strategic move against the emerging China-Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC). Its timing, amid the chaos in West Asia disrupting important trade routes, makes it even more significant.

Furthermore, beyond these tangible benefits, India’s diplomatic success shines through the forging of successful ties with conflicted powers. Its diplomatic success is evident in its ability to foster friendly relations with Israel while extending support to Palestine. Simultaneously, New Delhi adeptly navigates deepening ties with the United States and successfully negotiates with Iran, showcasing its diplomatic prowess. Meanwhile, our long-standing partnerships with countries such as Saudi Arabia, Russia, and Japan continue to flourish. India’s leadership roles in the G20 forum and the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) highlight that its diplomacy is actually working.

Why BJP-led NDA Seems to Have Advantage in Elections

The 2024 Lok Sabha elections have entered midway with the completion of four phases and only three phases remaining. During this election, the centre of discussion has been the low voter turnout — although in the fourth phase, this trend reversed with a marginal increase in turnout percentage compared to 2019. Amid this, the Opposition leaders have started claiming that the BJP’s numbers are falling. Congress leader Rahul Gandhi said the BJP would win 180 seats, but days later he revised the figures to 150. Compared to Rahul, who seems to be very strict regarding the BJP’s figures, TMC supremo and West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee gave more seats to the BJP — 195, at best. However, AAP supremo and Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal seems to be more liberal than Gandhi and Banerjee when it comes to assigning numbers to the BJP. He projected that the saffron party may get 220 seats. When the Opposition leaders are trying their best to propagate that the BJP is even struggling to cross the 200 mark, this month, in an election rally in Krishnanagar, West Bengal, Prime Minister Narendra Modi claimed that people have decided that the BJP-led NDA is poised to secure not only 370 seats but is looking forward to crossing the 400 mark. Such claims are routine for politicians during the election season to energise their ground-level workers and attract floating voters. But what caught the attention are the claims made by some journalists and political analysts, who are saying that the BJP is unlikely to get a majority on its own — and even the NDA may struggle to get the majority on its own. Psephologist turned political leader and activist Yogendra Yadav has given a loose figure of around 233 seats based on his “ground assessment” to the BJP and around 268 seats to the NDA. Before analysing the current election, first let’s revisit the 2019 Lok Sabha election, which is being cited nowadays often by many journalists and political commentators.

According to this section, this year’s election has no dominant narrative unlike the 2019 election, which, according to them, was won by the BJP-led NDA with a big mandate because of the nationalist wave generated by the Pulwama terror attack followed by the Balakot airstrike. Interestingly, a section during the election campaign then had claimed 2019 as “a waveless election”. Nevertheless, post the results, they concluded that Modi came to power for the second time only because of the opportunity provided by the Pulwama terror attack. This argument is faulty, that’s why a revisit to the 2019 elections is necessary. According to the Lokniti-CSDS post-poll study, the Pulwama terror attack and Balakot air strike were important issues for only 0.4 per cent of voters while voting. The survey pointed out that development was an important issue for 14.3 per cent of voters. This was followed by unemployment, which was important for 11.3 per cent of voters. Other issues included economic growth, corruption, price rise, water-related problems etc. These figures have been in the public domain for the last five years, still, it is amazing that in this country, we have some eminent journalists and political commentators misinterpreting the 2019 election as mostly decided on the basis of Pulwama and Balakot. Coming to the 2024 elections, Lokniti-CSDS released a pre-poll survey in April where the data pointed out that the satisfaction level towards the Modi government has seen a dip of around 8.1 per cent — a sign of serious concern for the BJP. Increasing unemployment (12.2 per cent), price rise (7.6 per cent) and falling income (4.1 per cent) are some of the crucial issues in the

Congress Focusing on Fewer Lok Sabha Seats, But Will It Work

We are more than halfway through the ongoing Lok Sabha polls. There is no denying that the Opposition INDIA bloc, led by the Congress, has been able to create a perspective that it isn’t a one-sided battle and that it is for sure not going to be “400 paar” (over 400 seats) for the ruling BJP. The usual gimmicks of stock market predictions and illegal satta (gambling) forecasts have started to emerge on social media and private WhatsApp groups. However, the underlying message is that come what may, the BJP shall be able to form the government. This probably emerges from the faith the BJP supporters have in the abilities of Prime Minister Narendra Modi being a leader with gargantuan mass appeal. However, there is also no denying the fact that the Opposition was in tatters when the poll campaign started, but by the passing of time, has been able to create an image of a close fight, which in the end could prove to be just a mirage. Nevertheless, the Congress campaign in the 2024 polls, whatever the results, would remain an area of discussion among the political scientists in the times to come. The Congress’s poll preparation could be said to have begun from the conclave it held in Udaipur in 2022. The declarations at the Udaipur Shivir talked of building a vibrant organisation. This came in the backdrop of desertions plaguing the party, especially from its most prominent leader Rahul Gandhi’s coterie. Prior to the Congress meeting in Rajasthan that year, leaders from Rahul Gandhi’s charmed circle like Jyotiraditya Scindia, Jitin Prasada, Sushmita Dev, and RPN Singh had already deserted the party. From Sonia Gandhi’s protected circle, Ahmed Patel had fallen to the coronavirus, Ghulam Nabi Azad had walked out, many had aged, and many passed away. Given the situation, how was the party to revitalise itself? The one right decision it took was to hold the polls for the post of the president of the All India Congress Committee. It did activate the party and in Mallikarjun Kharge, the Congress has found a good campaigner, who not only canvasses hard but makes a lot of sense with what he says. Strategically, unlike the Vidhan Sabha polls held some months back in the four states, the leadership has consolidated on the alliance despite the initial hiccup caused by its very convener, Bihar chief minister Nitish Kumar walking out of the formation.

BJP CHEERS | Saffron party terms win in Thiruvananthapuram and Thripunithura corporations as 'epoch-making'

Kerala for change: PM

NEW DELHI

The Bharatiya Janata Party on Saturday termed its victory in the Thiruvananthapuram and Thripunithura municipal corporations of Left-ruled Kerala as "epoch-making and a far reaching national indication for the national politics" even as Prime Minister Narendra Modi said it showed that "Kerala is fed up of UDF and LDF".

In his post on "X" on the election result, which means a lot to the BJP since the saffron party has yet not been able to make much headway in the two southern states of Kerala and Tamil Nadu, Modi wrote: "My gratitude to the people across Kerala who voted for BJP and NDA candidates in the local body polls in the state. Kerala is fed up of UDF and LDF. They see NDA as the only option that can deliver on good governance and build a #VikasitaKeralam with opportunities for all."

Meanwhile, BJP spokesper-

Kerala BJP President Rajeev Chandrasekhar being offered sweets by senior party leader V Muraliedharan

son Sudhanshu Trivedi while addressing a press conference at the party headquarters here said, "the results are epoch-making and a far-reaching national indication for the national politics."

Then referring to how the Left parties and the Congress have alternately shared power in the state, he said, "The people have become wise enough to understand that they are not going to be hoodwinked by your politics in which you are joining hands in Delhi and giving a 'friendly' fight in Thiruvananthapuram. I also want to ask Congress who stole your vote wherever the BJP did not win? And who stole CPI(M)'s vote?"

For the BJP, the victory in the two municipal bodies is a sign of acceptance in the southern state

Amit Malviya noted how while the BJP won 50 out of the 100 seats that went to polls in Thiruvananthapuram, the remaining seats were split between the LDF (29), UDF (19), and Independents (2).

He said this was "a clear shift in the political landscape" and that "Thiruvananthapuram sends a strong message."

Malviya also noted that apart from Thiruvananthapuram, "the BJP has scripted history in Kerala once again" by winning the Thripunithura Municipality by dislodging the Left. He said the party also came second in Kasaragod, pushing the Left to third place. "The rise of the BJP in Kerala continues unabated."

SIR-castic: BJP mocks at startling data of 'voters'

Party says EC scrutinising if progeny mapping was used and also notes how 85 lakh voters got facts awry

NEW DELHI

The Bharatiya Janata Party on Saturday highlighted a number of startling facts that have emerged from the Special Intensive Revision of electoral rolls in West Bengal saying "1.6 crore voters have given dates which, on the face of it, are 'logically improbable'."

The party's national information and technology department in-charge Amit Malviya in a detailed note said that the electoral data has revealed that "around 12 lakh voters in West Bengal -- around 1.5 percent of total electors -- became parents when they were only 15."

Similarly, he said, as per it "8.7 lakh became parents when they were 50, and 3.2 lakh voters became grandparents when they were 40."

Moreover, Malviya said, "a whopping 85 lakh voters have got their father's name wrong while filing the enumeration form, according to EC data." Also, "13.4 lakh Bengal voters have got their own gender wrong."

However, EC officials said this could be due to wrong selection in the form."

Malviya also shared a chart which stated that there many discrepancies were found in the electoral rolls. <

The chart noted that the father's name was wrong in case of 85.01 lakh voters; 11.95 lakh were found to have been parent at 15 years of age; 8.77 lakh had age difference of over 50 years with their children; 3.29 lakh had less than 40 year age difference with their grand-children; 13.46 lakh got their own gender wrong; and 20.47 lakh voters were over 45 years old but not there on the 2002 SIR list.

Asserting that "the Election Commission is not frowning on all these submissions", Malviya said, adding that it wants these voters to either prove their claims now or appear for formal hearings after December 16. After re-verification, the BLOs would ascertain if there was a genuine wrong entry by the voters.

The BJP leader said the EC is also checking "if bogus voters are trying to make an entry using the progeny mapping". He said the EC officials found that with one person, there was progeny mapping by at least six voters, and their figure is 24.2 lakh.

"These cases are being scrutinised," he added.

He also pointed out that the EC is also referring to the 2002 SIR to streamline the data and "so far, the EC has found 20.7 lakh voters whose names were not there in the 2002 SIR."

SIT names ex-BJP MLA in charge sheet

BENGALURU

The SIT formed by the Karnataka government to investigate into the "Vote Chori" allegations in Aland constituency, Kalburgi district has filed a chargesheet, naming former BJP MLA Subhash Guttedar, his son Harshanand Guttedar and four others.

In the 22,000-page chargesheet, the SIT headed by ADGP B K Singh has said that Guttedar had used a call centre in Aland to delete 5,994 votes from the voter list and paid money to the call centre owner.

The call centre owner Akram Pasha, his brother Aslam Pasha and relative Mohammed Ashfaq had received Rs4.6 lakh from Guttedar family to delete the names from voter list. They had paid Rs10 per OTP to a person called Adyage Basha of Nadia district, West Bengal to file online applications for deleting the names in voter list. The Aslam Pasha had charged Rs80 per application, the SIT has charged.

The SIT has alleged that the Election Commission had not cooperated with their investigation.

VOTE CHORI

However, they raided the houses of Subhash Guttedar, his children in Aland and Kalburgi and also the call centre and seized laptops and mobile phones.

When the SIT raided the houses of Guttedars, some of the documents had already been destroyed. However, the SIT got digital evidence of the conspiracy and financial transactions between Guttedar and Aslam Pasha, the charge sheet pointed out.

During the first round of "Vote Chori" allegations, the Congress, especially LoP Rahul Gandhi had alleged that large scale discrepancies had taken place during 2024 Parliament elections in Mahadevapura constituency.

MLA bats for separate North Karnataka state

This is not the first time the MLA has raised the issue. Earlier, he had written to Prime Minister Narendra Modi and President Droupadi Murmu, seeking a separate North Karnataka state.

During the ongoing winter legislature session, Raju Kage raked up issue in the Assembly and declared that he would continue to press for a separate statehood, alleging long-standing discrimination and neglect by the successive governments. "Some media houses and pro-Kannada organisations have criticised me for my demands. Those who want to criticise, let them continue doing so. I will remain firm and continue to raise the issue," Kage said.

Goa: Two nightclubs sealed; safety crackdown intensifies

PANAJI

Authorities have sealed at least two nightclubs as part of a statewide crackdown following the death of 25 people in a devastating fire at the Birch by Romeo Lane nightclub on December 6, officials said.

Cafe CO2 Goa, a prominent nightclub located on a cliff overlooking the Arabian Sea at Vagator beach in North Goa, was sealed on Saturday. The move came two days after Goya Club, also in Vagator, was shut down for alleged violations. An inspection of Cafe CO2 Goa at Ozrant Cliff by a state government-appointed team revealed that the club, which has a seating capacity of 250, did not possess a no-objection certificate (NOC) from the Fire and Emergency Services Department.

"There are also some issues with its structural stability. Additionally, the club had extended its construction beyond the permissible limits,

Deportation proceedings for Luthra brothers begin

Bangkok: Thai Immigration authorities have initiated deportation proceedings against the Luthra brothers following their arrest in the country. The individuals were detained after being flagged as subjects of an INTERPOL Blue Notice, requested by Indian law enforcement agencies to gather information concerning a criminal investigation. According to Thai Immigration officials, Luthras were arrested under Section 12(7) of the Thai Immigration Act. Subsequently, officials at Phuket Immigration formally revoked their VISA permission to stay in Thailand, effectively cancelling their legal status in the kingdom.

due to which it was shut down", a state government official said.

Police investigating the Birch by Romeo Lane fire tragedy have arrested six people so far, including managers and staff members of the nightclub.

Chief Minister Pramod Sawant has warned that establishments failing to comply with the new norms will face cancellation of licences and sealing of premises.

The regulations focus on strict enforcement of existing safety rules and the introduction of additional measures ahead of the Christmas and New Year season.

Under the new guidelines, all establishments must maintain valid fire safety certifications and obtain necessary NOCs from the Fire Department. Functional smoke detectors, sprinklers, fire hydrants and fire extinguishers have been made mandatory.

UP BJP prez: Pankaj Chaudhary 'all set'

LUCKNOW

Union Minister of State for Finance and seven-time Maharajanji MP Pankaj Chaudhary on Saturday filed his nomination for the post of Uttar Pradesh BJP president, signalling an imminent change in the party's state leadership.

Chaudhary submitted his nomination at the BJP state headquarters in Lucknow in the presence of Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, who proposed his name. Deputy Chief Ministers Keshav Prasad Maurya and Brajesh Pathak, along with several senior party leaders, were also present. With no rival candidate emerging so far, his election is considered almost certain.

The move has triggered fresh political activity within the party, with the BJP seen as placing a strong organisational bet on Chaudhary ahead of upcoming electoral challenges. Party leaders believe his influence among backward communities will help the BJP consolidate its traditional support base and counter the opposition's PDA narrative.

His elevation is also being viewed as a strategic effort to strengthen the party's social outreach in the state.

Born in 1964 in Gorakhpur, Chaudhary completed his education up to graduation at Gorakhpur University. He entered politics in 1989 as a councillor in the Gorakhpur Municipal Corporation and later served as deputy mayor. After Maharajanji was carved out as a separate district, he made it the centre of his political activities and gradually emerged as a key leader in the region.

Chaudhary built a strong reputation in district panchayat politics in Maharajanji. His family has played a prominent role in local governance. His elder brother, the late industrialist Pradeep Chaudhary, became the first district panchayat chairman of Maharajanji, followed by two consecutive terms by his mother Ujjwal Chaudhary. Party leaders say that even while in opposition, Chaudhary managed to retain influence over the district panchayat through organisational strength and political strategy.

IndiGo restores full network operations

MUMBAI

IndiGo showed signs of nearing operational normalcy as the carrier aimed to operate over 2,050 flights on Saturday, after more than 10 days of disruptions.

This marked the second consecutive day of sustained stability as the airline operated more than 2,000 flights to all the destinations on its network.

IndiGo went through a severe crisis earlier this month after more than 4,500 flights were cancelled between December 1 and 10, affecting tens of thousands of passengers at various airports across the country.

The cancellations stemmed from the airline's inefficient rostering of pilots after the second phase of flight duty time limit (FDTL), mandating increased rest hours and restricting night landing, was implemented from November 1.

GST 2.0 may reduce retail inflation by 35 bps in 2025-26: SBI report

NEW DELHI

The decline in Consumer Price Index (CPI) or retail inflation due to massive GST rate rationalisation has been around 25 bps so far in the September-November 2025 period, according to estimates put forth by SBI Research.

GST rationalisation has led to a reduction in CPI inflation in India.

SBI Research had earlier estimated that the impact of GST on CPI could be around 85 basis points.

"However, item-by-item calculation now shows that the decline in CPI inflation due to GST has been around 25 basis points so far in the Sep-Nov '25 period," the SBI Research report read.

"We believe that this impact does not account for the discounts on e-commerce sales, which could be higher because of GST reduction. We believe that total reduction in CPI owing to GST could be 35 bps (basis points) in 2025-26," the report read.

In November 2025, Kerala's inflation stood at 8.27%, with rural inflation at 9.34% and urban inflation at 6.33%; the sharp increase in the prices of gold, silver, and oil and fats, whose consumption is high in the state, is likely a driver.

Going forward, inflation in India is expected to rise further given the depreciation of the rupee. SBI Research forecasts inflation for 2025-26 at 1.8% and for 2026-27 at 3.4%, but doesn't see any change in RBI's stance on present rates at least for the February monetary policy. According to the SBI report, India's CPI inflation trend is expected to reach 2.7% in March 2026.

I-T department sends SMS/emails for bogus political donation claims

The Income Tax department has started sending SMS and email advisories to taxpayers for wrongful deduction claims related to unrecognised political parties or charitable institutions, the finance ministry said on Saturday.

The Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) said through data analysis it has observed that huge amount of bogus claims have been made on account of donation to Registered Unrecognised Political Parties (RUPPs) or Charitable Institutions and reduced their tax obligations and have also claimed bogus refunds.

"A targeted NUDGE campaign has been launched as a taxpayer-friendly measure, providing them opportunity to update their ITRs and withdraw wrong claims, if any. SMSs and Email advisories are being issued from 12th December 2025 to such taxpayers on their registered mobile numbers and emails," the finance ministry said in a statement.

The CBDT said that evidence gathered from enforcement actions indicated that RUPPs, many of which were non-filers, non-operational at their registered addresses, and are not engaged in any political activity, were being used as conduits for routing funds, hawala transactions, cross border remittances, and issuing bogus receipts for donations.

India engages Mexico over up to 50% tariff hike

PEACE PLAN | Trump readies next phase; storm kills 14 people*Int'l troops deployment in Gaza early next year

TEL AVIV

International troops could be deployed in the Gaza Strip as early as next month to form a UN-authorised stabilisation force, two US officials told Reuters, but it remains unclear how Palestinian militants Hamas will be disarmed.

The officials, requesting anonymity, said the International Stabilisation Force would not fight Hamas. They said many nations had expressed interest in contributing and Washington is currently working out the size of the ISF, composition, housing, training and rules of engagement. An American two-star general is being considered to lead the ISF but no decisions have been made.

Deployment of the force is a key part of the next phase of US President Donald Trump's Gaza peace plan. Under the first phase, a fragile ceasefire in the two-year war began on October 10 and Hamas has released hostages and Israel has freed detained Palestinians. Indonesia is prepared to deploy up to 20,000 troops to take on health and construction-related tasks in Gaza.

Husam Badran, a member of Hamas' political bureau, told Xinhua Palestinian factions in Gaza have given initial approval for a potential international force in the territory,

DISPLACED GAZANS FACE FLOODS

Hundreds of thousands of displaced Gazans face flooding of their tents and shelters by heavy rains, and materials for shelters and sandbags are not being allowed to enter the enclave, the UN International Organisation for Migration said.

Torrential rain swept across Gaza on Thursday, flooding tents sheltering families displaced by two years of war, and leading to the death of a baby girl due to exposure, local health officials said.

A total of 14 Palestinians are dead as a result of the storm, with multiple buildings having collapsed, Palestine's official Wafa news agency reported on Friday.

Nearly 795,000 displaced people are at heightened risk of potentially dangerous flooding in low-lying, rubble-filled areas where families are living in unsafe shelters, the IOM said.

Trump leans towards Warsh or Hasset to lead Federal Reserve

US President Donald Trump indicated he is leaning towards selecting either former Fed governor Kevin Warsh or National Economic Council Director Kevin Hassett as the next Federal Reserve chair.

In an Oval Office interview with "The Wall Street Journal" on Friday, Trump said Warsh was at the top of his list. "Yes, I think he is. I think you have Kevin and Kevin. They're both—I think the two Kevins are great," he said, adding "there are a couple of other people that are great."

While Hassett has recently emerged as the perceived front-runner following Trump's hints about making a decision, the president's latest comments suggest Warsh remains a strong contender.

Trump met with Warsh for 45 minutes on Wednesday at the White House, where he questioned whether Warsh would support interest rate cuts if appointed to lead the central bank. "He thinks you have to lower interest rates," Trump said of Warsh.

The president expressed his belief the next Fed chair should consult with him on interest rate decisions. "Typically, that's not done anymore. It used to be done routinely. It should be done," Trump said. "It doesn't mean—I don't think he should do exactly what we say. But certainly we're—I'm a smart voice and should be listened to."

Iran raises fuel prices 1st time since 2019 stirs

Tehran: Iran introduced a new pricing tier on Saturday for its nationally subsidised gasoline to rein in spiralling costs for the first time since a price hike in 2019 that sparked nationwide protests and a crackdown that reportedly killed over 300 people.

Cheap petrol has been viewed for generations as a birthright in Iran, sparking mass protests in 1964 when a price rise forced the shah to put military vehicles on the streets to replace the striking cabbies.

But Iran's theocracy faces a growing squeeze from the country's rapidly depreciating rial currency and economic sanctions imposed due to Tehran's nuclear program.

That has made the cost of having some of the world's cheapest gasoline at a few pennies per gallon that much more expensive. The government's hesitant move towards increasing prices likely signals it wants to avoid any confrontation with the exhausted

Iranians following the 12-day war with Israel in June. "Our discontent has no result," fumed Saeed Mohammadi, a teacher who works as a taxi driver in spare time to make ends meet. "The government does whatever it likes. They don't ask people if they agree."

NEW RATE IS STILL PENNIES PER GALLON

The new pricing system adds a third pricing level to the country's long-running subsidy system. The revised structure allows motorists to continue receiving 60 litres (15 gallons)/month at the subsidised 15,000 rials/ltr, or 1.25 US cents, and the next 100 ltrs (26 gallons) will remain at 30,000 rials/litre, or 2.5 cents.

Anything beyond falls under the new scheme of 50,000 rials/ltr, 4 cents. Iran introduced fuel rationing in 2007, but that has yet to ease demand for the ultra-cheap petrol.

Witkoff, Zelenskyy Berlin meet today

Washington: US envoy Steve Witkoff and President Donald Trump's son-in-law Jared Kushner will meet Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy and European leaders in Berlin this weekend, a US official said. Witkoff will also meet his counterparts from France, Britain and Germany on Sunday and Monday.

The Wall Street Journal was first to report the meeting. The choice to send Witkoff, who has led negotiations with Ukraine and Russia regarding a US peace proposal, highlights Washington's growing urgency to bridge remaining gaps with Kyiv over the plan's terms.

French President Emmanuel

Macron, British PM Sir Keir Starmer and German Chancellor Friedrich Merz were also expected to attend, the Journal said.

At least two people were killed in a drone attack in Russia's Saratov region.

Move in US House against India tariffs

NEW YORK/WASHINGTON

Three influential US lawmakers have introduced a resolution in Congress aimed at ending the tariffs imposed by President Trump on India, saying the "irresponsible tariff strategy" toward Delhi is a counterproductive approach that "weakens a critical partnership".

Representatives Deborah Ross of North Carolina, Marc Veasey of Texas and Raja Krishnamoorthi of Illinois introduced the resolution on Friday in the House of Representatives to terminate Trump's national emergency authorising tariffs of up to 50% on imports from India, helping to restore Congress' constitutional authority over trade.

The resolution would terminate the national emergency that Trump invoked to impose sweeping tariffs on Indian goods under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (IEEPA) and rescind the additional 25% "secondary" duties that took effect on August 27 on top of earlier reciprocal tariffs.

Together, these measures raised duties on many Indian-origin products to 50%, a statement issued by Ross said. Krishnamoorthi said Trump's "irresponsible tariff strategy toward India is a counterproductive approach that weakens a critical partnership."

"Instead of advancing American interests or security, these duties disrupt supply chains, harm American workers, and drive up costs for consumers. Ending these damaging tariffs will allow the United States to engage with India to advance our shared economic and security needs," the Indian-American lawmaker said.

The resolution follows a bipartisan Senate-passed measure to end Trump's Brazil tariffs and rein in his abuse of emergency powers to raise duties on imports, the statement said. "North Carolina's economy is deeply connected to India through trade, investment, and a vibrant Indian American community," Ms Ross said. She said Indian companies have invested over a billion dollars and created thousands of good-paying jobs in our state — especially in the Research Triangle's life sciences and technology sectors.

North Carolina manufacturers export hundreds of millions of dollars in goods to India each year, including pharmaceuticals, chemicals, and advanced machinery.

"When Trump destabilises this relationship with illegal tariffs, he puts North Carolina jobs, innovation, and our long-term competitiveness at risk," she added.

The statement said Ross, Veasey and Krishnamoorthi have been leading voices in Congress opposing Trump's tariff agenda and calling for a reset of US-India relations.

In October, they partnered with Congressman Ro Khanna and 19 members of Congress in urging Trump to repair America's strained relationship with India and reverse his harmful tariff policies.

Ready to deal with threats, Pak CDF Munir

ISLAMABAD

Chief of Defence Forces and Chief of Army Staff Field Marshal Asim Munir on Saturday said his forces were ready to deal with the threats posed by the external and international elements.

Munir visited Gujranwala and Sialkot garrisons, and was briefed on the formation's operational readiness and initiatives for strengthening combat preparedness, an army statement said.

"Pakistan Army remains fully focused on both internal and external challenges, including hostile hybrid campaigns, extremist ideologies, and divisive elements seeking to undermine national stability," he said.

Meanwhile, a UN expert has called on the Pakistan government to take urgent action to address reports of "inhumane and undignified detention conditions" of former PM Imran Khan.

The UN Special Rapporteur on torture Alice Jill Edwards said prolonged or indefinite solitary confinement is prohibited under international human rights law. When it extends longer than 15 days, it is a form of psychological torture.

‘No big deal’: Trump on new Epstein pics

Washington: US President Donald Trump played down the significance of new photographs showing him alongside convicted sex offender Jeffrey Epstein, calling the matter "no big deal".

About the newly released images by the Oversight Committee that featured Trump, Bill Clinton and Steve Bannon, the US president said, "I haven't seen them, but I mean, everybody knew this man. He was all over Palm Beach."

Trump added, "He (Epstein) has photos with everybody. I mean, almost there are hundreds and hundreds of people that have photos with him. So that's no big deal. I know nothing about him."

BALLROOM PROJECT: DON FACES LAWSUIT

Trump was sued on Friday by preservationists asking a federal court to halt his White House ballroom project until it goes through review and wins Congress approval.

The National Trust for Historic Preservation, a privately funded group, is asking the US District Court to block Trump's White House ballroom addition, which already has involved razing the East Wing, until it goes through comprehensive design reviews, environmental assessments, public comments and congressional debate and ratification. "No president is allowed to tear down portions of the White House without any review whatsoever," the lawsuit said.

Chief Adviser Muhammad Yunus-led interim government on Saturday ordered a nationwide security clampdown as fresh unrest gripped Bangladesh following the shooting of a youth leader of a right-wing cultural group who was also a candidate in the February 12 general elections.

"The government is going to start the second phase of Operation Devil Hunt to help ensure public safety and combat the growing threat of illegal arms," Home Affairs adviser Lt Gen (rtd) Jahangir Alam Chowdhury told a press conference.

The announcement came after three assailants shot Inquilab Mancha leader Sharif Osmann Hadi on Friday, as he hunt in February this year, following protests over an attack on the private house of a former minister in the northern suburb of the capital.

The clampdown targeted alleged "henchmen" and supporters of deposed prime minister Sheikh Hasina's now disbanded Awami League.

The Inquilab Mancha was on the forefront of a campaign to disband the Awami League.

Lords commemorate Dadabhai Naoroji's 200th birth anniv

LONDON

The House of Lords in London played host to a special reception in honour of the 200th birth anniversary of Dadabhai Naoroji, the nationalist leader who became the first Indian to win a popular election to the British Parliament during the colonial era.

Known as the "grand old man of India", Naoroji was born in September 1825 to a Parsi family in Mumbai and first travelled to England in 1855 before becoming an influential figure.

Lord Karan Bilimoria, a fellow Parsi parliamentarian, hosted Friday's reception in honour of the life and legacy of the polymath who straddled multiple roles of a Zoroastrian priest, businessman, academic and politician.

"In many ways, I have followed in the footsteps of Dadabhai Naoroji, who came initially for business to the UK," said Bilimoria, founder of Cobra Beer. "He was also an academic as a professor at Elphinstone College and, of course, he was a politician — the first Indian, first ethnic minority ever to be elected to this Parliament," he noted.

Bilimoria revealed the bicentenary commemoration was initially planned for September, to coincide with the month of Dadabhai Naoroji's birth 200 years ago, but had to be postponed due to strike action. —PTI

Charles reveals 'good news' in cancer fight

LONDON

Britain's King Charles III has shared an important "milestone" in his battle against cancer that will see his weekly treatment schedule scaled back and used the "good news" to urge people to take up screenings to ensure early diagnosis of the disease.

The 77-year-old monarch issued a rare health-related video message on Friday evening to coincide with a 'Stand Up To Cancer' joint campaign by the Cancer Research UK charity and Channel 4 television. It marks nearly two years since Buckingham Palace had revealed Charles would undergo treatment for an unidentified form of cancer.

"I am able to share with you the good news that thanks to early diagnosis, effective intervention and adherence to 'doctors' orders', my own schedule of cancer treatment can be reduced in the New Year," said Charles, the pre-recorded message.

"This milestone is both a personal blessing and a testimony to the remarkable advances that have been made in cancer care in recent years; testimony that I hope may give encouragement to the 50% of us who will be diagnosed with the illness at some point in our lives," he said. He promoted a new national "Screening Checker" online tool, which allows Britons to check if they are eligible for breast, bowel or cervical cancer screening through the National Health Service.

"Throughout my own cancer journey, I have been profoundly moved by what I can only call the 'community of care' that surrounds every cancer patient—the specialists, the nurses, researchers and volunteers who work tirelessly to save and improve lives," said Charles. "But I have also learned something that troubles me deeply - at least 9 million people in our country are not up to date with the cancer screenings available to them. That is at least 9 million opportunities for early diagnosis being missed. Early diagnosis quite simply saves lives."

Kunal shines in breezy take on single parenting

TITLE: Single Papa

DIRECTORS: Shashank Kaithan and Hitesh Kewalya

CAST: Kunal Kemmu, Prajakta Koli, Manoj Pahwa, Neha Dhupia, Ayesha Raza Mishra, Ankur Rathee, Isha Talwar, Dayanand Shetty, Hami Ali, and Suhail Nayyar

WHERE: Netflix

RATING: ★★☆☆

Single Papa is a six-episode dramedy that treats single parenting with the same gravity one might reserve for choosing between pav bhaji and misal for dinner. Directed by Shashank Kaithan and Hitesh Kewalya, the series follows newly divorced Gaurav Gehlot, played by Kunal Kemmu, who is cheerfully reclaiming his bachelorhood until fate gifts him a baby abandoned in the back seat of his car. Instead of raising sensible questions like "Whose child is this?" or "Is this even legal to abandon?", the narrative joyfully vaults into a universe where Gaurav decides to raise the infant himself, much to his family's horror and disbelief.

The result is a warm, pleasantly chaotic, sometimes melancholic, sometimes hopeful ride that draws its charm from the age-old revelation that single dads, like the rest of us, learn on the job. The writing never leans too hard into preachiness, though the show gently reminds us that parenting is not a one-person sport and that biology is hardly the only glue that binds a family. The series brims with staples of a classic masala entertainer, and while some of the story turns feel a little too convenient, the show remains engaging, affectionate and sincere.

Actors' performance

Kunal Kemmu slips into the role of Gaurav with disarming ease, oscillating between clueless man-child and unexpectedly tender caregiver. The rest of the cast are a riot in their own right. Prajakta Koli, as Gaurav's sister Namrata, delivers that exasperated sibling energy with impeccable timing. Manoj Pahwa and Ayesha Raza Mishra make for a believable parental duo, forever torn between frustration and affection as they watch their son dive headfirst into fatherhood.

Neha Dhupia goes full throttle as Mrs Nehra, the formidable, rules-obsessed authority figure who would probably issue parking tickets in her sleep. Dayanand Shetty is a delightful revelation as Manny Parbat Singh, the gentle giant who softens the room every time he appears. Suhail Nayyar's Pawan and Ankur Rathee's Goldie both add texture and humour, rounding off a cast that seems to be genuinely enjoying itself. Single Papa sparkles with bright colours, polished sets and camera work that flatter its every mood. The production design leans into a cheerful urban palette that suits the story's tone. Nothing feels gloomy even when the characters do. The music is pleasant, the pacing zippy, and the visual energy never dips. The series clearly knows it wants to be a feel-good watch, and it commits to that identity with full sincerity.

Single Papa is not groundbreaking, but it is undoubtedly heartwarming. It offers a fresh Indian twist on single-parenting stories, blending melodrama with humour and emotion in equal measure. The writing occasionally wanders into cliché territory, yet the sincerity of its performances and the warmth of its message keep it afloat. It is the kind of show you watch with a smile, knowing it will not change your life but will certainly brighten your evening. A wholesome, entertaining weekend binge.

TITLE: Saali Mohabbat

DIRECTOR: Tisca Chopra

CAST: Radhika Apte, Divyendu, Anurag Kashyap, Anshuman Pushkar, Sauraseni Maitra, Sharad Saxena

WHERE: ZEE 5

RATING: ★★☆☆

By now, whenever and wherever there is a mere mention of Radhika Apte, rest assured that the screen will be on fire with her performance. The film Saali Mohabbat is no different. It starts off with Smita (Radhika Apte) sitting alone at a railway station, followed by a flashback mode that mirrors her life... in her own words as she tells a story to a bunch of her husband's friends at a party. It's also the same party in which she sees her husband secretly flirting with another woman.

Under the pretext of telling a story, she recalls her life with her drunkard and habitual gambler husband Pankaj Tiwari. There enters her sister Shalini Saxena (Sauraseni Maitra) who two-times Smita's husband with Pankaj Tiwari (Anshuman Pushkar) and Police Inspector Ratan Pandit (Divyendu). Despite knowing about her sister and her flirtatious ways, Smita keeps quiet.

One fine day, Smita finds the blood stained dead bodies of her husband Pankaj Tiwari and her sister Shalini Saxena. Investigations by Inspector Ratan lead to Gajendra Bhaiya (Anurag Kashyap), the owner of a gambling den in which Pankaj was a regular client. It also comes to light that Pankaj owed Gajendra a huge amount of money as mounting debts since he was on a losing spree at the gambling den.

Radhika Apte retains her superstar shine

Who is/are the killers of Pankaj and Shalini, what is the motive behind their murders and what ultimately happens to Smita is what forms the rest of the film.

Actors' performance

As stated above, the name of Radhika Apte simply assures on-screen fireworks in the form of her performance. With this film, she has yet again proved as to why she is one of the most 'versa-style' actors of today. Right from the word go, she not just owns up the screen, but also sets the film on fire with her effortless performance. Her smooth oscillation between the varied shades of emotions will surely make you drop your jaws!

Following a close second is Divyendu who comes up with a restrained but convincing performance. Veteran actors Anurag Kashyap and Sharad Saxena deliver strong performances within their available screen time. Other actors like Anshuman Pushkar and Sauraseni Maitra ably carry the film forward.

As for the film's direction, kudos to Tisca Chopra for having chosen to step into direction with such an unconventional film. Tisca's directorial abilities find a perfect muse in Radhika Apte who seamlessly blends herself into the character. Here's looking forward to more films at the hands of Tisca.

The film's writing (Tisca Chopra, Sanjay Chopra) is simple yet appealing. Cinematography (Vidushi Tiwari) is taut. The film's editing (Sanyukta Kaza) is commendable. The film's music is decent and so is its background music (Karan Kulkarni).

The film may not be appealing to everyone as it has got its section of audiences who love such kinds of whodunit thrillers. But, since it's an OTT release, word of mouth will form the keyword for the film to be declared as a hit or a flop!

TITLE: The Great Shamsuddin Family

DIRECTOR: Anushka Rizvi

CAST: Kritika Kamra, Farida Jalal, Sheeba Chaddha, Dolly Ahluwalia, and others

WHERE: JioHotstar

RATING: ★★☆☆

This is exactly the sort of film that makes you wonder why interior designers in India even bother selling the idea of "personal space." Director Anusha Rizvi returns with a slice-of-life comedy drama that tastes sweet, sour, and occasionally over-spiced, much like the family it portrays. The premise is simple enough.

Bani, played with steady grace by Kritika Kamra, has twelve hours to submit a crucial US job application. Naturally, this is the moment when her entire extended clan decides to treat her home as the arrival terminal of the Shamsuddin International Airport.

What follows is a dense medley of secrets, aspirations, sudden Umrath plans, misplaced sajjada (praying mats), cash deposits, and an unexpected marriage plan. The film revels in the noisy charm of a joint family where privacy is a myth. Yet beneath their interactions lies a thoughtfully woven undercurrent. The narrative softly touches upon the anxieties the Muslim community carries in everyday life, never sermonising, but never hiding either.

Chaos and charm in a joyfully crowded house

While the plotting sometimes feels like a stage play with meticulously timed entrances and exits, the execution remains breezy. The script mines humour from chaos, warmth from conflict, and tenderness from misunderstandings. The film's strength is its ability to make the mess feel real and lived in, and the emotional payoff lands with sincerity.

Actors' performance

Kritika Kamra anchors the film with admirable subtlety. She plays Bani as a woman constantly ricocheting between duty and ambition, frustration and affection, and her performance gives the narrative its emotional heartbeat. Shreya Dhanwanthary's Iram is spirited yet gullible, especially in the scenes involving her mehr money mission. Juhi Babbar complements her well as the efficient older cousin Humaira.

The veterans steal the screen with delightful ease. Dolly Ahluwalia, Farida Jalal, Natasha Rastogi and Sheeba Chaddha bring warmth, comic timing, and an unspoken history that makes their sisterhood instantly believable. Nishank Verma and Anushka Banerjee add to the familial mayhem, while Purab Kohli breezes in with just the right amount of charm. Every actor feels perfectly placed, and there is not a single dull performance in the ensemble.

Aesthetics

This is not a film that flaunts grandeur. The production values are modest and intentionally grounded. Much of the story unfolds inside Bani's home, giving the film an intimate, theatre-like feel. The cluttered interiors and overlapping conversations all contribute to a lived-in authenticity. Rizvi's eye for detail is evident in the way she frames domestic frenzy without losing the emotional threads.

The aesthetic strength lies in its realism. The weakness lies in visual monotony. Occasionally, one wishes the camera would escape the apartment to offer a breather. Still, the controlled environment heightens the sense of pressure on Bani and mirrors the claustrophobia of her situation.

Overall, this culturally rooted entertainer celebrates the madness of big Indian families while acknowledging their burdens. It might not push cinematic boundaries, but it delivers an honest, heartfelt portrait of love wrapped in clutter. It is a perfect pick for viewers who enjoy stories of togetherness, generational tussles, and the bittersweet bonds that make families both impossible and indispensable.

'We use them to promote our films...'

Actress Huma Qureshi recently spoke about paparazzi culture, days after Jaya Bachchan's controversial remark about paps wearing 'drainpipe tight, gande pant.' Huma said that the paparazzi are important and that everyone is simply doing their job. Calling it an ecosystem, she added that if people view the media and audience from one perspective, then they all share the responsibility to communicate respectfully, even when some disagree or want to know something from them.

Speaking to India Today, Huma said that she has a very healthy relationship with the paparazzi. "I think they are also important. I won't lie, but we use them when we need to promote our films or bring a certain aspect of our lives into the public eye. There have been times when we needed to promote our films, so we invited them to premieres. When we want to be spotted somewhere, we call them. I don't want to put all the blame on them," she added.

Further, she stated that sometimes when she doesn't look her best, she requests them not to post her pictures, and the paparazzi agree to it as well. She added that she has been working for 10-12 years, and over time, her relationships with them have developed in this way.

"Maybe it hasn't been the same for others. There have been times when they've taken pictures of me from bad angles. But now I stop them and tell them not to do that," she added.

Huma added, "If you want to intrude on my privacy, you will ask questions that I won't find appropriate. Or I might be wearing a certain dress, and you'll try to capture it from a particular angle, which isn't right. There's a limit, which I think people should never cross. But we do cross that line, that's the reality. I'm not saying anything new. As a female actress, I have experienced all of this. Someone asked me a very inappropriate question during a press conference."

The actress further said, "My philosophy is simple: don't misbehave and don't let others misbehave."

On the work front, Huma was last seen in the series Delhi Crime Season 3, alongside Shefali Shah in the lead.

Nawazuddin Siddiqui, Honey Trehan explore realism

Actor Nawazuddin Siddiqui and Honey Trehan reunite for Raat Akeli Hai, highlighting a grounded cop universe inspired by characters around them

Actor Nawazuddin Siddiqui and director Honey Trehan have teamed up again for Raat Akeli Hai: The Bansal Murders, an investigative drama woven around a cop character that they say is very close to real life. The crime thriller franchise began with the 2020 acclaimed movie, Raat Akeli Hai, in which the actor plays an honest police officer, Jatil Yadav.

Siddiqui, whose last big screen outing saw him playing a vampire in Thamma, said he finds immense satisfaction in bringing real-life narratives to the screen. "I like Honey's films because that character, that world exists around us. We make fantasy or larger-than-life films but what I like the most is the real-life stories," the actor told PTL.

Working with Trehan, Siddiqui said, gives him a distinct viewpoint that is connected to reality. "When you work with such experienced and talented directors, they have their own perspective, and that perspective is very close to real life. Like, Honey said, 'I'll have those characters that exist (in real life) in all my films. I like it a lot when we see those characters that are around us,' he said, adding that it's essential to share real-life stories with audiences.

Trehan, a casting director who crossed over to moving making with Raat Akeli Hai and then made his yet-unreleased Punjab 95 with Diljit Dosanjh, said real life stories woven around the world of cops and crime fascinate him. "When I read Smita's (Singh) script, I liked it. I immediately dropped the three-four ideas that I had without wasting any time and said, 'let's make this'. She trusted me with it and that's how Raat Akeli Hai happened. Raat Akeli Hai has its own universe, it's a cop universe created by Jatil," he said.

Bhutia calls Messi chaos disappointing

Former India captain Bhaichung Bhutia on Saturday expressed disappointment over the chaos at a stadium in Kolkata during an event attended by Argentine football icon Lionel Messi, and said organisers should ensure that such incidents do not recur as they hurt the country's image. Bhutia was talking to reporters at the airport here after returning from Jagdalpur where he attended the closing ceremony of Bastar Olympic 2025 event. Asked about the incident at Salt Lake stadium in Kolkata, he said, "It is a bit disappointing because I heard that around 80,000 fans turned up. Everybody loves Messi, but genuine fans did not really get to see him, which is very unfortunate." He hoped that organisers learn a lesson and ensure such a situation does not occur."

Uthappa flags lack of role clarity

Former India batter Robin Uthappa has flagged a lack of role clarity in India's batting approach during a big chase, saying excessive flexibility early in the innings made run-scoring more complicated. India suffered a 51-run loss in the second T20I against South Africa after folding for 162 in 19.1 overs while chasing a target of 214 at Mullanpur on Thursday. Uthappa said the issue was not the loss of early wickets but the strategy adopted after Shubman Gill's dismissal, particularly with a deep batting line-up at India's disposal. "When Shubman Gill got out, Axar Patel walked in with plenty of batting still to come. At that stage, he had to play the role of a pinch-hitter -- someone you are willing to risk."

3RD T20I | A three-match audition starts for beleaguered India vice-captain

Cynosure on Gill in the hill

DHARAMSALA

The countdown to save his place in the playing XI begins for a beleaguered Shubman Gill, who is likely to get three matches against South Africa to prove his worth before the Indian team management switches to a 'Plan B' ahead of the T20 World Cup, starting in six weeks.

As India gear up to play the third T20I against the Proteas on Sunday in sub-10-degree temperatures in the lap of the ice-clad Dhauladhar range, things are suddenly heating up in the Indian dressing room, with the prolonged poor form of skipper Suryakumar Yadav coming under the scanner.

Worse, his deputy Shubman Gill, who was pushed into the XI at the expense of a settled Sanju Samson, is not settling much confidence.

The South African pace attack featuring Anrich Nortje, Marco Jansen, Lungi Ngidi, Ottiel Baartman and Lutho Sipamla - has shown how to bowl on Indian tracks, and the HPCA Stadium strip, offering extra bounce and some movement off the surface, will certainly keep them interested.

Among all T20 sides, South Africa, in terms of personnel, appears to have the requisite balance to win the trophy in the Indian subcontinent this time. Quinton de Kock's return, along with the likes of Aiden Markram, Dewald Brevis, Donovan Ferreira, David Miller and all-rounder Jansen, gives their batting an intimidating look.

With only eight games, starting from the third T20I, left before the start of the T20 World Cup title defence, India's under-fire head coach Gautam Gambhir won't be able to afford, two out-of-form top-order batters in the starting line-up.

Being the skipper of the side, Surya will certainly have immunity going into the T20

World Cup despite being completely out of form for the past one year but same can't be said about Gill, who wasn't the original choice as an opener.

Gill's entry into the T20 set-up was a classic case of trying to fix something that ain't broken and things haven't looked good so far.

In this backdrop, Gill would need to bat out of his skin to prove that Ajit Agarkar-led committee wasn't wrong in throwing Samson under the bus for one bad series against England.

The stylish Indian Test and ODI skipper will have to find his T20 game and at least score in two of the three matches if he doesn't want Samson to get his rightful place back or for that matter, find Yashasvi Jaiswal, with a fabulous T20I strike-rate of 165, enter the fray during New Zealand series.

Lack of clarity

While head coach Gambhir is too proud a person to admit but sending Axar Patel as a one drop batter during the second T20I was a "tactical brain fade" from the team's think-tank.

The kind misstep that was taken with Axar's promotion is unlikely to be repeated in the third game where skipper is expected to go back to No.3

where he has got a lot of success in his first few years at the international level.

Similarly, Shivam Dube being sent at number eight due to the shuffling of batting order was another poor call which would need course correction in the next game.

Is there a place for Kuldeep Yadav?

Kuldeep Yadav is one bowler who has consistently troubled the Proteas batter but in an Indian team where batting till No. 8 is non-negotiable, the left-arm wrist spinner often finds himself getting the rough end of the stick. At Dharamsala too, he might have to sit out as Kuldeep and Varun Chakravarthy, two non-batters can't be clubbed in the same T20 playing eleven as that would lead to compromise in batting depth. While Arshdeep hasn't had a good series so far, it will be interesting to find if team management can find a place for Kuldeep in the playing eleven.

Tilak bats for flexible batting order in the team

Batter states adaptability has become a key requirement

DHARAMSALA

India batter Tilak Varma on Saturday underlined the team management's push for a flexible batting order, saying most players are ready to bat anywhere depending on match situations.

The hosts eye an edge in the five-match T20I series against South Africa, locked 1-1 ahead of the third game to be played here on Sunday.

With India continuing to experiment in the middle-order in the build-up to next year's T20 World Cup, Tilak said adaptability has become a key requirement in the shortest format.

"Everyone is flexible except the openers. I am up for batting at 3, 4, 5 or 6 - wherever the team prefers for me," Tilak said during the pre-match press conference.

"If the team feels a particular move is tactically best, everyone goes with the team." Drawing parallels with recent examples, Tilak said such decisions are situation-based rather than role-driven.

"One-off games keep happening. Axar Patel has already done the same thing and he did well there. It depends on the situation," he said, citing examples of similar roles being successfully executed in recent international tournaments. Providing context to the conditions in Dharamsala, the 23-year-old said the surface could still favour batters despite the cold weather.

"I have played an Under-19 India series here before. We are watching the wicket and I feel it will be a high-scoring one," he said. However, he cautioned that low temperatures could offer some help to bowlers early on.

With dew expected to play a role as the match begins at 7 pm, Tilak said India are mentally prepared for the challenge.

"We don't have the toss in our hands. We are preparing for the dew and have practised with a slightly wet ball," he said.

Addressing concerns about playing in unfamiliar cold conditions, Tilak said mental strength is key.

"It's very cold here, but we are prepared mentally and physically. Those who are mentally strong succeed everywhere," he said.

AIFF expresses concerns after chaos at the Messi event

The body said it was not involved in the organisation, planning or execution of the event in any capacity

NEW DELHI

The All India Football Federation (AIFF) on Saturday expressed concerns after the much-anticipated Lionel Messi event in Kolkata was marred by chaos due to poor crowd management and security lapses.

About 50,000 spectators, many of whom had paid Rs 4,000 to Rs 12,000 -- and in some cases up to Rs 20,000 in the black market -- watched helplessly as a swarm of politicians, VVIPs, security personnel, and assorted hangers more interested in selfies than crowd control surrounded Messi, leaving the fans at the Salt Lake Stadium angry.

"The All India Football Federation is deeply concerned by the events that transpired at the Vivekananda Yuba Bharati Krirangan, where thousands of fans gathered to witness world football stars Lionel Messi, Luis Suarez, and Rodrigo de Paul.

"This was a private event organised by a PR agency. The AIFF was not involved in the organisation, planning, or execution of this event in any capacity," the AIFF said in a statement.

Within minutes of his arrival at the venue, Messi was surrounded by a bevy of politicians, police officers, VVIPs and their aides, forming a human blockade that ensured the paying public saw everything except Messi.

The AIFF said it was not involved in the organisation, planning, or execution of the event in any capacity.

"This was a private event organised by a PR agency. Furthermore, the details of the event were neither communicated to the AIFF, nor was any clearance sought from the federation," the AIFF said.

"We urge all attendees to extend their full cooperation with the relevant authorities and to maintain order. The safety and security of all individuals involved must remain the paramount priority," the apex body said in the statement. Angry fans started the mayhem by hurling bottles -- banned items in an otherwise sporting venue. It was baffling how they were allowed to enter with these objects, which also included food packets. Chairs were then ripped out and thrown.

Fibreglass seats lay smashed across the pitch and the synthetic track.

Two canopies erected for Messi and the chief minister's enclosure were torn apart, with attempts even made to set parts of them on fire before police intervened.

Gates were battered, the players' tunnel roof was hammered, and posters torn down.

HYDERABAD

Lionel Messi's programme in Hyderabad was in stark contrast to the mayhem in Kolkata as the second leg of the GOAT India Tour ended on a positive note thanks to thorough preparations, sound planning, and discipline.

The City of Nizams showed how to pull off an event of this magnitude after Messi's visit to the City of Joy descended into chaos due to poor crowd management and security lapses earlier on Saturday.

The celebrated Argentine footballer mesmerised the Hyderabad crowd at a nearly-packed Rajiv Gandhi International Stadium as he showed off some of the skills that made him one of the greatest ever to play the sport.

Messi arrived in the city around 5:40m after a chaotic opening leg of his three-day four-city GOAT Tour 2025 in Kolkata and he was received at the Taj Falaknuma Palace by Telangana Chief Minister Revanth Reddy.

crew neck half sleeve T-shirt, a black pant and a pair of sport shoes, the World Cup-winning Argentine captain entered the stadium to a deafening cheer of the crowd.

He seemed relaxed all through his one-hour stay at the stadium, in contrast to the anxious and stiff demeanour at the Salt Lake Stadium in Kolkata some hours back.

"I am very happy to be in Hyderabad in the midst of all the love and affection shown by you all," Messi said through a translator while addressing the crowd.

Messi and his Inter Miami team-mates Luiz Suarez and Rodrigo de Paul took part in a GOAT Cup penalty shootout, with Reddy also turning up in football attire, and conducted football clinics with children before leaving the stadium.

Senior Congress leader Rahul Gandhi joined the visiting trio of players and Reddy at the felicitation towards the end of the event, posing for photographs in front of the sponsorship hoardings.

Messi presented the GOAT Cup to the winning team of a 7-a-side exhibition match, Singareni RR 9, which was representing Reddy.

The CM presented a memento to Messi while Gandhi gave one to Saurez.

After reaching the stadium, Messi was seen looking around the photos hung at the walls and had conversations with the officials, waved to the crowd from behind a glass barrier in acknowledgment of their adulation.

Later, he showed his immaculate control of the ball to the great delight of the crowd, juggling the ball with his feet as he kicked around the ball with his Saurez and de Paul, as well as Reddy.

Messi took a tour of the stadium, waving to the crowd.

Earlier in the day, about 50,000 spectators, many of whom had paid Rs 4,000 to Rs 12,000 -- and in some cases up to Rs 20,000 in the black market -- watched helplessly.

Satadru Dutta

Architect of sporting spectacles facing uncertainty

KOLKATA

From a modest upbringing in West Bengal's industrial town of Rishra to becoming one of the top promoters of Kolkata's biggest global football events, Satadru Dutta's rise was swift and ambitious. But that journey took a dramatic nosedive on Saturday.

Less than a few hours after crowd trouble and vandalism marred Messi's opening leg of the 'G.O.A.T. India Tour' at the Salt Lake Stadium, Dutta

-- the sole organiser of the programme -- was arrested at the airport while he was leaving for the Hyderabad leg.

The chaos has pushed him into an intense public and media spotlight and left Kolkata, long regarded as the Mecca of Indian football, red-faced globally.

From Rishra to global football

A commerce graduate, Dutta began his professional career in finance, working at Investmart -- later known as IL&FS Securities -- near Elgin Road in early 2000s.

But sport, especially football, remained central to his identity. In 2011, as Messi made his first trip to the city to lead lead Argentina against Venezuela in a FIFA friendly, Dutta left the security of corporate finance to pursue sports promotion.

That match 14 years ago, and an earlier visit by Diego Maradona in 2008, helped inspire a new generation of sports event managers.

Dutta openly acknowledged the influence of well-known organisers like Bhaswar Goswami of the Celebrity Management Group and slowly carved his own path, and that's how 'A Satadru Dutta Initiative (ASDI)' came to existence.

Building ASDI

ASDI's breakthrough came in 2015, when it brought three-time World Cup winner Pele to Kolkata for the first time since 1977.

Despite his hip surgery, the Brazilian legend attended an Indian Super League match, visited grassroots tournaments, and met leading sports figures during his stay here.

In 2017, Dutta pulled off what many considered his biggest feat by organising Maradona's second visit to Kolkata.

Managing the mercurial Argentine was challenging, but the trip produced iconic moments, including Maradona's meeting with former India cricket captain Sourav Ganguly among others.
