Mamata hits the streets

KOLKATA

Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Friday hit the streets protesting against Enforcement Directorate (ED)'s raid at I-PAC head Prateek Jain's residence and office.

Addressing the media after walking from Jadavpur 8 B bus stand to Hazra more, Mamata said that she did nothing wrong.

"I did nothing wrong on Thursday. I had got the news and rang Prateek. He didn't take the call so I visited his residence and took away my party's documents and the central agency was planning to steal them. My party is my everything. If cannot save my party, how can I fight for the common people. I need a platform," said Mamata.

Taking potshots at Union Home Minister Amit Shah, Mamata said that she has proof that the proceeds of the coal pilferage scam goes to Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) leaders in Delhi.

"I have every document saved in pen drives. I haven't made anything public as I love my country. If I make them public, it will create huge chaos across the world," further stated the West Bengal Chief Minister.

Meanwhile, several TMC MPs were detained while staging a protest outside the Home Ministry's office here on Friday against alleged misuse of probe agencies by the Centre.

Courtroom crowded, no HC hearing

The hearing at Calcutta High Court on the high-profile case on the issue of the ED's simultaneous raid and search operations at the office of the I-PAC at Salt Lake and at the residence of its co-founder Pratik Jain in central Kolkata could not happen on Friday because of excessive crowd within the courtroom. The next date of the hearing before the single-judge bench of Justice Suvera Ghosh has been scheduled for January 14.

What is Didi trying to hide, questions BJP

NEW DELHI

The Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) on Friday criticised Trinamool Congress leader and West Bengal chief minister Mamata Banerjee for interfering in the Enforcement Directorate raid at the political consultancy firm I-PAC office in Kolkata, in connection with a coal smuggling case on Thursday, and asked "what was the suspicious thing there that she so desperately wanted to remove".

Addressing a press conference, former Union Law Minister and senior BJP leader Ravi Shankar Prasad slammed Banerjee for reaching the I-PAC office when the raid was on and taking away some material. Prasad said the CM's conduct was "irresponsible and unconstitutional" and noted that "what happened in Bengal has never happened before in independent India; that a sitting CM threatened ED officials, snatched papers and walked out of there."

The BJP leader further argued that "this raid was neither at Mamata Banerjee's home, nor at her office, nor at the TMC office, nor at the home of any TMC leader or minister... This raid was on a private consultancy firm where complaints of money laundering worth crores of rupees had been received."

"In such a situation," he said, "Mamata Banerjee goes there, her police officers go there, they threaten the ED officials.

NEW DELHI

MEA spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal made it clear that India did not recognise the infrastructure projects being carried out by China in Shaksam Valley, as it regards that area as Indian territory.

"The Shaksam Valley is Indian territory. We have never recognised the so-called China-Pakistan boundary agreement that happened in 1963. We have consistently maintained that the agreement is illegal and invalid," he said.

Jaiswal added, "We do not recognise the so-called China-Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC) either, which passes through Indian territory that is under the forcible and illegal occupation of Pakistan."

The MEA spokesperson stated that India had conveyed its objections to China. "We have consistently protested with the Chinese side against attempts to alter the ground reality in Shaksam Valley. We further reserve the right to take necessary measures to safeguard our interests."

Jaiswal's reaction came after media reports indicated that China is actively building a long road in the Shaksam area, located north of Siachen.

The MEA spokesperson also confirmed that India was closely following developments in South America, he said. "We don't have a very big community there. We have a small community of around 50 people in Venezuela, and we have around 650 people in Colombia. Our embassies are in close touch with them."

The MEA spokesperson also responded to a question of increased attacks on the minority community in Bangladesh. "We continue to witness a disturbing pattern of recurring attacks on minorities as well as their homes and business establishments by extremists in Bangladesh. Such communal incidents need to be dealt with swiftly and firmly."

Do your work, NYC mayor told

MEA spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal stated that New York Mayor Zohran Mamdani should "focus on his own responsibilities" rather than "express his personal prejudices." The remarks were made in the context of a tweet shared by Umar Khalid's friend Banjojyotsna Lahiri. In the brief handwritten message addressed to Khalid, Mamdani wrote, "Dear Umar, I think of your words on bitterness often and the importance of not letting it consume one's self. We are all thinking of you."

Rahul alleges corruption, says BJP is 'Bhrashtha Janata Party'

NEW DELHI

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Friday lashed out at the BJP for allegedly spreading "corruption, abuse of power and the poison of arrogance" across the country through its "double-engine governments" and said the party's abbreviation actually stood for "Bhrashta Janata Party".

In a long post on "X", Gandhi ventilated his emotions on a variety of issues which he claimed demonstrated the BJP's politics. "In their system, the lives of the poor, helpless, labourers, and middle class are mere statistics, and in the name of 'development', an extortion racket is running," he charged.

He also raised the issue of the brutal murder of Ankita Bhandari in BJP-ruled Uttarakhand, saying it has "shaken the entire nation".

Key role in Sabarimala gold heist? Probe team arrests the chief priest

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

The special investigation team probing the Sabarimala gold theft case arrested Tantri Kandararu Rajeevaru on Friday, and took him to the Crime Branch office for further questioning, marking a significant escalation in a case that has already drawn intense scrutiny.

Investigators said the arrest followed statements and material indicating that the Tantri played a pivotal role in facilitating the entry and influence of the prime accused, Unnikrishnan Potty, within the Sabarimala temple system. The SIT, operating under judicial supervision, has been examining the chain of access and authority that enabled the alleged offence and the movement of gold linked to the shrine.

According to officials familiar with the probe, the investigation team gathered information suggesting that it was the Tantri who brought Unnikrishnan Potty to Sabarimala and enabled his continued presence and standing. Employees attached to Sabarimala have provided statements asserting that Potty's influence within the temple establishment stemmed from the Tantri's backing. These testimonies, investigators said, pointed to an internal facilitation rather than an isolated act by the prime accused.

The SIT has also concluded that the Tantri paved the way for Potty to function as a sponsor, a role that allegedly helped the latter gain legitimacy and access. The arrest adds a new dimension to the case because of the Tantri's formal association with the temple administration. Officials said Rajeevaru draws a salary from the Travancore Devaswom Board, bringing him within the ambit of the Prevention of Corruption Act.

DKS made Assam poll in-charge

BENGALURU

In a silent move, the Congress high command has hinted at postponement of handling the leadership tussle between Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and his deputy DK Shivakumar, by assigning the latter to oversee forthcoming general elections to Assam Assembly.

Since the five state elections, including Assam, are scheduled to be held in April, the leadership change will not be possible before that period.

DK Shivakumar, who was waiting for the leadership change before Sankranthi, which falls on January 14, has to wait for three more months before initiating any activity. Even after that, the party decision would depend on the outcome of the five state elections, while Chief Minister Siddaramaiah will be a star OBC campaigner for the party without any responsibilities.

From the beginning, Shivakumar depended on the party high command, especially Sonia Gandhi and Priyanka Gandhi to keep up the promise and stand by the power sharing agreement.

Non-veg food banned around Ram temple informed about the decision and warned of strict action in case of violations.

The decision has triggered a fresh debate in Ayodhya, with sections of people welcoming the move while others have opposed it. Those against the order argue that what a person eats should be a matter of individual choice, while supporters say the ban is necessary to maintain the religious and cultural sanctity of the temple town.

Mobiles banned in all Corbett zone safaris

DEHRADUN

Tourists visiting Corbett Tiger Reserve will no longer be allowed to carry mobile phones during jungle safaris in any tourism zone of the park. The decision has been taken to comply with a Supreme Court order directing authorities to minimise human interference in natural wildlife habitats. However, visitors will be permitted to carry professional cameras such as DSLRs.

Corbett's Deputy Director Rahul Mishra said new guidelines are being prepared to ensure strict implementation of the court's directions. Under the new system, tourists will be required to deposit their mobile phones at the entry gates before entering the forest.

The restriction will not be limited to visitors alone.

Registered tour guides, gypsy drivers, naturalists and even staff of hotels and lodges located in the core zone will also be barred from carrying mobile phones. Mishra said strict penal action will be taken against those violating the rule. Wildlife experts and nature guides have long raised concerns over the safety and ecological risks posed by unrestricted mobile phone use inside the reserve. They say tourists often try to get dangerously close to animals in pursuit of photos and videos, increasing stress and aggression among wildlife. Mobile networks have also been used to share live locations of animals, leading to large numbers of safari vehicles converging at a single spot. The growing trend of making reels and taking selfies has further heightened risk to both visitors and animals.

Akhand Bharat Sandesh

Prayagraj. Uttar Pradesh's Water Resources Minister and Minister in charge of Prayagraj district, Swatantra Dev Singh, described the 'G Ramji Scheme' as a significant step in the development of rural India. Speaking at a press conference on the Developed India-G Ram Ji public awareness campaign in Prayagraj on Friday, the Water Resources Minister said that Prime Minister Narendra Modi's vision of a developed India by 2047 will only be realized through the holistic development of villages. The Modi government is not just a government that talks about laborers and farmers, but one that places their hard work, their sweat, and their self-respect at the center of its policies. This act does not consider the laborer merely a worker; it considers them a nation-builder. The Water Resources Minister reiterated that Prime Minister Narendra Modi's vision of a developed India by 2047 will only be realized through the overall development of villages. He described MNREGA as a hotbed of fake job cards, fraudulent payments, and irregularities for years. The BJP government, addressing these shortcomings, has passed the 'G Ramji Scheme' bill through the cabinet, under which villagers will get the right to 125 days of guaranteed employment. Earlier, this limit was only 100 days. He clarified that only unskilled work was carried out under MNREGA, which led to the possibility of fraudulent payments. Several investigations revealed fake job cards and fake beneficiaries. Additionally, irregularities worth Rs. 290 crore involving 10.91 lakh cases were uncovered.

Weekly Payments

The Water Resources Minister said that now there will be no need to wait 15 days for wages. Now, the value of the laborer's hard work will be paid weekly. It will be deposited directly into their bank account on time and with complete transparency. Provision has also been made for a work break during the crucial 60 days of sowing and harvesting. This will ensure that farmers have access to laborers on time and that agricultural activities never stop.

Police have initiated an investigation into the matter. According to information, an argument occurred between former Bar Association President Pramod Kumar Mishra and advocate Arun Kumar Kashyap over an issue at the Old Tehsil premises. The disagreement ment intensified, leading to verbal abuse and a scuffle-like situation. Other advocates present at the spot intervened and managed to defuse the situation. In his complaint to the police, former president Pramod Kumar Mishra alleged that, at the instigation of former Bar President Amrish Singh Rathore, advocate Arun Kumar Kashyap along with his associates came to his office and attempted to assault him. He claimed that timely intervention by senior advocates saved his life. Waterlogging Disrupts Daily Life in Tisauri Village, Residents Appeal to SDM for Permanent Solution

Etah

The persistent problem of waterlogging in Tisauri village of the Aliganj area has severely disrupted normal life, causing widespread hardship for residents. Dirty stagnant water accumulated in village lanes has not only hampered movement but has also heightened the risk of infectious diseases, triggering growing concern among villagers. Fed up with the long-standing issue, villagers jointly submitted a memorandum to Sub-Divisional Magistrate (SDM) Aliganj, Jagmohan Gupta, seeking an immediate and permanent solution. Residents informed the administration that the lane near the village primary school remains waterlogged throughout the year due to the absence of a proper drainage system. Wastewater from nearby houses collects in the lane, making it extremely difficult for people to pass through. School children are the worst affected, as they have to use the same lane daily to reach school. Several children have reportedly slipped and sustained injuries. The situation becomes even more alarming as wastewater from Primary School Tisauri flows through the school premises, creating unhygienic conditions and posing serious health risks to students. Villagers alleged that despite repeated complaints to the village head Sushma Devi and village head representative Rajbhan, no concrete steps were taken and only assurances were given. Complaints were also lodged multiple times on the IGRS Portal and the matter was raised before the SDM and the Block Development Officer, but no lasting solution has been implemented so far. According to residents, although officials visited the site once in the past, the inspection remained merely a formality with no action taken for drain cleaning or construction. This has led to increasing resentment among villagers against the administration. The villagers have demanded the construction of a permanent covered drain connecting the village to a pond located about 200 meters away, which would ensure smooth disposal of wastewater and permanently eliminate waterlogging. They believe this step would significantly improve sanitation and public health in the village. Prominent villagers including Deshraj, Usha Devi Valmiki, Rajveer, Sauran Singh, Advocate Arjun Dubey, Shivam, Soham Singh, Sanjeev Kumar, Hemant, Udayveer and others reiterated their concerns before the SDM. Deshraj said that water remains stagnant near the primary school at all times, making it difficult for children to attend school safely. Usha Devi Valmiki highlighted the foul smell and mosquito menace caused by stagnant water, endangering children and elderly residents. Rajveer added that during the rainy season the lane turns into a pond, causing maximum inconvenience to pedestrians and school children. Sauran Singh warned that if the issue is not resolved soon, villagers may be forced to launch a protest. Advocate Arjun Dubey termed the situation a result of administrative negligence, calling it extremely serious that wastewater passes through a school campus. He emphasized that constructing a drain up to the pond is the only practical solution. Responding to the matter, SDM Aliganj Jagmohan Gupta stated that based on the complaint received, necessary instructions have been issued to the Block Development Officer and the problem will be resolved at the earliest.

The case proceedings have been challenged in the petition on the grounds that the police, in a conspiracy, filed a false complaint against the petitioner. The court considered the issue debatable and issued a notice to the complainant, seeking a response.

Two arrested for spreading misinformation on social media, tarnishing the sanctity of the Magh Mela

Police maintain a close watch on cybercrime and the spread of misinformation on social media

Action will be taken against those spreading misinformation on social media

Akhand Bharat Sandesh

Prayagraj: The police are keeping a close watch on cybercrime and the spread of misinformation and rumors on social media. The Magh Mela 2026 is underway in a grand manner, with devotees arriving for a holy dip at the Sangam and considering themselves blessed. The police administration is working diligently to ensure the smooth and successful conduct of the ongoing Magh Mela 2026, ensuring a peaceful event. The police are fully committed to their duties for the upcoming Makar Sankranti, Basant Panchami, and other main bathing festivals. Police teams have been deployed at all key points within the police station areas connected to the Mela grounds. The police are determined to prevent any tarnishing of the image of the ongoing Magh Mela 2026, and strict action will be taken against anyone spreading misinformation on social media or through any other means. A similar case was reported on Friday, where two individuals, Pradeep Kumar, son of Suresh Chandra Sahu, 25 years old, from Tilokhara Sikandara village, Baharia police station, and Chandan Kumar, son of Jai Prakash Sharma, 26 years old, from Muraut, Kishanpur Ratwara police station, Madhepura district, Bihar, were arrested by the Cyber Crime Police Station for spreading misinformation on social media and tarnishing the sanctity of the Magh Mela 2026. One Apple and one Android mobile phone were recovered from their possession. Both accused were arrested, and further legal action is being taken.

It was revealed that both accused were doing this to gain fame, earn money, and increase their views/followers. The police's prompt action led to the arrest of both individuals.

India should do more than just watch US-China chip war

The outgoing Joe Biden administration has been unusually active in recent weeks, making significant decisions with long-term implications. These include lifting certain restrictions on Ukraine and imposing stricter trade measures on China. The structural effects of these moves will become evident in 2025 and beyond. As recently as early December, the administration delivered its third major blow to China's semiconductor industry. This effort seeks to curtail China's ability to access and produce advanced chips that could support artificial intelligence for military purposes or pose risks to the United States' national security. For India, these developments are not merely a geopolitical spectacle but hold direct strategic relevance. Beyond observing this unfolding competition, New Delhi has an opportunity to assess its role in helping the US build resilience in semiconductor production and supply chains amid the intensifying "chip war." The US has maintained dominance in the semiconductor industry since Silicon Valley pioneered the technology. Over time, however, East Asian nations such as Taiwan and Japan emerged as key manufacturing hubs, incentivised by government subsidies. As Chris Miller highlights in his book Chip Wars: The Fight for the World's Most Critical Technology, this evolution allowed the US to establish critical business and strategic alliances in a region vulnerable to Russian influence during the Cold War. In the current Cold War-style rivalry between the US and China, these alliances remain crucial in countering Beijing's ambitions for a unipolar Asia. China, while not a leader in manufacturing advanced semiconductors, holds a commanding position in the production and supply of critical rare earth minerals, accounting for 70 per cent of global output. These minerals are essential for creating integrated circuits used in chips for civilian and military purposes. In response to US export restrictions, China has banned exports of key minerals such as gallium, germanium, and antimony, while tightening control over graphite, further complicating global supply chains. These minerals are essential components in making integrated circuits of chips, for both civilian and military applications. Despite its dominance in rare earth mining, China's position is not unassailable. First, the US is the second-largest producer of rare earth minerals globally. Second, China relies on US technology to process these minerals into complex semiconductors with game-changing capabilities. However, the Biden administration's efforts aim to prevent China from independently developing technology to control other parts of the semiconductor supply chain. While the Trump 1.0 administration adopted a hawkish stance on China, the Biden administration has taken robust measures to restrict Beijing's access to semiconductor technology. What plays in the US' favour is that China depends on foreign hardware and expertise to enhance its chip production capabilities. Indeed, this shows a fragile balance of dependencies. No conversation on chips can be complete without Taiwan. Taipei remains central to the global semiconductor industry, with its dominant chipmaker TSMC supplying a significant share of the world's semiconductors. The island's President has described this dominance as a "silicon shield," offering a degree of protection against China, which claims sovereignty over Taiwan. However, from the US perspective, Taiwan's role also creates vulnerability to supply chain disruptions, particularly as cross-strait tensions rise. To mitigate this risk, the Biden administration passed the CHIPS and Science Act in 2022, pledging nearly $53 billion to boost US semiconductor manufacturing. While this move raised concerns in Taiwan about reduced American commitment to its defence, TSMC quickly responded by investing $40

Sambhal, in western Uttar Pradesh, hit the headlines in late November when a court-order ASI survey of the early 16th century Babri Masjid in the township ran into trouble with the local Muslim populace, leading to a volatile situation. Protestors rained stones upon the police, leaving around two dozen personnel injured. Five Muslim youths, including a minor, were killed, allegedly in police firing on protesters, a charge that police vehemently denied. The autopsy discounted the culpability of police as the ammunition recovered from the bodies of victims was not used by the UP Police. The police have made a counter-claim of recovering empty cartridges of Pakistani origin from the spot. They claim that a day before the survey was scheduled to begin, Zia-ur-Rehman Barq, MP, Sambhal visited the mosque and delivered a provocative speech. An FIR registered by the police names him in addition to Sohail Mahmood, the son of local MLA Iqbal Mahmood, for inciting the mob through social media posts. An anti-encroachment drive was launched by the administration. This led to interesting revelations since then, that have shifted the discourse from early 16th century to late 20th century events. These revelations are equally suggestive. The local Hindus, who are a minority in the township, insist that the mosque was built by the Mughal invader Babur in 1526 by demolishing a temple of Lord Vishnu, originally erected by Prithviraj Chauhan in the 12th century. This belief appears deeply ingrained, though H.R. Nevill, ICS, in the district gazetteer (1911), discounts the idea, arguing that Sikander Lodi, a known iconoclast, would not have allowed a Hindu shrine to occupy the loftiest site in his temporary capital (Moradabad: A Gazetteer, p. 147). While acknowledging that Babur visited Sambhal, Nevill attributes the construction of the mosque to his general, Hindu Beg, to which Babur set up an inscription. However, the revised Gazetteer of Moradabad (1968), written by Esha Basanti Joshi, IAS (Retd), presents a different view. She states that the town of Sambhal (originally perhaps Sambhalpura) stands on a series of scattered mounds, each said to mark the site of some ancient building or settlement. The highest of these mounds is known as the Kot (fort) and indicates the ruined site of the old fort of Sambhal, which was built before the advent of Muslims in the area.

The only building left standing on the site was once a Hari Mandir (a temple of Vishnu) but was later converted into a mosque (Gazetteer of India: Uttar Pradesh—Moradabad, p. 26). She bases her account on the description of A. Fuhrer in Monumental Antiquities and Inscriptions in the North-

Western Provinces and Oudh (1891). Joshi informs us that Babur visited Sambhal on 2 October 1527 and stayed there for two days. Earlier, he had sent his general, Hindu Beg, to subjugate the Afghan governor of Sambhal, Qasim Sambhali, who was subsequently defeated (Gazetteer of India: Uttar Pradesh—Moradabad, p. 42). A recent WhatsApp wisecrack cuts through the Gordian knot of this debate, asking why Muslims would oppose an ASI survey unless there is something to hide from the public eye. Following the violence in Sambhal and Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath's vow that no miscreant involved would be spared, the police and local administration sprang into action. A manhunt was launched to apprehend the culprits, while simultaneous drives against encroachment and electricity pilferage were undertaken. These efforts unexpectedly revealed two temples in Muslim-majority areas that had been closed for decades. The first discovery was a Shiva/Hanuman temple in Khaggu Sari, adjoining the Deepa Sarai locality. The temple had reportedly been closed for the past 46 years. This struck a chord in the collective memory of Sambhal, as it had been abandoned following the riots of March 1978, after which the Hindus vacated the locality. Bulldozers clearing encroachments near the temple uncovered three mutilated deity images from an adjacent well. Shortly thereafter, a closed Radha-Krishna temple was discovered in the Sarai Tareen locality. At the time of writing, a third temple, referred to as the Banke Bihari Temple, has come to light in Laxmanganj, Chandausi, within Sambhal district. It appears that the Hindu community withdrew from Laxmanganj as the Muslim population grew, leaving the temple abandoned. Meanwhile, in a related development, a neglected temple of Siddheshwar Mahadev was reopened in the Madanpura area of Varanasi. The temple was founded by Ajay Sharma, President of the Sanatan Raksha Dal. Although the temple's closure was reportedly not due to any dispute, it had fallen into disuse as Hindus withdrew from the area, which experienced a significant growth in the Muslim population. In almost all these temples, with help from the administration, daily rituals and bhajans have started. However, the long-term challenge remains sustaining these activities, given the demographic shifts that had initially alienated the Hindu community from these areas. Critics often accuse the Ram Janmabhoomi Movement, which culminated in the demolition of the abandoned Babri Mosque in Ayodhya (1992), of being catastrophic for communal peace and harmony in India. This raises the question: why did Hindus feel compelled to migrate from mixed localities in Sambhal following the 1978 riots? What exactly transpired in Sambhal on 29 March 1978? According to the statement made by S.D. Patil, the then Minister of State for Home Affairs, in the Rajya Sabha on 23 November 1978 (unstarred question no. 301), Sambhal experienced severe communal disturbances on 29 March 1978. The unrest apparently began when some members of the Muslim community objected to Holi titles conferred by the student union of the local college upon two Muslim girls. This led to violent clashes accompanied by widespread looting and arson. Police had to resort to firing in three locations to control the mob. As per the minister, 17 people lost their lives, 33 were injured, and the estimated loss was around Rs 25 lakhs.

It might be noted, provided the minister's description is authentic, that the violence was not provoked by the sprinkling of colours or water on any unwilling individual during Holi. Instead, it was sparked by a cultural act performed by the student union of the local college. Holi, after all, is a cultural festival; it is not even Vande Mataram, which used to rile former Sambhal MP Shafiqur Rahman Barq so much that he walked out of Lok Sabha when the House was dissolved on May 8, 2013. B. Rajeshwari, in Communal Riots in India: A Chronology 1947–2003, notes that the Sambhal riots of 1978 were attributed to a bootlegging rivalry between Hindus and Muslims, with the latter allegedly seeking to dispossess Hindus of their property (p. 8).

Why are BJP leaders not giving preference to RSS chief on temple-mosque dispute?

Recently in the winter session of Parliament, Aam Aadmi Party leader and MP Sanjay Singh had told BJP leaders that your boys will do business with Qatari Muslims, will do business with Dubai Sheikhs, and here you will talk about violence against Muslims. If we have to have darshan, we go to Kashi, we go to Ujjain to have darshan of Mahakal, we go to Ayodhya to have darshan of Lord Ram, but if they have to have darshan of God, they go to the mosque. They are running Bharat Khodo Yojana in the country. Earlier, Sarsangchalak i.e. RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat had also targeted the BJP governments' method of finding temples in mosques and clearly said in Pune that a new issue is being raised every day. Temples cannot be found under every mosque. Ram temple was a matter of faith. You cannot raise a new controversy every day. The RSS chief said that some people want to become leaders by raising new issues. This has become a means of leadership, it has become a shortcut. Majority and minority are all equal.

Everyone is equal and everyone has got fundamental rights to pursue their religion. Even before this, in the year 2022, the Sangh chief had said why to see Shivling in a mosque every day? There may be some centers of faith, but there cannot be a fight on every issue. Recently on December 12, the Supreme Court also ordered the lower courts that survey or any other effective order will not be passed in the existing cases. In pending cases, the courts will not pass any effective interim or final order till further notice. The Supreme Court had said that no new case will be heard, the courts will not register a new case. Survey will not be ordered. Actually, this order of the Supreme Court came after the violence in Sambhal over finding a temple in the mosque. The way the government staff in Sambhal started searching for the temple in the mosque and in the houses of Muslims, it is clear that the BJP governments are using the temple-mosque dispute to gain political advantage. And in Uttar Pradesh.

For the fundamentalist, secular is dirtiest of dirty words: Rushdie on The Satanic Verses fatwa

To stand in this house is to be reminded of what is most beautiful about religious faith: its ability to give solace and to inspire, its aspiration to these great and lovely heights, in which strength and delicacy are so perfectly conjoined. In addition, to be asked to speak here on this day, the fourth anniversary of the notorious fatwa of the late Imam Khomeini, is a particular honour. When I was an undergraduate at this college, between 1965 and 1968, the years of flower-power and student power, I would have found the notion of delivering an address in King's Chapel pretty far-out, as we used to say; and yet, such are the journeys of one's life that here I stand. I am grateful to the Chapel and the college for extending this invitation, which I take as a gesture of solidarity and support, support not merely for one individual but, much more importantly, for the high moral principles of human rights and human freedoms that the Khomeini edict seeks so brutally to attack. For just as King's Chapel may be taken as a symbol of what is best about religion, so the fatwa has become a symbol of what is worst. It feels all the more appropriate to be speaking here because it was while in my final year of reading history at Cambridge that I came across the story of the so-called satanic verses or temptation of the Prophet Muhammad, and of his rejection of that temptation. That year, I had chosen as one of my special subjects a paper on Muhammad, the rise of Islam, and the caliphate. So few students chose this option that the lectures were cancelled. The other students switched to different special subjects. However, I was anxious to continue, and Arthur Hibbert, one of the King's history dons, agreed to supervise me. So as it happened I was, I think, the only student in Cambridge who took the paper. The next year, I'm told, it was not offered again. This is the kind of thing that almost leads one to believe in the workings of a hidden hand. The story of the 'satanic verses' can be found, among other places, in the canonical writings of the classical writer al-Tabari. He tells us that on one occasion the Prophet was given verses which seemed to accept the divinity of the three most popular pagan goddesses of Mecca, thus compromising Islam's rigid monotheism. Later he rejected these verses as being a trick of the devil saying that Satan had appeared to him in the guise of the Archangel Gabriel and spoken 'satanic verses.' Historians have long speculated about this incident, wondering if perhaps the nascent religion had been offered a sort of deal by the pagan authorities of the city, which was flirted with and then refused. I felt the story humanized the Prophet, and, therefore made him more accessible, more easily comprehensible to a modern reader, for whom the presence of doubt in a human mind, and human imperfections in a great man's personality, can only make that mind, that personality, more attractive. Indeed, according to the traditions of the Prophet, even the Archangel Gabriel was understanding about the incident, assuring him that such things had befallen all the prophets, and that he need not worry about what had happened. It seems that the Archangel Gabriel, and the God in whose name he spoke, was rather more tolerant than some of those who presently affect to speak in the name of God. Khomeini's fatwa itself may be seen as a set of modern satanic verses. In the fatwa, once again, evil takes on the guise of virtue; and the faithful are deceived. It's important to remember what the fatwa is.

India's GST system is now a mess. Those who designed it also are confused

Last Saturday, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman chaired a press conference following the conclusion of the 55th GST Council meeting. Through it, she inadvertently created a new term—"popcorn taxation"—and lakhs of memes. While this may seem like a trivialisation of GST, it actually lays bare how the system has now rebounded on its initial promise of bringing ease of doing business in the country. The Finance Minister's four-minute explanation on the taxation of popcorn highlighted how complex the system has become. It shouldn't take anybody that much time to explain the applicable tax rates on a single product. Since then, GST has been ridiculed, derided, lamented about, and generally panned by laypeople and even former government officials who worked on its implementation. That is why India's Goods and Services Tax is ThePrint's Newsmaker of the Week. So, what is the issue behind GST on popcorn? You see, as per the taxman, depending on your taste preferences, popcorn can either be a namkeen (salty) or a mithai (sweet) — forget that those two terms have never been used by anyone to refer to popcorn. Ready-to-eat popcorn, salted and spiced for taste, and sold loosely attracts a GST rate of 5 per cent. That same popcorn, if packaged and labelled, attracts a rate of 12 per cent. One wonders what happens if the vendor tears open the packet and sells loose popcorn to the customer. Perhaps the universe will explode, who knows? Things get even trickier when you talk about caramel popcorn. Those who prefer this flavour will have to shell out 18 per cent GST, regardless of whether it is packaged or sold loose. Then some head to the movie hall and ask for salted and caramel popcorn mixed together. What happens to them? Over the week, one particular meme stood out among the lot. It was a picture of salted caramel popcorn packets with questions along the lines of: "What now, taxman?" What now, indeed. Most of the memes were at Sitharaman's expense, but she's just the face of the decisions.

When Hindu society is organized, the country progresses on the path of development—Prabhat

Ghazipur

A seven-day primary education camp of the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) was organized at Aral English School in the Bhadaura area of the district. A visually stunning film but fails to take us in trance

TITLE: The Raja Saab

DIRECTOR: Maruthi

CAST: Prabhas, Sanjay Dutt, Zarina Wahab, Malavika Mohanan, Nidhi Agerwal

WHERE: In theatres near you

RATING: ★★

Actors' performances

Prabhas is good in his role and gets some scenes to shine. His stylish avatar will surely impress his fans. But The Raja Saab belongs to Zarina Wahab and Sanjay Dutt. Both veteran actors have done a wonderful job in the film. Wahab's performance in the climax is the highlight of the film.

Malavika Mohanan and Nidhi Agerwal are good in their respective roles, but Riddhi Kumar is hardly there for 10 mins in the whole film. Boman Irani, in his extended cameo, leaves a strong mark.

Music

Thaman S' background score is just perfect for the film's theme. But, songs don't leave a mark. Also, Nache Nache recreated version looks messy on the big screens.

Overall, The Raja Saab had the potential to be a fantastic cinematic experience, but the weak screenplay and narration make this film a below-average watch. The makers promoted it as a horror-comedy, and while there are a couple of jump scares, there's not even one scene that will make you laugh out loud.

P.S. After delivering such a below-average film, the makers have announced a sequel titled RajaSaab 2: Circus 1935.

The film is written and directed by Maruthi, and the basic storyline of the film is fantastic. On paper, The Raja Saab would be an amazing movie, but Maruthi fails to convert it into a good film.

The Raja Saab is set against the backdrop of topics like black magic and hypnotism, which are very interesting. But the weak screenplay and narration are the villains here.

The first half of the movie is strictly average. It drags because of unnecessary action sequences. There's one action sequence featuring Malavika Mohanan, but when goons catch her, Prabhas tells her, 'Mere aate hie tujhe side ho lena tha'. Like really!!! Also,

After around 2 years, Prabhas is back on the big screens with Maruthi's directorial, The Raja Saab. It is a Telugu film dubbed and released in various languages, including Hindi. We watched the movie in Hindi. So, is it worth your time and money? Read on to know that...

The Raja Saab revolves around Raju (Prabhas), who is staying in a village with his grandmother Ganga Devi (Zarina Wahab). Ganga is suffering from Alzheimer and she only remembers her husband, who left her many years ago. For the sake of his grandmother, Raju decides to find his grandfather, Kanak Raju (Sanjay Dutt), and he comes to know that he is in Hyderabad. The movie shifts to Hyderabad, Hrithik turns 52!

Hrithik celebrates birthday today, fitness journey inspires fans across the globe

Bollywood actor Hrithik Roshan may have turned 52 years old today, but his physique still resembles a sculpture carved out of stone. His recent Instagram post about his diet gave fans a glimpse into his eating habits. This led many to speculate that it could be a precursor to a Krrish 4 announcement, as once again, Hrithik's physique could put even a superhero in a state of awe.

However, earlier last year, he had shared personal, handwritten notes to himself from 27 years ago, written while preparing for his debut film Kaho Naa... Pyaar Hai. The notes reflected his nervousness and determination to overcome challenges such as his stammer and physical limitations. To conclude, here is one of the lines he wrote regarding his stammer: "Speech — talk without being conscious at all of stuttering... It doesn't happen anymore! It's all in the mind!"

Here's wishing you a happy birthday, Krrish!

Nikkhil Advani sheds light on the partition you didn't know about

TITLE: Freedom At Midnight 2

DIRECTORS: Nikkhil Advani

CAST: Sidhant Gupta, Chirag Vohra, Rajendra Chawla, Arif Zakaria

WHERE: SonyLiv

RATING: ★★★★★

Freedom at Midnight 2 continues from its first part, now dealing with the run up to the partition when new maps are being drawn for India and Pakistan. The reason this series is an important watch is because even though many of us may have read in detail about partition, but there are certain aspects this series explores in such detail which we aren't aware about. For example, when the exact date for partition is declared just six weeks before, even those who were in the Boundary Commissions team working on these details came to know about it only when Lord Mountbatten had announced it suddenly during a press conference. And while one section might want to blame him for such a decision, he did this to put an end to the confusion, which in-turn was leading to massive bloodshed.

The series also clears misconceptions we harbour about certain individuals. Take for example, Sir Cyril Radcliffe, a British lawyer who chaired the Boundary Commissions to demarcate the borders between the two new countries. While he may be vilified in the opinion of many, raising questions such as how could someone like him be chosen for a role which he had no qualification of, the series also sheds light on what his journey was like. Not only did he return the remuneration offered to him as his conscience could not allow him to take money for something which caused so much pain to millions, but he also would frequently vomit during work as the task at hand was so bloody and the price people were paying for it was enormous. As one of the characters says, 'Is desh ko batware ki bahut bari nakam chukani paregi.'

Actors' performances

Produced by Emmay Entertainment (Monisha Advani & Madhu Bhojwani) in association with StudioNext, the show is helmed by Nikkhil Advani as the showrunner and director, with a compelling narrative crafted by Abhinandan Gupta, Adwitiya Kareng Das, Gundeeep Kaur, Divya Nidhi Sharma, Revanta Sarabhai, and Ethan Taylor. The cast includes Sidhant Gupta, Chirag Vohra, Rajendra Chawla, Arif Zakaria, Ira Dubey, Malishka Mendonsa, Rajesh Kumar, KC Shankar, Luke McGibney, Cordelia Bugeja, Alistair Finlay, Andrew Cullum, Richard Teverson in pivotal roles.

Once again, Rajendra Chawla as Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel is the best actor from the entire batch because it seems as if he isn't acting, he has become Vallabhbhai. And while there have been innumerable portrayals of Gandhiji in the cinematic world, without a doubt this one, played by Chirag Vohra, should most certainly be listed as one of the most convincing ones. Vohra's performance is a standout and powerful one.

We are shown the chilling backstory of Madanlal Pahwa, the man who detonated a bomb during an attempt to assassinate Mahatma Gandhi, just 10 days before the Mahatma was assassinated by Nathuram Godse. That role is played by none other than one of the shining OTT stars of 2025 superb series Black Warrant, Anurag Thakur. And the fact that Abhishek Banerjee has been roped in as one of the rioters during the Calcutta killings is definitely a power move for the series. What I without a doubt found the most endearing was when the pre-partition members of the armed forces are told to choose which country they would want to go to, the Sikh soldier who chooses India feels betrayed by his best friend, a Muslim, who chooses Pakistan. The touching part is when his friend tells him that not only would he come to meet him every year, but he might be going to Pakistan, however, he is taking his friend with him in his heart.

Sidhant Gupta is a more convincing Nehru when compared to part 1, Arif Zakaria is successful in showing us Jinnah's elitist, selfish mindset, while Ira Dubey as Fatima Jinnah is spot on, just like in Part 1. Rajesh Kumar shows us as how Liaquat Ali Khan was constantly bullied by Jinnah and his sister, and while there are several other actors I would want to name, the fact of the matter is that the history of partition along with the numerous characters in this series cannot be fitted into merely one article.

Watch it to understand India's partition history, the truth behind the Kashmir issue, lesser known details and the role our various leaders played in the formation of India.

Crocodile madness in theatres

Prabhas fans carry toy crocodiles during The Raja Saab screenings

Telugu actor Prabhas' fans are known for going all out during their favourite star's film releases, and this time was no different. As The Raja Saab hit theatres on Friday, fans brought crocodiles to the film's screening, raising some concerns. The stunt was inspired by a scene in the film's trailer, which shows Prabhas' character throwing a crocodile during a fight. In viral videos on social media, fans were seen holding the crocodiles above their heads and running into the halls, leaving some audience members shocked. However, the crocodiles were not real animals but dummies.

A fact check by Grok set the record straight. "The video is real, capturing Prabhas fans in a theater holding toy crocodiles as a fun nod to a movie scene where he fights one. It's not live animals—just enthusiastic fan props for The Raja Saab release."

Pakistan flash floods: Over 320 dead in torrential downpours

Pakistan is grappling with relentless monsoon rains, as officials warn of even heavier downpours in the coming days. The death toll due to the flash flood continues to climb, killing at least 327 people in the country's north, bringing the nationwide toll to nearly 650 since the rains began on 26 June. On the Pakistan Meteorological Department issued a fresh alert, warning of heavier rainfall nationwide, from 17 to 21 August. It urged residents in the northwest to take "precautionary measures" amid fears of worsening floods. The National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA) said the downpours, which began earlier than usual this year, are expected

Vladimir Putin paid cash to refuel planes, says Rubio; sanctions block banking access

Alaska: Russian President Vladimir Putin's delegation had to pay in cash for jet fuel, when he visited Alaska on August 15, for a high-stakes meeting with US President Donald Trump, US secretary of state Marco Rubio said, citing ongoing US banking sanctions against Moscow. "When the Russians landed in Alaska, they were there to refuel. They had to offer to pay in cash to refuel their aeroplanes because they can't use our banking system," Rubio told NBC News. The Russian delegation was in Alaska for around five hours as part of a high-level summit with President Trump. While Trump confirmed that no ceasefire deal was reached, reports indicate Russia had tabled an offer, with Trump encouraging Ukraine to consider it. However, no formal agreement emerged from the nearly three-hour meeting. On the broader sanctions debate, Rubio defended the current measures, stating, "every single sanction that was in place on the day he took over remains and the impact of all those sanctions remains."

He added that despite their severity, these sanctions have not altered the direction of the war in Ukraine. Responding to calls for stronger action, Rubio argued that imposing new sanctions could derail diplomatic engagement. "The minute we take those steps, there is no one left in the world to go talk to the Russians and try to get them to the table to reach a peace agreement," he said. The summit also saw Trump meet Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy and European leaders to discuss long-term security guarantees. Zelenskyy reiterated his openness to direct talks with Putin but rejected any proposal involving territorial concessions. Rubio acknowledged the limitations of economic penalties in forcing an outcome: "There is no evidence that more sanctions... would have an immediate effect, because sanctions take months and sometimes years to bite."

Afghanistan's water push: Kabul seeks control of rivers

After decades of war, Afghanistan is moving to assert sovereignty over its water resources, a shift that is testing fragile ties with neighbouring countries. Since taking power in 2021, the Taliban have launched large-scale infrastructure projects, including dams and canals, to harness river flows that spill into Iran, Pakistan, and Central Asia. But as per news agency AFP, these efforts are fuelling disputes, with climate change worsening water shortages across the region.

Central Asia on alert over Qosh Tepa canal The most contentious initiative is the Qosh Tepa canal, a mega-project designed to irrigate 560,000 hectares of farmland in northern Afghanistan. Experts say it could divert up to 21 per cent of the Amu Darya's flow, a river already vital for water-

Uzbekistan and Turkmenistan, backed by Kazakhstan, have raised alarms that the project could further shrink the Aral Sea and destabilise the region's water-sharing arrangements, which date back to the Soviet era. Water governance specialist Mohd Faizee cautioned and was quoted by AFP as saying, "No matter how friendly the tone is now, at some point there will be consequences for Uzbekistan and Turkmenistan when the canal starts operating." Project manager Sayed Zabihullah was cited by AFP as saying that the Amu Darya has "an abundance of water.

Kohli, Rohit in good touch at net session

Senior batters Virat Kohli and Rohit Sharma looked in good touch as India went through a rigorous training session here on Friday, ahead of their three-match ODI series against New Zealand. The ODI series starting here on Sunday will be followed by a long T20 season, which includes a five-match series against the Kiwis, the T20 World Cup and then the Indian Premier League. Both Kohli and Rohit spent nearly one-and-a-half hours against Indian pacers, spinners and throw down specialists after playing two matches each in the Vijay Hazare Trophy. Having struck 77 and 131 in the two matches of the premier domestic competition, Kohli went hard against the Indian spinners and pacers alike. Some variable bounce against the throw down specialists in one of the nets did challenge Kohli.

WOMEN'S PREMIER LEAGUE | Mandhana-led side beats defending champions Mumbai Indians by three wickets after Sajana helped MI set chase of 155

RCB's De Klerk pulls off a heist

NAVI MUMBAI

Nadine De Klerk produced an absolute blinder of an innings to snatch victory from the jaws of defeat for Royal Challengers Bengaluru stunning Mumbai Indians by three wickets in their WPL opener, at the DY Patil Stadium, here on Friday.

Needing 18 runs off the last over, De Klerk slammed two massive sixes and two fours off Nat Sciver-Brunt to end up with 63 off 44 balls and pulling off a heist for RCB as they finished at 157/7 in 20 overs, chasing 155.

Earlier, Sajana Sajeevan's game-changing innings of 45 ensured the MI set RCB a competitive chase of 155.

Sajana's innings of 45 came off 25 balls and comprised seven fours and a six at a strike rate of 180 which gave MI the much-needed momentum towards the end of their innings.

Nicola Carey (40) and G Kamalini (32) also chipped in with handy knocks as MI finished at a healthy 154/6 in 20 overs.

Nadine De Klerk was the pick of the RCB bowlers with impressive figures of 4/26 at an economy of 6.50. Lauren Bell and Shreyanka Patil too bowled well with a wicket apiece.

Earlier, Lauren Bell opened the bowling for the Royal Challengers Bengaluru and did an excellent job with a maiden over.

The over also included a leg before shout against Mumbai Indians' opener Amelia Kerr.

Linsey Smith bowled the second over and G Kamalini got into the act straightaway with a boundary to extra cover's left. She then plucked two runs off the next ball to get RCB underway and slammed another four off the last ball of the over.

Arundhati Reddy was introduced into the attack by Smriti Mandhana for RCB in the fourth over after Linsey proved to be a tad expensive.

However, at 15 for no loss after four overs, RCB had kept Mumbai Indians in check. Kamalini then unshackled herself to play a free flowing off drive against Bell as MI reached 20/0.

The pressure was building up on an out-of-sorts Kerr and she finally succumbed holing out to Arundhati off Bell for four.

Mumbai Indians were 21/1

after five overs. However, Kamalini kept up her momentum as she unleashed a four off Smith on the first ball of the last powerplay over.

She repeated the same on the third ball of the over as MI's run-rate gained some momentum and went past five. New batter Nat Sciver-Brunt ensured Smith had a horrendous time smashing a four off the last ball of the sixth over as MI wrapped up powerplay at 34/1.

Just when it seemed Mumbai Indians were getting their batting straps together, Nadine de Klerk delivered a body blow. Sciver-Brunt was stumped by an alert Richa Ghosh off De Klerk as RCB slipped to 35/2.

Skipper Harmanpreet Kaur came into the middle with a lot of work to do along with an in-form Kamalini.

Harmanpreet found her release shot off the 10th ball that she faced and cracked a four off Bell. MI's fifty came in the ninth over with Bell turning a little erratic down the legside. The first six of the MI innings came when Harmanpreet hoisted Shreyanka Patil in the 10th over inside out.

Kamalini's gritty innings eventually came to an end when she was castled by Shreyanka for a well-made 30.

MI were 63/3 at the half-way mark with a score of 145 looking like a good one from that stage if they score at eight

Warriorz, Giants eye early momentum

Delhi Capitals start their campaign against Mumbai Indians

NAVI MUMBAI

A fresh chapter beckons UP Warriorz and Gujarat Giants as the two sides open their Women's Premier League campaign here on Saturday, both sides chasing a maiden title after contrasting runs in the previous season.

UP Warriorz will lean heavily on new captain Meg Lanning, under whose leadership Delhi Capitals reached three consecutive finals, to arrest a steady slide that has seen the team finish third, fourth and then bottom of the table across the first three seasons. At the top, Phoebe Litchfield provides flexibility, with the possibility of partnering Kiran Navgire. The middle order, featuring Lanning and Harleen Deol, will be central to setting up competitive totals.

With the likes of Sophie Ecclestone, Deepti Sharma and the experienced Shikha Pandey and Kranti Gaud in their ranks, the Warriorz boast of a potent bowling attack that combines world class spin, experienced new ball operators, and proven death specialists.

Gujarat Giants, on the other hand, arrive with renewed confidence after reaching the playoffs the last time following two underwhelming seasons. Led by Ashleigh Gardner, the Giants boast of a formidable overseas core but lack a front-line Indian batter.

Behind the stumps and at the top will be Beth Mooney, while Sophie Devine returns to the WPL fold after missing the 2025 season.

The pace attack looks well-rounded with Renuka Singh Thakur leading it, supported by Kim Garth and Kashvee Gautam. Spin options are plentiful in Gardner, Georgia Wareham, Rajeshwari Gayakwad and Tanuja Kanwar.

Three-time finalists Delhi Capitals will meet defending champions Mumbai Indians in the second clash on Saturday. Capitals is led by new skipper Jemimah Rodrigues while MI have experienced Harmanpreet at the helm.

Vaishnavi's future in sports was clear to her astrologer father

The 20-year-old left-arm spinner from Gwalior made her India debut against Sri Lanka in T20Is last month

NEW DELHI

It was written in the stars, or so believed her father.

Long before Vaishnavi Sharma picked up a cricket ball, she says her future as a sportsperson was known to her astrologer father, Narendra Sharma. The 20-year-old left-arm spinner from Gwalior made her India debut in the T20 International format just last year in a home series against Sri Lanka.

"When I was four years old, my journey in sports began. As you all know, my father is an astrologer. He looked at my horoscope and said that I should either go into sports or into the medical field," Vaishnavi told 'PTI Videos'.

"After that, it was a question of where my own interest was. After some time, he understood that my interest was in sports. When I was seven, I started playing more seriously, like going for evening practice sessions.

"And when I was 11-12 years old, I played my first Under-16 match for Madhya Pradesh. It wasn't under the BCCI then, but that's where my journey really started," she recalled.

In the five-match series against Sri Lanka, she finished as the joint-highest wicket-taker for India with five scalps. The youngster says she has been certain about cricket from the very first day.

"When I started cricket, this was always my goal. I never focused on any other goal. Whenever I go to the ground, I just forget everything else, because the feeling I get after playing cricket, I don't get it from anything else," she said.

"I can't sit idle at home. Even if I'm doing my favourite things, when I have that love for cricket, I don't think about anything else," she added.

Her journey, however, hasn't been without disappointment. Vaishnavi admitted she had hoped to be picked by a franchise during the Women's Premier League auction before the Sri Lanka call-up but when it did not happen, she felt disappointed.

However, she ensured that it didn't affect her performance at a domestic age-group event. "Of course, it feels very bad when you have expectations. I had them too, and I felt really bad. But I was playing a tournament at that time, so my whole focus was on my team. Under-23 was a big stage for me, so I kept my focus only on that," she said.

Pitted against third-seed Yamaguchi in the quarterfinals, Sindhu took the opening game 21-11 before the three-time world champion from Japan, who was wearing a knee brace, decided to pull out of the match. The win took world No. 18 Sindhu's head-to-head record to 15-12 against Yamaguchi.

Sindhu will face second seed Wang Zhiyi of China in the semifinals. Wang defeated sixth seeded Indonesian Putri Kusuma Wardani 21-17, 21-18.

Tamim urges Bangladesh not to be driven by emotion

BCB official calls former cricket skipper 'an Indian agent', invites wrath of players and its association

DHAKA

Former Bangladesh skipper Tamim Iqbal has urged the country's Cricket Board to avoid being driven by "public emotion" while deciding the national team's participation in next month's T20 World Cup in India as any such call would have an "impact 10 years down the line".

Bangladesh have expressed reluctance to tour India for the event starting February 7 and want their matches to be shifted to co-host Sri Lanka, citing security concerns.

"The situation is a bit critical at the moment, and making a sudden comment right now is difficult. But one thing you must keep in mind is that many issues can often be resolved through dialogue if everyone comes together," Tamim was quoted as saying by 'Cricbuzz'.

"You have to consider where Bangladesh stands in world cricket and what the future of Bangladesh cricket could be and then make decisions accordingly," he said. Bangladesh sports ministry advisor Asif Nazrul has taken a hard-line position on the change of venue, citing national pride and continuing a rising anti-India sentiment in the government corridors.

The Bangladesh Cricket Board (BCB) has mostly se-

"Today's decisions will have an impact ten years down the line, so decisions should be taken by considering what is best for Bangladesh cricket and for Bangladeshi players - that is what I personally believe," Tamim said.

A senior BCB official calling former captain Tamim Iqbal "an Indian agent" has not gone down well with the players in the country. Nazmul, chairman of BCB finance committee, called the left-hander opener "an Indian agent" in a Facebook post.

"This time, the people of Bangladesh witnessed, with their own eyes, the emergence of yet another proven Indian agent," he wrote.

The post received immediate backlash from former and current cricketers, including Taskin Ahmed, Momimul Haque and Tajul Islam. Even the Cricketers' Welfare Association expressed shock at Nazmul's comments.

Format still has 2 world events with superb history: Young

The relevance and context of ODI cricket has been questioned time and again but New Zealand batter Will Young on Friday pointed out that the format still has two "world events with so much wonderful history".

On a breezy Friday noon, a new-look New Zealand side spent nearly three hours sweating it out ahead of the three-match ODI series to kickstart a long tour of the Indian subcontinent, which also includes a five-match T20I series followed by the T20 World Cup next month.

With a heavy dose of T20 cricket lined up - some of their players will also feature in the Indian Premier League - Young acknowledged that the three-match ODI series, starting here on Sunday, could be lost in the "greater context".

"Especially with the T20 World Cup round the corner, it is easy to have the series lost in the greater context,"

Young told the media here at the Baroda Cricket Association Stadium.

"(But) when you're playing for your country, there should always be those two things (passion and motivation). It is a slightly different format from Test and T20 cricket, and these days you probably play a little bit less as well."

"But you've got to remember, there's still two ICC world events - the Champions Trophy and the World Cup - which has had so much wonderful history over such a long time."

Young, who was the Player of the Series when the Kiwis left India shellshocked with a 3-0 win in the Test series in 2024-25, admitted it was his best performance in the longest format.

"You'd have to put it right at the top, yeah," he said.

Young said there will be no thought of avenging the loss to India in the final of the Champions Trophy as the Kiwis are not thinking on those lines.

"It's a completely different challenge (than) that was the Champions Trophy, they were different sides so that's behind us," he said.

"It's not even in our minds at all, we're excited by a three-match bilateral series in one-day cricket and when the game starts," he added.

New Zealand squad features some young talent across the department and Young said it's up to the players to ensure they are delivering what they are required to.
