Election Commission extends SIR deadline in six states

New Delhi

The Election Commission today took a significant decision regarding the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) process. According to reports, the Election Commission has extended the SIR deadline in six states. In Uttar Pradesh, the deadline has been extended until December 31st. The Commission believes that ensuring more accurate voter lists is a priority, so additional time may be necessary. The primary objective of SIR is to clean and update the voter list, including removing duplicate names, removing the names of deceased or transferred voters, and adding new eligible voters (above 18 years of age). This process is also being implemented across the country to reduce the possibility of fraudulent voting. The second phase of SIR is currently underway. The first phase began in Bihar. In the second phase, door-to-door verification is being conducted across the states by booth-level officers (BLOs). Many BLOs are teachers or government employees, making it challenging for them to complete the entire area within a limited timeframe. Two-week extension sought for SIR in UP. Uttar Pradesh Chief Electoral Officer Navdeep Rinwa said on Wednesday that the state has requested the Election Commission of India for two more weeks to complete the Special Intensive Revision.

Parliament's winter session continued its ninth day of proceedings on Thursday. BJP MP Anurag Thakur complained to Speaker Om Birla that TMC MPs were smoking e-cigarettes in the House. The Speaker responded by saying that action would be taken. Petroleum Minister Hardeep Singh Puri was responding to an opposition question with his hands in his pant pockets. Speaker Birla interrupted him and asked the MP to take his hands out of his pockets before answering. Puri immediately took his hands out. Meanwhile, Defense Minister Rajnath Singh arrived at the Lok Sabha in the morning. As soon as he got off his car, Congress MP Jairam Ramesh met him. Ramesh handed him a

Pollution: BJD MP appeals for shifting of session

New Delhi

Regarding Delhi's poor air quality, BJD Rajya Sabha MP Manas Ranjan Mangaraj on Thursday appealed for the winter session of Parliament to be shifted to another city. He said that until Delhi's air quality improves, the winter and budget sessions of Parliament should be held in a city outside Delhi. He described Delhi's annual pollution problem as a man-made disaster. Raising the issue during Zero Hour, Mangaraj, a resident of Odisha, said that just as his state responds swiftly and disciplinedly to natural disasters, Delhi's pollution should also be addressed promptly and seriously. "I come from Odisha, which fights disasters like cyclones and floods very effectively," Mangaraj said. "But what troubles me is Delhi." The MP said that MPs, officials, drivers, sanitation workers, and security personnel have to work in toxic air every day. He said, "We cannot ignore their problems. We cannot call it normal." He argued that holding Parliament sessions every year during peak pollution hours puts people's lives.

Social innovators need to be appreciated: Sudha Murthy

New Delhi

Rajya Sabha nominated member Sudha Murthy said on Thursday that while we often laud technological achievements, true innovators who address everyday problems in society often go unrecognized. She emphasized that social innovators, who find new ways and solutions to make life easier for ordinary people, deserve equal importance and respect. Their work is directly linked to the well-being of society. Innovations like the Idli Grinder have transformed lives. Raising the issue during Zero Hour, Murthy said that innovations like the Idli Grinder have transformed lives, especially those of women, yet their inventors have largely been forgotten. She further said, "When you create a technological innovation, you are honored for your achievements, you receive awards, and people applaud, but when it comes to other achievements, people don't care." Citing global examples, Murthy cited the Japanese inventor of the QR code, who chose not to patent his innovation, making it freely available worldwide. He argued that it should be made freely available. But he did so because it was for the welfare and happiness of the many. The nominated member said that while the government has instituted several awards in various categories, from CSR recognition by the Department of Corporate Affairs to technology awards by the Department of Commerce and Industry, there is no dedicated award category for social innovation.

Assam's "Kohinoor" Superstar Garg's Mysterious Death Shakes the State

Assam

The death of Assam's iconic singer, actor and superstar Zubeen Garg continues to stir widespread outrage and suspicion nearly a month after the tragedy. Officially, his death on September 19, 2025 in Singapore was attributed to drowning, but allegations of murder and conspiracy have fueled intense public and political turmoil across the state. Multiple individuals, including Garg's manager, event organizers, and personal security staff, have been detained for questioning. On Wednesday, five accused were sent to judicial custody in Baksa District Jail, triggering large-scale protests and clashes between the police and demonstrators outside the facility. According to public sentiment, the government's handling of the case—marked by alleged manipulation, slow investigation, and attempts to shield powerful figures—has severely eroded confidence in administration. Protesters claimed that efforts are being made to suppress the truth behind the singer's mysterious death. Several post-mortem and forensic reports remain under review as various investigative agencies, including the CID, continue their probe. However, justice appears elusive, deepening frustration among the late artist's fans and the general public. The controversy has grown into a full-blown political crisis, testing the credibility of Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma's government. Observers say the case has exposed cracks in the justice system and raised serious concerns about administrative transparency in Assam. Zubeen Garg's demise has not only robbed the state of one of its most beloved cultural icons but has also ignited a movement demanding accountability and fairness. As protests intensify, calls for an independent and impartial investigation grow louder, with citizens insisting that the culprits face the strictest punishment under law.

For the first time in history, the logo for the Magh Mela has been released by the CM

Akhand Bharat Sandesh

Prayagraj. For the first time in the history of the Magh Mela, a logo has been released by the Honorable Chief Minister, reflecting the philosophical essence of the fair. This logo comprehensively depicts the pilgrimage site of Prayag, the holy land of the Sangam, and the significance of performing rituals on the sands of the Sangam during the month of Magh, as per astrological calculations. First, the presence of the 14 phases of the Sun and Moon in the logo reflects the positions of the Sun, Moon, and constellations, according to astrological calculations, which contribute to the Magh Mela in Prayagraj. According to Indian astrological calculations, the Moon completes its orbit around the 27 constellations in approximately 27.3 days. The Magh Mela is based on the intricate mathematics of these constellations' movements. When the Sun is in Capricorn and the Moon is near the constellations Maghi or Ashlesha-Purva Phalguni on the full moon day, the month of Magh is formed, and the Magh Mela is held during that period. The 14 phases of the moon are believed to be linked to human life, psychological energy, and spiritual practice. The Magh Mela is also a special period for the activation of these phases of lunar energy. The waxing moon (Shukla Paksha) from the new moon to the full moon is considered best for spiritual practice. The dates for Magh Snan are chosen based on the delicate balance of the lunar phases. The energy (Shakti) of the month of Magh is associated with discipline, devotion, and intense spiritual pursuits, as this month is considered special for activities such as bathing in holy rivers, charity, penance, and Kalpavas. Activities performed during this month make a person healthy and fill him with divine energy. The mere sight of the indestructible Akshayavat of Prayagraj, where Lord Brahma resides in its roots, Lord Vishnu in its trunk, and Lord Shiva in its branches and locks, simplifies the path to salvation. For this reason, its place among Kalpavasis is unique. According to Sanatan Dharma, the ultimate goal of human life is to attain salvation. Therefore, the image of the Mahatma reflects the Sanatan tradition in this holy land, where sages and saints have been coming for spiritual energy since time immemorial. The full benefits of worship and Kalpavas performed during the month of Magh are achieved by seeing the reclining Hanuman after bathing in the Sangam. Therefore, the presence of his temple and flag on the Sangam signifies the completeness of the penance performed during the Magh Mela. The presence of Siberian birds at the Sangam reflects the uniqueness of the environment here. The verse on the logo, "Maghe nimajjanam yatra papam pariharet tatah," means that bathing in the month of Magh frees one from all sins. This logo was designed by Ajay Saxena and Pragalbh Ajay, design consultants engaged by the Mela Authority.

Tharoor was embroiled in controversy

Power is in the words. Language has mystical powers. I enjoy playing with words. Those words are hot. You can be moved to tears by words. You can find humor in words. Moreover, there are few things that can convey the planet and all its inhabitants as vividly and comprehensively as words. During the 2009 austerity drive of the Congress-led UPA administration, Tharoor was embroiled in controversy for his response to a query regarding flying "cattle class" to Kerala. His statement, "Absolutely, in cattle class out of solidarity with all our holy cows!" caused a political storm following his response. Tharoor, an accomplished writer of numerous best-selling books on Indian society and politics, was forced to clarify that he did not want to offend economy class passengers after the Congress party swiftly censured him. After 16 years, Tharoor is now again in trouble for comments he made in an interview. In response to a Malayalam report that he had claimed, "We have many leaders, but many feel that there are no ordinary workers," Tharoor clarified that he had really said, "several workers feel there is an absence of a leader in Kerala's Congress." "You should not think that I have no option to spend my time. I have options," Tharoor added earlier in the interview. I have speeches, books, and invitations to speak all around the globe. Some saw his comments as a covert signal to the highest levels of Congress that he was thinking about other political paths. Amidst the upcoming Assembly elections in the state next year, Tharoor is now facing accusations of "crossing the line" from the top leaders of the Congress's faction-ridden Kerala unit, putting him in the center of a maelstrom. Because of this, Shashi Tharoor has been named this week's ThePrint Newsmaker. Actually, Tharoor's essay praising the new industrial policies of the Left-led Kerala government had already been a hot topic before the interview controversy erupted. Tharoor had stated that, during the course of 18 months last year, Kerala's startup ecosystem was valued at an astounding $1.7 billion, which is five times higher than the worldwide average for the same time period. While the fact that this change has started happening under an LDF government run by communists is shocking, it is not totally unexpected. "The path to growth and prosperity for their people lies in capitalism, entrepreneurship, and initiative, not in red flags, strikes, and agitations," he said in the post, comparing the Communists in Kerala to their West Bengali counterparts at the turn of the century. While he disagrees that the state's industrial climate has changed generally, Tharoor defended himself by saying that "when something good emerges, even if only in one area, it is petty not to acknowledge it" in response to attacks from Kerala Congress officials over the piece. Tharoor, a former UN diplomat, has had a tumultuous political career with the Congress since his 2009 victory in the Lok Sabha elections from the Thiruvananthapuram constituency. Mostly because he had a habit of saying things that went against the party line. However, he consistently gets himself into problems by more than simply his words. In 2009, as the UPA was implementing its austerity measures, Tharoor and then-External Affairs Minister SM Krishna came under fire from the government for allegedly residing in a five-star hotel in Delhi while their official quarters were still being prepared. Tharoor lost his position in the Manmohan Singh government's council of ministers in 2010 due to the scandal surrounding the sweat equity provided to Sunanda Pushkar, his then-girlfriend and later-wife, by a consortium that owned the Kochi club of the Indian Premier League. His ordination as a junior minister was renewed in 2012. Tharoor was thrust into his gravest professional crisis in January 2014, when Pushkar was discovered dead in a luxurious Delhi hotel room—months prior to the Lok Sabha elections.

Has Trump Abandoned Ukraine In Favour Of Russia?

Donald Trump has spent only a month in his second term as the US President. However, he has disrupted the international order, weakened the Western alliance and created a sense of insecurity and uncertainty among its members, surprising even some of his supporters. There has been a paradigm shift in US foreign policy under Trump. He is now closer to Moscow than Washington's traditional allies. He has embraced the Kremlin's narrative on Ukraine and has sidelined US allies. Although senior members of the Trump administration have denied that the US has abandoned Kyiv and ignored its European allies, Trump himself has not made any serious attempts to pacify Ukrainians and Europeans. His closeness to Russia has been on display since he talked for 90 minutes on the phone with Russian leader Vladimir Putin, in which they agreed to start negotiations to end the Ukraine war, which will mark its third anniversary on Monday. Trump did speak to Zelenskyy soon after that call with Putin, but a nervous Ukrainian President warned that excluding his country from the talks would be "very dangerous". Events after that only made Ukrainians feel sidelined. Trump's Vice President, JD Vance, met European leaders in Munich two days later. But his comment that Europe will not be included in the peace talks only helped fuelled the speculation that they were being left out of the future of Ukraine, which is closer to their homes and in which they have invested a lot of money and effort since the Russian invasion. Vance's meeting with Zelenskyy did not go well either as the Ukrainian leader refused to give access to the country's vast reserves of critical minerals unless he was given security guarantees. That angered Washington. Ending the Russia-Ukraine war was Trump's major campaign promise. But hardly anyone expected him to brazenly take Russia's side and even blame Ukraine for the conflict, which he did. Last Tuesday, a US delegation led by Secretary of State Marco Rubio met the Russian delegation headed by Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov in Saudi Arabia, to discuss peace. Ukraine was not invited. Putin—who had been shunned by the US and its allies since the invasion of Ukraine—was delighted. A frustrated Zelenskyy dismissed the Riyadh talks as worthless. Trump did not like those comments and called the Ukraine President a dictator, even accusing him of starting the war. Zelenskyy said the US President was living in a Russian-made "disinformation space". This infuriated Trump, who does not take kindly to any criticism. He described Zelenskyy as "a modestly successful comedian" who "talked the United States of America into spending $350 Billion, to go into a War that couldn't be won, that never had to start, but a War that he, without the U.S. and 'TRUMP,' will never be able to settle." Trump's behaviour towards Zelenskyy is in stark contrast to Biden's, who had backed Ukraine against Russia with all the possible military and financial aid. President Biden travelled to Ukraine many times since the Russian invasion in February 2022 to display his administration's full support. He also promised NATO membership to Ukraine at a future date. Russia was severely punished for invading Ukraine. The US joined hands with its allies to isolate Moscow. Russia faced tough sanctions and its assets in the West were seized. The International Criminal Court issued an arrest warrant against Putin for alleged war crimes in Ukraine. There were even plans to put Putin and his close allies on Nuremberg-style trials. Until a year ago, Ukraine's leader was talking about even liberating all its territory, including Crimea, which Russia annexed in 2014, with the help of Western military equipment. Ukraine even succeeded in occupying the Russian territory of Kursk, which it had thought would be used as a bargaining chip during negotiations with Moscow. But all that now looks like a distant dream. With Trump back in the White House, Ukraine fears that Russia will be allowed to keep all the occupied territory as part of the deal to end the war. Kyiv is now likely to be denied NATO membership. That could be a promise to Russia to end the war. The US under Trump has now even opposed calling Russia an aggressor in a G-7 statement being prepared to mark the third anniversary of the war. The US team removed the phrase from the first draft, which was prepared by Canada, the current holder of the group's presidency. It is not just Ukraine, America's European allies are also now nervous about the intent of Trump. Since the Second World War, they enjoyed the US security umbrella under NATO. But now they are unsure if the US under Trump will honour Article 5 of the NATO, which is triggered when a member state comes under attack. It implies that an attack on one member is an attack on all. There is even fear in Europe that Donald Trump may sign a deal with the Russian leader Vladimir Putin that will lead to the withdrawal of US forces from Baltic states and effectively kill the NATO alliance. That could be similar to the non-aggression treaty signed by the Soviet Union and Nazi Germany on August 23, 1939, sending shockwaves to other European countries and prompting Hitler and Stalin to annex neighbouring countries. It is another matter that Hitler invaded the Soviet Union two years later, putting an end to the treaty. European members of NATO may call themselves major powers, but they can't match Russia's military might without US support. Even after losing more than a hundred thousand men and lots of military equipment in the Ukraine conflict, Moscow remains a strong power, mainly because of its nuclear arsenal. So Why Has Trump Changed The Narrative? Trump has always been an admirer of strongmen like Putin. Even during his first term, he developed a rapport with him. He also dislikes Zelenskyy, whom he sees as more of a roadblock in ending the Ukraine conflict. As a former businessman, Trump sees things from the perspective of profitable deals. Western sanctions have hit Russia, but American companies have also suffered business losses, running into billions of dollars. He would like to reverse that. And despite Ukraine's resistance, Trump believes Zelenskyy will have to give access to critical minerals in return for any future US support. Some in the Trump administration suggest Kyiv should provide Americans with those minerals in return for the US military and financial aid already received by Ukraine. Trump has blamed European leaders for not doing enough to end the Ukraine war. He has also complained for a long time that Europe has lived off the US for too long and it must pay for its security. Europeans have increased their defence budgets but not enough to survive without US support.

The Hindutva Pitch of the BJP

Rather than a rising embrace of the BJP, observers pointed out that Bihar was shifting away from the Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) led by Lalu Yadav owing to fears of his previous misrule. North Bihar is still firmly under the control of the NDA, and yatras, which were once used to communalize politics, have not been very successful. The Hindu Swabhimana Yatra, which Union Minister Giriraj Singh attempted last year but was unable to launch, is a prime example. In this context, many questioned whether Modi was in Bihar trying to test the ideological limits of the BJP. "Those who believe in jungle raj hate our heritage and our faith," he said, slamming the opposition for "abusing" the current of Unity. He stressed that more individuals had bathed at the Kumbh than lived in Europe. Anyone who finds fault with the Ram temple will seize the chance to criticize the Maha Kumbh. He made it clear that someone who disrespects the Maha Kumbh would never be forgiven in Bihar. Lalu Prasad Yadav caused a stir last week when he criticized the , claiming that it was "meaningless" and placing the responsibility on the Railways for the 18 lives lost in the stampede. The people who disagreed with Maha Kumbh weren't limited to him either. In addition, Akhilesh Yadav, leader of the Samajwadi Party (SP), offered Yogi Adityanath and himself a book based on a Harvard University research on Kumbh Mela management that they had commissioned in 2013.

The opposition has brought up the problems of the January 29 stampede, the filthy water, and the enormous number of worshippers at the Mela on multiple occasions. Mamata Banerjee, chief minister of West Bengal, used the moniker "Mrityu Kumbh" to emphasize the gravity of the events. Despite the Opposition's nasty campaign, devoted Hindus were unconvinced. In spite of all the negative feedback, a staggering 62 crore people made the journey to the Sangam to take a sacred dip, proving once and for all the spiritual importance of Maha Kumbh.

The trinity that failed women at Maha Kumbh. Holy, unholy, and the algorithm Aasavage irony is unfolding in Uttar Pradesh right now. India's holiest gathering is a hunting ground for faceless remote predators. At the "once in 144 years" underway in Prayagraj, where millions congregate to wash away their sins in the Ganga, an unholy alliance of voyeurs, traders, and technology has formed. They're transforming purification into portable entertainment. What's on sale? The privacy and bodily integrity of women devotees. And the price? Anywhere between Rs 800 and Rs 2,000, depending on the quality of violation. Indian women have been failed, yet again, by a new trinity: The holy, the unholy, and the algorithm. Last week, 13 FIRs were lodged against 140 social media accounts for posting objectionable videos of women, including those of female devotees taking a dip at the Kumbh. The bathing videos came to light during a separate investigation by the Ahmedabad Cyber Crime Police into videos sourced from a Rajkot hospital's gynaecology department. The investigation revealed that the three accused—Prajwal Taili, Praj Patil, and Chandraprakash Phoolchand—ran at least 22 Telegram channels where they sold clips of women, recorded and traded without their consent. The three men, a YouTuber from Prayagraj and two NEET aspirants from Maharashtra, ran their enterprise under an innocuous name "Megha Demos Group". The channels, with labels like "CCTV Injection Group", "Labor Room Injection Group", and "Ganga River Open Bathing Group", turned these transgressions into a menu of options.

"Disturbingly, some content featured covert recordings from hospital labour rooms, medical examinations, and public areas like bus stands, marriage halls, and parlours," cyber crime officers told The Times of India. This lucrative venture raked in Rs 8 lakh a year. To the credit of UP Police, their social media monitoring team has moved swiftly, and identified 15 more accounts across Facebook, YouTube, and Instagram participating in this ecosystem of exploitation. The state government has now banned cameras at bathing ghats, deploying CRPF and state police personnel to enforce this prohibition. In 2019 too, the Allahabad High Court had banned the publishing of photos and videos of women at the Kumbh Mela: "The court said no pictures of women bathing or taking a holy dip should be shared. It also warned that action would be taken if the order was broken. This rule applies to both print and visual media." This violation and commodification of women's bodies at the Maha Kumbh represents a betrayal across three interconnected spheres. It's not as if Indian women are unfamiliar with such trespasses—that's our daily reality. But the Kumbh videos expose a particularly perverse intersection of faith, trade, and technology. First, there is the sacred:

In a space of spiritual liberation, the crowd provides both cover and target for predators. Elaborate systems.

at Indian temples and other places of worship prevent photography to protect idols and deities. Those regulations don't extend to the bodies of women who show up at these sites. Then comes the betrayal by the profane, a carefully constructed marketplace where every assault is catalogued, priced, and traded. What's most chilling about the Kumbh videos is the clinical efficiency of their distribution. The "Megha Demos Group" operated with the precision of a tech startup, complete with a freemium business model. Finally, there is the betrayal by technology,

Muslims want waqf reforms too. It's not an issue for political acrimony

When the Waqf Amendment Bill 2024 was first tabled in the Lok Sabha on 8 August last year, it triggered fears within the Muslim community, as it was perceived to have been introduced without adequate consultation with stakeholders. After all, the issue of waqfs—Muslim institutions through which property is bequeathed for religious or charitable purposes—is sensitive because it involves socio-religious spaces such as qabristans, masjids, idgahs, and madrasas. As such, the government and Parliament were exhorted to adopt procedures that allayed rather than stoked the fears of Muslims. In this backdrop, the decision to refer the bill to a joint committee of both Houses of Parliament was welcome. The 31-member committee, drawn from across party lines, received 97,27,772 memoranda overall. There were representations from various ministries and departments—including Minority Affairs, Law and Justice, Railways, Housing and Urban Affairs, Road Transport, and Culture (Archaeological Survey of India)—as well as state waqf boards and experts, ensuring a diversity of opinions. It is not entirely correct to state that waqf reforms are being externally foisted. Rather, to a large extent, the demand for waqf reforms has emerged from within the Muslim community also. The Ministry of Minority Affairs received numerous complaints from Muslims on the maladministration of waqf properties, which manifested in voluminous litigations. The ministry's analysis of grievances received from April 2023 found that 148 complaints pertained mostly to encroachments, illegal sales of waqf land, delays in surveys and registration, and complaints against waqf boards and mutawallis.

SC rules Aadhaar isn't proof of citizenship

Delhi : The Supreme Court rejected political parties' request for EC to accept Aadhaar cards as standalone proof of citizenship to enroll people in the Bihar voter list prepared after special intensive revision (SIR) and said Aadhaar's status cannot be enhanced beyond the law. Justices Surya Kant and Joymalya Bagchi said "Aadhaar will be one of the documents for verification" after previously saying it could be an identity document along with other EC-specified documents for voter list enrolment. The bench replied to RJD counsel Prashant Bhushan's claim that EC is not adopting Aadhaar as a solitary evidence of identification for the 65 lakh names removed from the draft voter list notwithstanding the court's orders: "We cannot elevate Aadhaar beyond the Aadhaar Act. We cannot exceed what a five-judge court said in Puttaswamy while supporting Aadhaar". Aadhaar Act Section 9 states: "The Aadhaar number or the authentication thereof shall not, by itself, confer any right of, or be proof of, citizenship or domicile in respect of an Aadhaar number holder."

Time names person of '25

"Architects of AI" were named Time magazine's person of the year for 2025 on Thursday. The magazine cited 2025 as the year when the potential of AI "roared into view" with no turning back. "To deliver the age of thinking machines, for wowing and worrying humanity, to transform the present and transcending the possible, the Architects of AI are TIME's 2025 Person of the Year." The magazine was deliberate in selecting people - the "individuals who imagined, designed, and built AI" - rather than the technology itself, though there would have been some precedent for that. "We've named not just individuals but also groups, more women than our founders could have imagined (though still not enough), and, on rare occasions, a concept: the endangered earth, in 1988, or the personal computer, in 1982," wrote Sam Jacobs, the editor-in-chief, in an explanation of the choice. "The drama surrounding the selection of the PC over Apple's Steve Jobs later became the stuff of books and a movie."

US has seized oil tanker off Venezuela: Trump

WASHINGTON

President Donald Trump said on Wednesday the US has seized an oil tanker off the coast of Venezuela as tensions mount with the government of President Nicolás Maduro.

Using US forces to take control of a merchant ship is incredibly unusual and marks the Trump administration's latest push to increase pressure on Maduro, who has been charged with narco-terrorism in the US.

The US has built up the largest military presence in the region in decades and launched a series of deadly strikes on alleged drug-smuggling boats in the Caribbean Sea and eastern Pacific Ocean. The campaign is facing growing scrutiny from Congress.

"We've just seized a tanker on the coast of Venezuela — a large tanker, very large, largest one ever seized, actually," Trump told reporters at the White House, later adding, "It was seized for a very good reason."

Trump did not offer additional details. When asked what would happen to the oil aboard the tanker, Trump said, "Well, we keep it, I guess."

The seizure was led by the US Coast Guard and supported by the Navy, a US official said requesting anonymity. The official added it was

MADURO GOVT DID NOT KNOW WHERE I WAS HIDING: MACHADO

Oslo (Norway): Opposition leader María Corina Machado said on Thursday she doesn't believe the Venezuelan government knew where she was hiding for most of this year, as she met Norway's leader a day after her daughter received the Nobel Peace Prize on her behalf.

Machado arrived in Oslo hours after Wednesday's prize ceremony and made her first public appearance in 11 months early on Thursday, emerging from a hotel balcony and waving to an emotional crowd of supporters. She had been in hiding since January 9, when she was briefly detained after joining supporters in a protest in Caracas.

On Thursday morning, Machado was received by Norwegian PM Jonas Gahr Støre, who said his country is ready to support a democratic Venezuela in "building new and sound institutions." Whether the Venezuelan government might have known her whereabouts since January, Machado told reporters: "I don't think they have known where I have been, and certainly they would have done everything to stop me from coming here."

The 58-year-old didn't give details of how she got to Norway but thanked "all those men and women that risked their lives so I could be here today."

She said, "We decided to fight to the end and Venezuela will be free" and, if Maduro's government is still in place when she returns, "certainly I will be with my people and they will not know where I am. We have ways to do that and take care of us." —AP

VENEZUELA REACTS

Venezuela's government said the seizure "constitutes a blatant theft and an act of international piracy."

"Under these circumstances, the true reasons for the prolonged aggression against Venezuela have finally been revealed. It has always been about our natural resources, our oil, our energy, the resources that belong exclusively to the Venezuelan people," it said.

US prez launches Gold Card It's shame students have to go back to India, China after graduating: POTUS

NEW YORK/WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump announced the launch of a million-dollar "Gold Card" offering a pathway for immigrants to US citizenship, saying it is a "shame" that students from India and China have to go back to home countries. The Trump Gold Card announced on Wednesday is a visa based upon an individual's ability to provide a substantial benefit to the US.

"It is a gift of getting somebody great coming into our country, because we think these will be some tremendous people that wouldn't be allowed to stay," Trump said during a roundtable in the White House.

Trump added students graduate from college, "you have to go back to India, they have to go back to China, they have to go back to France. They have to go back to where ever they came from. Very hard to stay. It's a shame," Flanked by IBM's Indian-American CEO Arvind Krishna and Dell Technologies CEO Michael Dell, Trump announced the Gold Card website is live and companies can "buy" the Gold Card to keep the students they hire

'Colombia prez Petro could be next target'

US President Donald Trump has renewed his threats against his Colombian counterpart, Gustavo Petro, warning the South American leader could be the next target for his anti-drug campaign.

On Wednesday, at a White House roundtable with business leaders, one reporter asked Trump if he had spoken to Petro. That touched off a fiery response from the Republican leader.

"I haven't really thought too much about him. He's been fairly hostile to the US," Trump began, before going on the offensive. "He's going to have himself some big problems if he doesn't wise up," Trump continued.

"Colombia is producing a lot of drugs. They have cocaine factories. They make cocaine, as you know, and they sell it right into the United States. So he better wise up, or he'll be next. He'll be next. I hope he's listening. He's going to be next because we don't like people when they kill people."

US DEF BILL PASSED

The US House voted to pass a sweeping defence policy bill that authorises $900 billion in military programmes, including a pay raise for troops and an overhaul of how the Dept of Defence buys weapons.

The bills passage comes at a time of increasing friction between the Republican-controlled Congress and Trump administration over the management of the military.

Open AI, Microsoft face death lawsuit

Victim's kin says chatbots played a role in US woman's murder-suicide

SAN FRANCISCO

The heirs of an 83-year-old Connecticut woman are suing ChatGPT maker OpenAI and its business partner Microsoft for wrongful death, alleging the artificial intelligence chatbot intensified her son's "paranoid delusions" and helped direct them at his mother before he killed her.

Police said Stein-Erik Soelberg, 56, a former tech industry worker, fatally beat up and strangled his mother, Suzanne Adams, and killed himself in early August at the home where they both lived in Greenwich, Connecticut.

The lawsuit by Adams' estate on Thursday in California Superior Court in San Francisco alleges OpenAI "designed and distributed a defective product that validated a user's paranoid delusions about his own mother." It is one of a growing number of wrongful death legal actions against AI chatbot makers across the country.

"Throughout these conversations, ChatGPT reinforced a single, dangerous message: Stein-Erik could trust no one in his life — except ChatGPT itself," the lawsuit says.

"It fostered his emotional dependence while systematically painting the people around him as enemies. It told him his mother was surveilling him. It told him delivery drivers, retail employees, cops, and friends were agents working against him. It told him that names on soda cans were threats from his adversary circle." OpenAI did not address the merits of the allegations in a statement.

'Unless he changes course, Trump will be president that lost India'

... chased closely away, says Dem lawmaker

NEW YORK/WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump's policies towards India are doing "real and lasting damage" to the strategic trust and mutual understanding, a top US lawmaker has said, underlining that Washington must move with "incredible urgency" to mitigate the damage done to bilateral ties.

"...Unless he changes course, Trump will be the American President that lost India, or more accurately, that chased India away while revitalising the Russian Empire, while breaking up the Transatlantic Alliance and menacing Latin America. That is not a legacy any president should be excited about having," Democratic Congresswoman

Beauty pageant star's killing: Hubby charged

Woman was chopped, 'pureed'

The husband of a former Miss Switzerland finalist has been charged with her murder, Swiss authorities announced on Wednesday. The 43-year-old, named Thomas under Swiss privacy laws, is accused of strangling his wife, Kristina Joksimovic, 38, before dismembering her and attempting to dispose of her remains inside their home in Binningen in February 2024.

The model's body was cut apart with a jigsaw knife and garden shears, according to the autopsy report and court documents. Investigators say Thomas removed her womb, the only organ taken from her torso, before chopping parts of her body with an industrial blender. Officials said remains were "pureed" and dissolved in a chemical solution.

Police recovered the blender, as well as skin flaps with muscle tissue attached and bone fragments, "The Telegraph" reported. Court documents say Thomas was watching YouTube videos on phone while dismembering his wife.

Nigerian kids reunite with parents after being freed from abduction

Papiri: Several parents welcomed the return late on Tuesday night of their children, who were abducted last month when gunmen stormed their school. "It has not been easy for me... But today, in fact, I have a little bit of joy, especially because there is still one abducted. But I am now happy with this one that I have gotten," Luka Illaya, one of the parents in the hall, told AP. One of his sons was released, while another remains with the abductors.

His son, who hugged him tightly, is one of the 100 students released over the weekend after they were abducted from a Nigerian Catholic school on November 21. The Papiri school abductions, where over 300 students and staff were taken, was the latest in a string of mass abductions that have rocked Nigeria in the past decade. Days earlier, 25 students were also abducted in nearby Kebbi state.

The government did not release any details about the released Papiri students and the fate of at least 150 other children and staff who remain in captivity. Fifty of the students escaped in the hours following the abductions.

Airstrike on hospital kills 34, injures 80 in Myanmar

Bangkok: An airstrike by Myanmar's military destroyed a hospital in an area controlled by a leading rebel armed force, killing 34 patients and medical staff, as per a rescue worker and reports on Thursday.

About 80 people were injured in the attack on Wednesday night on the general hospital in Mrauk-U township, an area controlled by the ethnic Arakan Army in the western state of Rakhine.

The ruling military has not announced news of any attack. Wai Hun Aung, a senior official for rescue services in Rakhine, told AP a jet fighter dropped two bombs at 9.13pm with one hitting the hospital's recovery ward and the other landing near the hospital's main building.

PIO held in Canada for flashing lady docs

A 25-year-old Indian-origin man has been taken into custody in Canada after being accused of exposing himself to female staff including doctors at multiple medical facilities in Mississauga, according to Peel Regional Police (PRP).

Investigators allege Vaibhav repeatedly attended clinics after pretending to suffer from medical issues, to prompt inappropriate physical contact from women doctors.

Police say the incidents occurred at several locations over several months in 2025. Confirming the arrest, PRP said, "The 12 Division Criminal Investigations Bureau has arrested and charged a Brampton man in an indecent act probe."

Authorities allege the accused exposed himself to female clinic staff and, on some occasions, used a false identity when interacting with doctors.

Rajinikanth: The man behind the star

'Rajini' sir would speak to us in Marathi'

On Rajinikanth's 75th birthday, actress Shilpa Shirodkar shared her memories and thoughts about working with the legend in the masala blockbuster Hum, which released in 1991

Today marks superstar Rajinikanth's 75th birthday. He has completed over five decades in the industry and is known for his unique mannerisms and cult fan following. He has been honoured with the Padma Bhushan, Padma Vibhushan, Dadasaheb Phalke Award, and the IFFI Satyajit Ray Lifetime Achievement Award, to name a few. Predominantly known for his films in Tamil cinema, he made his Bollywood debut with Andhaa Kanoon in 1983.

To mark his 75 years, we spoke to actress Shilpa Shirodkar, who acted with him in the blockbuster Hum (1991). The film had an ensemble cast comprising Amitabh Bachchan, Govinda, Kimi Katkar, Deepa Sahi, Danny Denzongpa, Anupam Kher, and Kader Khan, and is known for its chartbuster Jumma Chumma De De. Hum is about a dockworker who overthrows a gangster but has to run away to make a new life for himself and his brothers. Fifteen years later, his past catches up with him as his old enemy resurfaces.

Shilpa's memories from the sets of Hum

"I remember we were shooting in Mauritius, and my mother and I were the only two Marathi people on set. We would all meet down in the common area for breakfast before leaving for the day's shoot. Every single morning, he would make a point of asking us: 'Kashi aahat? Bari aahat na?' (How are you? You are fine, right?) in fluent Marathi. It used to feel so beautiful because you simply don't expect that level of personal touch from a legend and superstar like Rajini Sir. He was always so respectful, making sure to ask if we had eaten and ensuring everyone on set felt cared for. I never once saw him differentiate between people based on status or designation; his kindness was universal.

Even more touchingly, when I had an accident on the set of Hum and was unable to walk for over 10 days, he personally made sure that doctors came to check on me regularly. These are the special little things—the humility, the respect, the genuine care—that truly define the amazing person he is."

Working with Rajinikanth in Hum

"Honestly, sharing the screen with Rajini Sir was so much fun. He has this incredible, almost childlike energy, and he's genuinely the most grounded person you'll ever meet. It felt less like working with 'The Superstar' and more like collaborating with a really kind, humble colleague."

Tinnu Anand reveals unheard personal incident

Actor Tinnu Anand was supposed to make a film with Rajinikanth called Shanaakht (1988), which got shelved. He reveals why and shares Rajinikanth's humbleness

Wanting to uncover unheard stories about Rajinikanth, we reached out to ace actor-director Tinnu Anand to share memories of the superstar, especially regarding the shelved film Shanaakht (1988), which also starred Amitabh Bachchan and Madhuri Dixit. Anand revealed a never-before-shared fact:

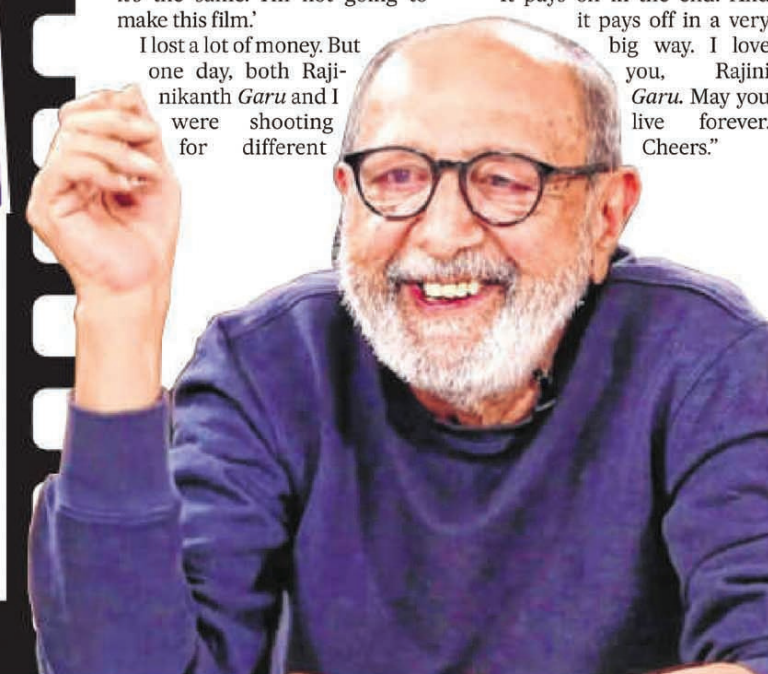

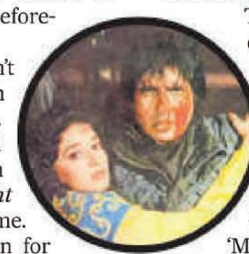

"I mean, I just don't have words enough to praise this man. Yes, I was supposed to do a film with him called Shanaakht (1988), directed by me. He had come down for the Mahurat with Amitabh, Madhavi, and Madhuri Dixit. I shot for five days with Amitabh in RK Studios, and then I went off to see Gangaa Jamuna Saraswathi (1988), first day, first show. And then I found out that the story was very similar to mine. Mine was full of action, but the romantic part of the film with Amitabh was the same. So I went to Amitabh and said, 'What is this? How come the story is the same? And you never told me?' He said, 'But yours is action.' I said, 'No, but the romantic angle is exactly the same. A man has lost his memory, a girl falls in love with him, but he's already married; he doesn't know. I said, it's the same. I'm not going to make this film.'

I lost a lot of money. But one day, both Rajinikanth Garu and I were shooting for different films at the same studio. He sent word that he'd like to meet me. I said, 'Don't tell him to come, I'll come to his makeup room.' We met, and he asked me, 'What happened to that film? You have never come back for dates.' I had given him a signing amount. I said, 'I've dropped the film, sir.' He was shocked. He said, 'Why? How come you spent so much money on your shoot?' I said, 'Yes, that's a loss. But anyway, I can't carry on losing money on a script which has already been made.'

Then his secretary came later in the evening and asked, 'Sir, will you be home tonight?' I said, 'Yeah, I'm going straight home.' Around 9 pm, the bell rang, and the secretary said, 'Mr. Rajinikanth has come. He'd like to meet you.' Rajinikanth came and said very soberly, 'You're not making the film. But I promise you I'll give you dates on another film. But right now I cannot carry this money. This is like a load on me.' He asked if it was cash or a check. I said, 'A check.' He said, 'Okay, I'll write a check and return the money.' I literally started crying. Here was a man who stands very tall, with great integrity, love for his profession, and love for the people he works with. This was Mr. Rajinikanth Garu. I always tip my hat, bow my head in front of him. A great man. His stardom exists because of this humbleness.

It pays off in the end. And it pays off in a very big way. I love you, Rajini Garu. May you live forever. Cheers."

De Kock lifts up South Africa

MULLANPUR

Quinton de Kock made an effortless 90 of 46 balls, firing South Africa to a challenging 213 for four in the second T20 International against India here on Thursday. Tilak Varma played a lone hand for India with 62 in 34 balls but it wasn't enough on the day. India managed 162 all-out in 19.1 overs, losing by 51 runs. The five-match T20I series is now level at 1-1.

Chasing a mammoth 214, India lost Shubman Gill for a duck and Abhishek Sharma (17) also followed soon. The hosts kept losing wickets at regular intervals. Varma kept hopes alive with breezy partnerships with Hardik Pandya (20) and Jitesh Sharma (27).

But the required rate crept well over 20 and beyond reach of Indian batters. Otniel Baartman finished with 4 for 24 including three in his last over. Marco Jansen (2/24) had the prize scalps of Abhishek and Indian skipper Suryakumar Yadav while Lutho Sipamla and Lungi Ngidi also scalped two wickets each.

When in full flow, De Kock is among the most attractive batters in the game and he flaunted his special skills on a true pitch. He was mainly dealing in sixes in the middle and majority of his seven maximums came in the deep square leg region.

De Kock, who recently reversed his ODI retirement and was not sure about his T20 future post the World Cup last year, is back with a renewed purpose and remains on top of his game.

An innings like this just less than a week before the mini auction will also create the buzz among the franchises, who might indulge in a bidding war for the multi-skilled cricketer.

It was a no brainer that India decided to put South Africa in to bat after winning a rare toss. Arshdeep Singh, who had De Kock caught behind in the series opener, was at the receiving end on Thursday. De Kock began the assault with a pick up shot for six off Arshdeep before pulling the left-arm pacer for a maximum over deep mid-wicket.

Jasprit Bumrah too conceded 16 runs in his second over after being disdainfully pulled for six by Reeza Hendricks. The right-hander missed a skidder from Varun Chakravathy in the following over to give India a welcome breakthrough but De Kock maintained the pressure on the opposition, taking his team to 53-1 in the powerplay.

Brought back into the attack in 11th over, Arshdeep lost his usual calm under pressure after being smashed for a six down the ground by De Kock. The Indian pacer tried to bowl wide yorkers from thereon but failed miserably and ended up bowling as many as seven wides in a 18-run over.

Suryavanshi star attraction in U-19 Asia Cup

Will ICC urge BCCI to revisit 'no handshake' policy with Pakistan?

DUBAI

India's Asia Cup U-19 campaign will be fronted by Gen Z batting sensations Vaibhav Suryavanshi and Ayush Mhatre, but equal focus would be on whether the BCCI allows the youngsters to exchange handshakes with their Pakistani counterparts, in what would be construed as maintaining sporting civility at the junior level.

While the India U-19 side, under the able leadership of dashing Mumbai and CSK opener Mhatre start its campaign against UAE on Friday, it is the match against Pakistan on Sunday that will certainly gain the most traction in the junior continental championship seen as a dress rehearsal for the World Cup early next year.

In the senior men's Asia Cup, followed by the Women's ODI World Cup and Rising Stars Asia Cup T20 tournament, Indian players have refused to shake hands with Pakistani players as a mark of solidarity with the Indian Army and victims of the Pahalgam terror attack.

However, when it comes to the U-19 cricketers, it is believed that even the ICC wants politics to be kept away from it and the normal protocol of sportsman spirit should be adhered to.

"The boys haven't been told anything. But obviously BCCI has given explicit instructions to its manager Anand Datar. Now if Indian boys don't shake hands with Pakistan team then match referee will have to be informed in advance.

"We know for a fact that ICC doesn't want politics to take front seat when it comes to junior cricket. So it is a case of both bad optics and public sentiment," a BCCI official in the know of things told PTI on the condition of anonymity.

As far as the tournament is concerned, India and Pakistan are almost sure to qualify for the semi-finals as the top two teams from group A. Apart from India and Pakistan, the other two sides are Malaysia and UAE, and they don't have a lot of experience of playing 50 over cricket.

Both Suryavanshi and skipper Mhatre are coming into the tournament following a great run of form in the ongoing Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy. While Mhatre played a massive role in the group league stages with back-to-back centuries and a fifty, Suryavanshi became the youngest player in SMAT history to hit a century, against Maharashtra. In India's squad of 15, these are two boys, who have played more than 30 senior level games across the three formats and cumulatively scored nine centuries.

That, in fact, is the most number of senior level centuries when all the other seven teams are combined and it does make India the runaway favourites.

Two Indian origin players named in Aus WC squad Two Indian origin players -- Aryan Sharma and John James -- have been named in Australia's 15-member squad for the men's U-19 World Cup scheduled to be held in Namibia and Zimbabwe from January 15 to February 6.

Aryan, a handy batter and slow left-arm spinner, and James, a right-arm medium pace all-rounder, were both part of the squad that played against India in the youth Tests and one-dayers in September. Besides cricketers of Indian heritage, the squad

AIFF AGM

Amend commercially restrictive clauses: ISL Clubs

Twelve Indian Super League (ISL) clubs on Thursday urged the All India Football Federation (AIFF) to amend the "commercially restrictive" clauses of its constitution during the Annual General Meeting (AGM) on December 20, in another reminder that the domestic game may collapse if immediate steps are not taken.

All the ISL teams, except for East Bengal, said the AIFF should transfer the long-term rights of the top-tier league to the clubs if the national federation is unable to bring the necessary amendments or provide a commercially viable framework.

"...the AIFF should either expressly support removal of commercially restrictive clauses in the Constitution, or itself undertake these amendments at the forthcoming AGM on 20 December 2025," the clubs wrote in a letter to the AIFF President Kalyan Chaubey. "Thereafter, the federation along with the support of the Government and the Clubs proceed to transparently identify an appropriate commercial partner.

"If the AIFF is unwilling or unable to support the necessary amendments or provide a commercially viable framework for the league, then the only logical solution is for the Federation to transfer the long-term rights of the league to the Clubs."

Thursday's letter from the ISL clubs came after a mis-sive a few days back in which they had asked the AIFF to consider a framework under which they (the ISL clubs) may collectively form a consortium to own/operate the league as majority owners, alongside the national federation and aligned investors in case a suitable commercial partner is not found.

A recent tender floated by the AIFF for the commercial rights of the ISL could not find any bidder.

"Clubs must have commercial flexibility, including the ability to attract sponsors, investors, and long-term partners.
